AT THE annual meeting of William Ingold, treasurer of the American Revolution, for which Mrs. W. E. Pearson was hostess at her home Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Edward Alden Bliss was unanimously elected regent of the chapter. Other officers are: Vice regent, Mrs. W. H. T. Green; recording secretary, Mrs. Eugene Smith; corresponding secretary, Mrs. William Ingold; treasurer, Mrs. George Guernsey of Kansas for the national regency were the candidates endorsed by the chapter.

Coronets Club Meets.—Mrs. J. F. Kinder entertained Coronets club at Alexandra court on Tuesday afternoon. After luncheon and business the following program was carried out: Current topics by Mrs. Fiege, two piano solos by Mrs. Fiege, an interesting talk by Miss Manley, supervisor of the schools of the city for related children, on the work that is being done in the city for the children who work in the streets, two vocal solos by Miss Goldie Peterson and a paper on the labor laws of the state governing women and children by Miss Berntha Moores.

"Twelfth Night" Entertainment.—The "Twelfth Night" reception, given by the members of the Coronets club, was a gay and bright entertainment, doubly so, for the spacious and beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Green on Jessup street was most kindly hospitable. The house was well fitted for the old time Christmas festivity, the rooms opening into each other, and the lighting, with lights of many candles, that would resemble some old English hall, the lighting effect reminding one of the story of the "Twelve Candles." Two sets of Sir Roger de Coverly were danced on the floor at one time. Much merriment came from the masked and fancy costumes worn, the genial hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Green, were elected King Bean and Queen Pea, after an old time "Twelfth Night" custom, making them masters of ceremonies. Their retinue consisted of 12 Knights of the Round Table, accompanied by 12 ladies, named after 12 fruits of the spirit. All wore masks and appropriate costumes. The 12 knights carried in an immense twelfth night cake, lighted with 12 candles, and each couple cut the cake. At 11:30 all unmasked, and were presented to the king and queen. The king and queen then continued till the final ceremony of twining the evergreens, which was typical of the close of the holiday season. The king and queen, three old fashioned songs and delighted the party with his rich tenor voice. About 50 couples were present, all gaily attired.

High Cost of Living Discussed.—At the meeting of the Coronets club, Teacher association held Wednesday Miss Pauline Pease of the home economics department of Oregon Agricultural college, discussed the high cost of living, its causes and remedies. Helen Boone sang delightfully, accompanied by Miss Edith Cowdin. Plans were made for an entertainment and dance with an informal supper to be given Friday evening, January 19.

Hawthorne Association Meets.—The Hawthorne Parent-Teacher association held a well attended and interesting meeting Wednesday, Mrs. Edward E. Miller, president, F. A. Naramore, superintendent of properties of the public schools, explained and showed the plans for the proposed new building. L. L. Summers, director of manual training, told of industrial training

NATIONAL GUARD NOTES
Companies Recruiting Up to Meet Federal Requirements.

Claims Top Notch.—Company B of the Third regiment is enlisting men every night at its headquarters at the Armory. The quarters have accommodations for 15 men. Men are recruited by receiving applications up to that number. The company drills every Tuesday night and has extra drills in addition from time to time. Its officers and men are fully convinced that it is the most efficient and thoroughly prepared company in the Third regiment.

Eighth Company Ballistic Men.—Eighth company, Coast Artillery corps, is determining the pay requirements of the new National Guard law and federal regulations. Last Wednesday night there were five new enlistments. J. McEl. Grier sang the month there are assurances of having enlisted men sufficient to pass the minimum of 65 men. There are now over 60 on the active list.

Instructed Officers.—Colonel H. U. Alexander, in a lecture on the pay requirements of the new National Guard law and federal regulations. Last Wednesday night there were five new enlistments. J. McEl. Grier sang the month there are assurances of having enlisted men sufficient to pass the minimum of 65 men. There are now over 60 on the active list.

O. N. M. Resumed Drill.—The Oregon Naval Militia resumed regular drills on the barge at the foot of Columbia street, the engineer's division meeting on Monday nights and the deck division on Tuesday nights.

LADIES! SECRET TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Bring back color, gloss and youthfulness with Grandma's recipe of Sage and Sulphur.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will darken gray hair. By dabbing your hair with Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. Just wash your hair with a soft brush with it and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application of two or three days, your hair will be dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger. Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Adv.

