

What Society Is Doing

BY C. NONA LAWLER

THE wedding tomorrow evening of Miss Alice Tucker and Spencer Biddle and the pre-nuptial affairs attending upon the event are foremost among the events of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Davidson are also enjoying much entertaining since the announcement of their departure for Omaha to their new home. Tonight the members of the Portland Heights club will give a large farewell party in their honor. Mr. Davidson is president of the club. Last evening the club had a Young Entertainment most delightfully in their honor at the Royal Suit of the Multnomah hotel. Dancing was enjoyed by about 30 couples.

Mr. Davidson will leave shortly to take up his business in Omaha but Mrs. Davidson and the children will not leave for another month or so. There will doubtless be much entertaining for this charming matron before her departure.

Bomb Disturbs a Meeting at Seattle
Seattle, Wash., Feb. 9.—(P. N. S.)—Police are working on the theory today that members of the I. W. O. were responsible for a bomb which was thrown last night on the roof of the Waterfront Employers' association building here, which caused material damage, but endangered the lives of 50 persons in the building at the time.

An examination of the premises indicated that the bomb was thrown from an alley which immediately adjoins the building on the roof of the employ-ers' building. It tore a hole in some two inch planking, but did no other material damage except break win-dows.

Will Take Census Of Seattle Shovels
Seattle, Wash., Feb. 9.—(U. P.)—Government officials here are being urged to determine immediately the number of shovels, pickaxes and crow-bars in the hands of local contractors and hardware stores. The complete census of available equipment is for the use of the war department.

Elk Eat Elk.
Eugene, Or., Feb. 9.—Elk steaks will be the piece de resistance of a big dinner to be given by the Eugene lodge of Elks to members of other lodges from over the state in this city on the night of February 22. The big bull elk in the city park, 6 years old and rolling fat, will be slaughtered. The park commission has sold the animal to the lodge, for the reason that it is very valuable and the lives of park keepers and pleasure seekers are endangered.

Crippled Vendor Takes Poison.
Tacoma, Wash., Feb. 9.—(U. P.)—Apparently weary of hobbling about on two crippled limbs, Jess Farrell, a shoestring vendor, swallowed poison at his post on Broadway, and today his twisted body is at the morgue, awaiting instructions from a sister at Astoria, Or.

Bachelor Leaves All His Fortune to Old Ladies' Home
Elyria, Ohio, Feb. 9.—(I. N. S.)—The aversion of Harry Frost, 65, bachelor suicide, to a double harness was emphasized in his will, probated today, ignoring married relatives. Frost left his fortune of $10,000 to the Old Ladies' home here.

A MOTHER'S TROUBLES
A mother's unending work and devotion drains and strains her physical strength and leaves its mark in dimmed eyes and careworn expressions—she ages before her time.

Any mother who is weary and languid should start taking Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil as a strengthening food and bracing tonic to add richness to her blood and build up her nerves before it is too late.

Start Scott's today—it is simply a concentrated liquid-food of rare energizing properties and free from the alcohol or drug peril. Good physicians everywhere prescribe Scott's for weak women. Refuse substitutes.

U. S. Navy Would Be Used in Patrol Duty

Experts Making Forecast of War Possibility Also Believe Great Army Would Be Trained.

Washington, Feb. 9.—(U. P.)—Patrol of the American coast would be the chief work of the American navy in event of war, experts believe. Should war come, this government probably would start training a big army immediately for use abroad if the trouble lasted sufficiently long.

The share of the navy would be determined in a council between the United States and the allied subject to approval by this government, but authorities believe the American part probably would not extend beyond the patrol work, and most of that in or about United States waters. This would free the North Atlantic allied patrol.

As for the army, no one in touch with the situation pretends for a moment that America is in shape to take any active part in the war. The present army, however, would be used for training raw men, who might then be sent abroad at the expiration of probably a year.

Mrs. B. Barnett, 85, Dies at The Dalles

The Dalles, Or., Feb. 9.—Mrs. Barbara Allen Barnett, 85 years old, an Oregon pioneer, died last evening. She was well known in Silverton and the Willamette valley, where she resided many years ago.

Beauty Chat BY LILLIAN RUSSELL

The Lure of the Stage.

