

What Society is Doing

BY NOLA LAWLER

THE week will close with considerable more glory socially than was promised at its beginning. Several teas of interest, including Miss Margaret Mears for her cousin, Miss Elizabeth Jones, who is returning home from the south, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Samuel Maxwell Mears Jr. (Alice Robbins), whose wedding was a recent event. Mr. and Mrs. Mears have just returned home from their honeymoon in California and will doubtless be the inspiration for much entertaining.

On Saturday the Oregon alumnae will hold a tea at the home of Mrs. George Geringer, 777 Flanders street, which will be of twofold interest, as it will be a meeting of all former Oregon people and their friends and the alumnae will take this opportunity to contribute their yearly aid to the woman's building fund.

Saturday evening the women's auxiliary to the German Red Cross will hold their ball which is being given at the German house for the benefit of the fund, sponsored by the Crown Princess Cecilia of Germany, for the aid of expectant mothers who, through the war, are in want. A long list of prominent women are patronesses for this event.

In addition to the dancing numbers given by members of the club there will be several musical and dramatic features. Miss Marie White, who, though a Portlander, has done her dramatic readings in the east, will be heard for the first time at a public performance in Portland tonight. She has had extensive professional experience. Miss Eloise Hall, coloratura soprano, will sing; Miss Dorothy Bliss will play on the violin. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Grady, Miss Anna Paget and a number of others will dance.

For Miss Sawtell.

Complimenting Miss Doris Sawtell, of the February class of Washington high school, Mrs. F. H. Thompson, Esq. entertained a few of the graduates at a small luncheon at the Mulnomah hotel on Saturday, followed by a box party at one of the vaudeville houses.

Captain Gifford, who is of the firm of Kerr, Gifford & Co., grain importers, is now attached to a garrison in Scotland. Their home is at Auchendoon, Newton Stewart, Scotland.

The women of St. Francis parish will entertain at St. Francis on Thursday at 2 o'clock in the academy at East Oak and East Twelfth streets. An invitation is extended to all friends of the parish to join in the festivity.

MOTHER SAID TRY IT

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Mrs. Copner After Doctor's Failed.

Cincinnati, Ohio—"I want you to know the good Lydia E. Pinkham's vegetable compound has done for me. I was in such bad health from female troubles that I could hardly get off my bed. I had been doctoring for a long time and my mother said 'I want you to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.' So I did, and it made me a well woman. I am able to do my housework and am so happy, as I never expected to go around the way I do again, and I want others to know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me." MRS. JOSIE COPNER, 1623 Harrison Ave., Fairmount, Cincinnati, Ohio.

No woman suffering from any form of female troubles should lose hope until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial. This famous medicinal ingredients of which are derived from choice roots and herbs, has for forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

HAMMERSLY IS ALIVE; BODY IDENTIFIED AS THAT OF PROSPECTOR

Victim of Timber Wolves Is Now Believed to Have Been John Duranda, Grants Pass

John Hammersly, thought to have been eaten by a pack of timber wolves in the wilds of Jackson county, is safe. The skeleton found near Gold Hill, Or., and at first thought to be that of Hammersly, has been identified as that of John Duranda, a prospector of the Grants Pass country.

Word reached Detective Hammersly yesterday that his brother John had returned to Wymer from a hunting trip to be greeted with the news of his supposed death. In a subsequent telephone conversation with relatives at Gold Hill, Detective Hammersly was told of the identification of the skeleton as that of Duranda. Bones of a man, shreds of clothing and the bodies of three dead wolves found near Hammersly's cabin led to the belief that he had been devoured by the beasts.

On reaching Wymer yesterday Hammersly immediately telephoned to Dr. W. P. Chisholm, of Gold Hill, who in turn relayed the information to Mrs. E. Hammersly, wife of Detective Hammersly, in Portland. John Hammersly explained that he had been absent from his cabin at Willow Springs on Evans creek four or five days on a cougar hunting expedition.

Places for Soldier Boys Coming Home

Employers and Others Are Reminded That Many Members of Troop A and Battery A Will Want Positions.

The coming home of the members of Troop A and Battery A, O. G., to the number of nearly 200, will necessitate the looking after positions for them. Battery A has a veteran association that will hold a banquet next Saturday night at the Multnomah to celebrate the fifty-first anniversary, and the expectation is that some practical plans will be formulated to carry out this work before the close. Both organizations have an auxiliary association.