MAN'S WINNING CARD

A perfectly adorable man! No, it isn't difficult as it sounds. Briefly speaking, a man's winning card is knowledge of how to treat a woman. Specifically, it is a tender, solicitous, protecting manner. A woman just loves to be "protected" whether there is anything to be protected from or not. She loves to know that a man is anxious for her safety and comfort, even though there is no cause in the world for anxiety. She loves to have him wait on her, even when there is a room full of hired waiters about. She loves to be treated like an adorable, cunning, helpless child, even when she is 5 feet 10 and weighs, well, she isn't telling how much. She delights in having a mental clock laid down for her to walk to, and every time man does it, she secretly knights him.

The winning way, the irresistible masculine manner, is something subtle and inborn. It can't be put on or learned. It is the gift of one of the good fairies at birth. If it is going to be trained into a man he must be caught and schooled very early—say before he is 10 years old. It is his ingrained attitude toward women, and he begins by practicing it on his mother. If he is not to do the manner born and tries to cultivate it late in life, he must watch very carefully to see that he does not overdo it like a lackey or dancing master or the villain in a melodrama. Of course, it can be cultivated to a certain extent, like music, for instance, but it's hard for a man to learn that a woman is a fragile creature and needs a body-guard, after he has been 20 years letting his sisters pack their own trunks and lug their own satchels and golf clubs. Besides, most men are too busy or too self-absorbed to cultivate it, if they could.

APPLE PIES Slice apples very thin, sweeten to taste. I usually use about 1/2 cup sugar. Flavor with nutmeg. Sometimes I use cinnamon and a little salt, a shake of pepper, bits of butter scattered over top and last of all a teaspoon of water. This makes them juicy. My oven bakes perfectly and my pies are always nicely cooked underneath and never soggy.

CHEESE CROQUETTES Three spoons butter, 1/4 cup flour, 3 cup milk, yolks of 2 eggs, 1 cup mild cheese cut in very small cubes, 1/2 cup grated cheese, salt and pepper, few grains cayenne. Make a thick white sauce, using butter, flour and milk; add yolks of eggs without first heating and stir well until mixed; then add grated cheese. As soon as cheese melts remove from fire, fold in cheese cubes and season with salt, pepper and cayenne. Spread in a shallow pan and cool. Turn on a board, cut in small squares or strips, dip in crumbs, egg and crumbs again. Fry in deep fat and drain on brown paper. Serve for cheese course.

HER FAILING

First modern girl can't quite make up her mind about Dollie. There's something queer about her.

Second modern girl—I'll tell you what it is—she has an effeminate streak.

Bed Time Tales

BY CLARA INGRAM JUDSON

Clever Jennie Wren.

MAYBE you know how Jennie Wren makes her nest. How neatly she tucks it away in a hole in a tree trunk or, better still, in you put out your little home. But the little wren you see is nearer folks and feels that she has friends. Jennie Wren of the bushes has no tree hole for her house nailed up in a tree already for her to use—I should say not! She has to find a safe place and keep it so secluded that Reddy Squirrel and Tommy Jay will never find it. Reclused in a big word, but it means safe and hidden from all harm and that's just what Jennie Wren's nest has to be—just exactly.

The summer before this last, Jennie didn't have a very good home. She selected it in a hurry because she was late coming north and she had to be quick. But this summer, she started north early and when she reached Shadow Woods, there was plenty of time to hunt a good place. She and her mate hunted and hunted; they inspected a score of nesting places and finally chose a tiny hole in an old haw tree not so very far from the Corn Field. And there the nest was made.

But the hole was so small and so cleverly covered that not even the bird neighbors guessed where it was. When one of the wrens wanted to go out, they peeped from the nest and made sure no one was near to watch where they came from. And when they would fly around near for a half day if necessary, rather than go to that nest while some other bird was watching. Do you wonder, with all that care, that the summer passed without Reddy Squirrel or Tommy Jay discovering that home? I don't.

Just the very day before the wrens went south though, Tommy had heard Jennie say to Mr. Wren, "that was a good home we had this summer, let's come to the same place next year." And he had run right off and told Reddy. "We'll fix them now!" he said with a shake of his beautiful head, "we'll hunt through all those trees and bushes till we find that nest if it takes all winter—that we will! And so they had hunted. Such tire-some work as it grew to be too! They searched in the tree trunks, in the bushes and even among the grasses though they might have known the wrens didn't nest so low, but no sign of the nest did they find. No wonder they got tired and cross. But they never guessed what Jennie Wren had done.

Before she left, she carefully pulled to pieces her nest and scattered it to the winds. "Think of that!" "I'd have to build a new one next summer anyway," she said, "and if I destroy this before I go, they'll not find where I lived." And they didn't, aren't you glad?
