

OREGON CITY LOCKS NOW CAN BE PUT IN FIRST-CLASS SHAPE

Money on Hand and That Expected in Next Bill Sufficient for Needs.

LOCKS EXISTING PROJECT

From Economic View Engineers Are Prepared to Recommend Additional Sum to Insure Good Job.

Washington, Jan. 4.—(WASH. BUREAU OF THE JOURNAL.)—With the money on hand from the last appropriation and with $80,000 more which it is believed will be given in the next rivers and harbors act, the locks at Oregon City, Or., will be put in first-class condition for all boats that navigate the river above Portland.

Uncertainty as to $80,000. The additional $80,000 has been a subject of some doubt, because of uncertainty as to whether it would be viewed as expenditure on an existing project or be classed as new work. If it fell into the latter classification, difficulties might be expected in securing an appropriation.

At a recent conference with the board of army engineers (Congressman Hawley received assurances that the $80,000 needed is viewed as properly part of the present locks improvement act, and a statement to that effect before the house committee is expected to be all that will be needed to secure inclusion of this estimate in the bill.

When the locks were purchased by the government the state contributed $300,000 and the national government a like sum. About $500 of the government's money was consumed in the survey and settlement of the site, leading to a joint fund of $500,000. The locks cost $275,000, leaving $225,000 for rehabilitation and improvement.

Work has been proceeding with $200,000 was spent last fiscal year on the dividing wall between the government and private property.

Tidy Sum Remains. At the beginning of the present fiscal year $100,000 remained of the original appropriation, and it is estimated that this sum and $80,000 more will complete the improvement as it ought to be. This calls for completion of the dividing wall, general repairs, lowering the sill of the lower lock five and one-half feet, putting in seven new gates at $5000 each, and widening and raising the intake at the upper end of the locks.

It is recognized by the engineers that the placing of the new gates without lowering the sills would be a wasteful procedure, for the fitting over the present sills large expense would be involved in lowering them later on.

In view of these facts the engineers are prepared to recommend the additional $80,000 as a necessary part of the existing project, carrying out the original intent as to the improvement of the locks and the work that will accommodate the commerce of the river.

NEW MEXICAN PORT OPEN

Custom House Established and Freight Service Planned. San Francisco, Jan. 4.—(P. N. S.)—Mexico is to have a new port of commerce on the west coast.

Zhuantanejo, 185 miles south of Manzanillo, at present almost unknown to coasting vessels, is to be provided with a custom house and formally recognized as an official port of entry for foreign vessels.

Zhuantanejo is the center of a rich cultural land described as unusually rich. It is being colonized by a group of capitalists and ranchers from British Columbia, several of whom, headed by W. C. Bond, departed for their holdings on the steamer San Jose yesterday.

Bond says the colony plans to establish a steamship line to San Francisco, providing quick transportation for perishable products. Zhuantanejo has an ideal harbor, he says, and will be provided with wharves within a year.

Big Drydock Nearly Finished.

San Francisco, Jan. 4.—(P. N. S.)—The biggest one-piece floating drydock in the world will be launched at the Union Iron Works tomorrow.

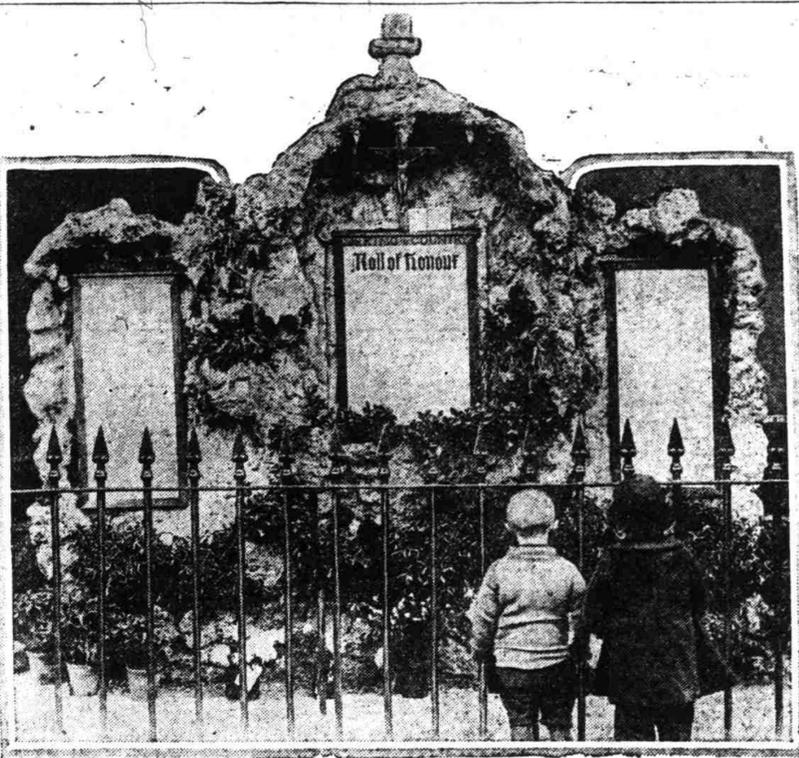

When completed two months from now it will be used by the local plant for floating vessels during repair, painting and repainting. The new drydock is nearly 500 feet long and will be capable of lifting 12,000 tons dead weight. It will accommodate vessels up to 450 feet long. The cost of the dock will be about $500,000.

Diver Imbedded in Mud.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 4.—(P. N. S.)—Efforts were resumed today to float the United States submarine No. 1, recently launched, which is imbedded in the silt of Long Beach channel. The installation of the L's engines has been postponed for fear that vessel would sink into the mud. The L is lying five or six feet out of the water. She is the second diver to stick in the mud here within a few months.