PORTLAND TEACHERS BACK ORTON BILL AS HELP TO TENURE LAW

Provisions of the Bill Accord With the General View-point of the Teachers.

TEACHERS ARE CLASSIFIED

In Proposed Bill Probationary Period Is Left as Now; After Two Years as Classified Can't Be Reduced.

Portland teachers frankly admit that they are back of the Orton bill introduced in the legislature, Tuesday. They also say that the provisions of the bill are intended not only to combat the so-called school board amendments to the teachers' tenure law but to strengthen the law in places where experience has shown improvement is needed.

The measure was carried to Salem by Samuel C. May, one of the instructors in Jefferson high school, after it had been approved by teachers' committees. Mr. May is said to have been largely instrumental in formulating the provisions of the bill in accordance with the general view-point of the teachers.

Following are the principal provisions of the bill: Teachers are classified into eight classes; supervisors, high school principals, grade school principals, assistant supervisors, heads of high school departments, high school instructors, grade school teachers and special teachers.

The probationary period is left as at present, two years, except to provide that when a teacher has served successfully in one of the eight classifications for two years that teacher cannot be reduced to a lower class.

The bill provides as to hearings on charges against teachers or when proceedings for removal or transfer are instituted by the superintendent "for the good of the service" that the teacher be given a hearing before a non-partisan commission of three citizens to be named by the presiding judge of the circuit court. The commission will serve a one year term. The teacher is given choice as to whether the hearing shall be public, private or whether either side shall be represented by counsel.

Duluth Will Vote on 'Dry' Question Again

Duluth, Minn., Jan. 31.—(U. P.)—There will be a special election here April 31 for resubmission of the local option question. On June 19, 1916, Duluth voted "dry," being the first city of more than 100,000 inhabitants to voluntarily abolish saloons. The saloons do not close until July 14 and if the "wet" win it will mean that the former election is annulled.

Ankle Bracelets Don't Go Here Freakish Millinery to Be Fad

Portland is not to have the pleasure of seeing its women with bracelets on their ankles, in spite of an advance fashion note which states that San Francisco has fallen for the new fad, with both feet, in effect it is not quite hobbles, but from the picture it seems just another spot whereon lovely woman may exhibit an additional sparkle. But Portland women are deterred by the 1917 model comes way, way above the ankle, and is so stunning itself that further ornamentation in the way of Chinese embroidery and ankle bands is superfluous.

The newest thing ordered by the Portland shoe houses for spring is a trifling higher at the back than the front and curve in an attractive scallop down to the lace in front, for lace shawl shoes have the French heel, spring, despite the many pleasing models shown in the button, which has had a full year's run and must therefore be discarded.

Black and white are the latest in coloring, the top being of a faint, creamy shade of kid, in strong contrast to the shining black of the patent-leather lower part. Some of these have strings of a pronounced dove color, and these combinations prevail in any number of the smart shoes just received, all of which, have the heavier walking shoes, have the French heel, fully as high as those worn at present.

A few lavender shoes are seen on the street, but Portland dealers say that these are the remnants of a New York fad which was never taken seriously by Portland women.

But, while the spring models in shoes are more beautiful and fully as uncomfortable as at any time in the past, the same cannot be said of the hats shown by some of the downtown stores. A few brave souls are wearing them, but it is rather suspected that they are milliners' models, who are drawing down salary for making spectacles of themselves, and incidentally accustoming the public to what awaits them.

They are new, if that be any special virtue, but even to those who have lived through the various millinery monstrosities from the "Stove Pipe" to the "Cart Wheel," and the varying degrees of hideousness in between, they are a distinct shock. However, they have one advantage, in this high-cost-of-living time. You can make them out of your ragbag, and the less taste you have the more up-to-the-minute your hat will be.

The frame is of average size and width and is covered with patchwork, over 40 pieces going into a "smart" model shown in a Washington street milliner's window, and blue, green, red, gray and pinto and brindle warring with each other over brim and crown.

Another model, which causes the beholder a lesser trifle of suffering after having seen the first, is decorated only by small woolen balls, attached to strings and fastened to the crown, a perpetual temptation to a Maltese kitten tired of chasing its own tail, while the last is a fair imitation of what a child of three with a mother, who spends very little of her time at home, can do if given a darn-needle and a ball of twine.