There are few pretty girls who do not, deep down in their hearts, look longingly to the stage for a career. The girl who recites a little can play any part in any play she sees if she only had the chance—in her own mind. The girl with a voice is fed up by her teacher with the idea that she will take a back seat when she makes her appearance, that she can out-Mary Mary Garden with her temperament and talent. This sounds hopeful and alluring, but there is a long, hard road to travel to attain any prominence on the stage, and the hard work and privation that any prima donna has had to endure to reach her goal is only an undertaking half finished at best.

To sing beautifully and artistically year after year entails just so much self-denial and sacrifice. The girl with a lovely voice has the gift from heaven that permits her to "speak to the angels," but in order to speak properly to the angels she is obliged to climb, rung by rung, the ladder of experience in cold barns of theaters, for hours a day. Only one in a hundred stand up under the strain—all the others fall by the wayside. One-half of the chorus girls you see on the stage are disappointed prima donnas. They have had their training, expensive teachings, their trials and their failures. Many marry after their disappointment and many marry before the trial.

It is possible that the married ones who gave up the idea of the stage for matrimony regret, the balance of their lives, that they did not "make a career" but under any circumstances I am sure they chose the preferable walk in life.

Unless one has a marked and marvelous talent for the stage, I would say, "Keep away from it." Not that the pitfalls are any more dangerous than those of any other business, but the disappointments are keener from the fact that they are public. It is that which makes it necessary for any woman in public life to qualify in every detail and instance.

If a woman is gifted with an artistic talent, she has the privilege of being as retiring as she pleases. Her time is her own; she may choose her own hours for painting and her own hour for resting; even if she is a talented designer of silks, wall paper or carpets, she has the same privilege of rest.

Should a woman be in a business office, she would have her evenings to do with as she pleased—not so with the woman of the stage. Her days are taken up in a different proposition to learn a leading role in a grand opera or even a comic opera and go through six or eight weeks of hard, merciless rehearsing in cold barns of theaters, for hours a day. Only one in a hundred stand up under the strain—all the others fall by the wayside. One-half of the chorus girls you see on the stage are disappointed prima donnas. They have had their training, the beauty and a slight talent for dancing, and as far as such talents go there are many of them. The public sees and hears them for a year or two, then they disappear from public view and no one knows where they go. Their ability is not strong enough to even cause them to be missed.

If you have a voice, unless you are willing to resign all other interests for the sake of a career, do not waste it and your health with it. There are many places to sing, away from the stage, where physique and endurance are not demanded. The opera companies are full of girls who have voices, yet who never attain anything more glorious than a small part or understudy. The managers flatter them with promises just to keep them from those positions—some one has to fill them—why not ambitious, hopeful, would-be prima donnas?

Tomorrow—Health Is Youth.

Homesteaders Must Amend Applications

They Must Relinquish to Federal Government All Mineral Rights and Privileges to Prospect or Mine on Lands.

North Yakima, Feb. 9.—Homesteaders who rushed in to take up government land under the terms of the new grazing law find they will have to amend their applications if they get a hearing in the general land office.

A circular covering the matter was received at the local land office today. No approved blanks had been prepared when the land was thrown open and the officials made out the applications on the old blanks but these must be amended.

The applicants will have to make two affidavits to file with the original. They must relinquish to the government all mineral rights and the right to prospect and mine the coal or other minerals on the land. They must also make affidavits that the land contains no water holes or public watering places used by stockmen, who are running cattle or sheep on the range. The applications are allowed 30 days to amend their applications. The change affects about 150 applicants in this land district.

Bomb Wrecks Roof Of Seattle Building

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 9.—(P. N. S.)—A bomb was hurled upon the roof of the waterfront headquarters of the employ-ers' association last night. Thirty men were in the building, but none was hurt. The bomb, a crude gaspille affair, tore a big hole in the roof. The police suspect agents of the Industrial Workers of the World.

Banker and Cashier Duel; Former Slain

Galesville, Ga., Feb. 9.—(I. N. S.)—J. H. Martin, president of the Farmers and Merchants bank here, was killed, and J. A. Webb, former cashier of the bank, probably was fatally wounded in a pistol fight between the men in Webb's store here yesterday. It is said business difficulties were responsible for the shooting.

Prospecting for petroleum in Venezuela is being carried on with encouraging success by the American and two English companies.
