

SENATE PASSES BILL TO KEEP LIQUOR 'ADS' FROM PROHI STATES

Bankhead Measure Prohibits Use of Mails to All Such Advertisements.

CIRCULARS OBJECTED TO

Desire Is to Stop Flood of Mail Soliciting Liquor Business in Dry Territory, Not to Hit Newspapers.

Washington, Jan. 19.—(WASH. BUREAU OF THE JOURNAL.)—Following on the heels of the supreme court decision upholding the Webb-Kenyon law, the United States senate has passed the Bankhead bill to forbid the use of the mails to letters, circulars or newspapers containing liquor advertising wherever the state law forbids liquor advertising.

This is on the same principle as the Webb-Kenyon law, and is urged for the same reason. If the state decides that it does not want liquor literature, it is argued, the desire of the state should be respected, and the protection around the delivery of invitations to buy forbidden spirits.

The bill was passed without serious opposition, after it had been amended in several respects. Originally penalties were provided for employees of the postal service who knowingly assisted in delivering any of the prohibited mail. This section was dropped. Another section, which was by some construed to limit the application of the measure to advertising for newspaper publishers, was also eliminated, in order that the bill may be broad enough to cover any kind of liquor "bait."

An amendment was added, making it the duty of the postmaster general to issue public notice, or bulletins, from time to time, enumerating the states that have forbidden liquor ads. This will make it possible for newspaper publishers to easily ascertain the states into which they cannot send papers that carry liquor advertising.

The chief object, Senator Bankhead said, is not to hit newspapers, but to stop the sending of circular letters and circulars soliciting mail orders for liquor into the dry states. Some of the southern states since they went dry have been flooded. The decision in the Webb-Kenyon case removes every brake on the power of the state to do just as it wishes, and the advertising bill makes it impossible for national suffrage at Washington is to speed up action in the states.