Scandinavians Will Honor Reformation

Salem, Or., Jan. 31.—Dr. J. O. Hall of Willamette university, has been appointed chairman of Scandinavian day at the state fair, succeeding Rev. John Ovali, who presented his name for the appointment. It is Dr. Hall's plan to have the fourth centennial of the Protestant reformation, which all the Lutheran churches in Oregon have united to celebrate jointly, the main feature of Scandinavian day. Rev. Mr. Hennricksen of Portland is chairman of the committee arranging for the centennial celebration.

Aberdeen Assured of a Big Paper Mill

Aberdeen, Wash., Jan. 31.—Action by the council recently in voting to sell Charley Creek, a branch of the city water system, for $500, will assure the building here of a high-grade paper plant to cost $1,000,000. The plan was taken at a special meeting attended by many business men. Capital for the plant has been subscribed by local, Spokane and California capitalists. A site close to rail and harbor facilities has been purchased by a syndicate headed by W. J. Patterson, banker, and C. M. Waetherax, of the Aberdeen lumber and shingle mill.

Call Eating House Cafeteria La Barge

Cafeteria La Barge is the nickname which employees of the Northwest Steel company and the Columbia River Shipbuilding corporation have nicknamed their eating house.

An enterprising restaurant man, unable to obtain suitable quarters near the two plants, hit upon the plan of putting a restaurant on a barge. He purchased an old bulk, fixed it up, secured a mooring place off the fourth way of the Northwest yards, and is doing a thriving business.

Excellent meals are served, it is said, and considerable time is saved the employees of the plant.

Two Robberies Are Reported to Police

N. D. Dunphy, 370 East Thirty-seventh street, notified the police Monday that a burglar had entered his home through an unlocked door and appropriated a suit, raincoat, pair of shoes and a suitcase.

The office of the Holy Priest, 664 First street, was entered Sunday night by thieves, who forced the inside door of the safe and took $25. The safe door had not been locked and it was an easy matter for the burglars to "jimmy" the inside door. Nothing else in the office was disturbed.

Coos Bay Has First Snowstorm of Year

Marshfield, Or., Jan. 31.—Coos Bay Tuesday had its first snowstorm of the year. There was about two inches of light snow but before the day was over it had melted away in the city. There is still some snow in the hills. A year ago this locality had its record breaking snowstorm.

WELL KNOWN PORTLAND ACTRESS IS INJURED

Miss Alice Fleming.

Miss Alice Fleming, leading woman with Robert Edson, and wife of Clarence V. Everett of this city, fell and sprained her ankle a few days ago, and her foot is encased in plaster cast and will remain so for three weeks to come.

Miss Fleming had finished a meal in the dining-room of the Manhattan hotel in New York city, and as she arose to leave the table her heel slipped and threw her to the floor. She was taken to a near-by drugstore in a fainting condition and thence to her apartment. At first it was believed she was injured internally, but such proved not the case.

Mr. Everett's latest word from Miss Fleming is that she is getting along nicely but slowly.

Miss Fleming was for two seasons leading woman in the Baker Stock company, and it was then that she met and was married to Mr. Everett.

Subsequently Mr. Everett became financially interested in theatricals in Portland and Seattle, and is at present one of the owners of the Alcazar players, whose success this season is largely attributed to the fact that Miss Fleming was largely responsible for the selection of excellent players who form that company.

Miss Fleming at present is appearing in "His Brother's Keeper."

Pretty Waitress Loses All of Her First Week's Pay

As Josephine Walton, a pretty waitress employed at the Cat's Fiddle restaurant, was going home from work after 12 o'clock Monday evening, with her first week's wages in her pocket, Josephine discovered that her purse was missing. She had lunched with several other employees at the same place, after their quitting hour, and was waiting with a friend who was to board a car for her home on the east side when she realized her loss, amounting to nearly $10.

Miss Walton does not think that the purse was stolen, but rather that it slipped from a wide pocket to the pavement unnoticed. Her only comment was to say that she was thankful that her room rent was paid before it happened.

The Dream of Your Wife

She loves her little home—the house she has spent in making it beautiful, attractive, artistic. It is so much a part of her life.

But one thing more remains to make her home really complete—a little Aldrich Baby Grand Piano—small enough for a little home—not too expensive for a moderate purse.

Ask us to mail you chart showing space it will occupy on your floor.
