There were over 100 diners gathered and dancing followed after 9 o'clock. High School Pupils Try Hard for Dance

They Lack Twenty of Enough Parents to Attend Party Planned for Saturday Night, Required by Directors.

The Dales, Or., Feb. 22.—In an effort to get 20 more parents to join 112 who promised to attend a high school "mixer," so their offspring could dance, following orders of the school board, students are working desperately to get the required number before Saturday night, the date for which the "mixer" is scheduled.

The school board put a ban on dancing a week ago, stipulating that all high school entertainments must be given in the "gym" in future and 65 per cent of the parents must be in attendance if the students are permitted to dance.

High schoolers have given up hope of securing permission to dance unless their parents "dance attendance" at their parties. There are 200 members of the student body, which means there will be no dance Saturday night unless 182 parents attend the party. One hundred and twelve parents have promised. The town is being combed for the other 70.

Dr. Ferdinand King Says:

EVERY WOMAN EVERY MOTHER EVERY DAUGHTER NEEDS IRON AT TIMES

To put strength in her nerves and color in her cheeks.

There can be no beautiful, healthy, rosy-cheeked woman without iron. The trouble in the past has been that when women needed iron they generally took ordinary metallic iron, which often corroded the stomach and did far more harm than good. Today doctors prescribe the purest form of iron in a palatable, does not blacken nor injure the teeth nor upset the stomach. It will increase the strength and endurance of weak, nervous, irritable, careworn, backward-looking women. In many instances, two weeks' time in my own practice with surprising results.—Ferdinand King, M. D.

Bed Time Tales

BY CLARA INGRAM JUDEON

"Let's Talk About Fairies."
ONE night a little girl and her mother sat down in front of a big glowing fire, to talk about fairies—you know there is really a great deal to talk about concerning fairies if one once gets started. "You have lots of time now," said the little girl, "and I want to know all about them." "Alright," said her mother. "I want to know, too; so let's begin. What comes first?" "First, I want to know where they live?" "I wonder where they do live," pondered her mother. "Where would you suppose?" "I don't know," said the little girl, "but I am sure about one thing, fairies in the houses are quite different from forest fairies." "Really? How?" "Forest fairies," answered the little girl, "work and play in the day time and sleep in the flowers at night—everybody knows that. But house fairies are different—they hide all the day time and play in the night." "How do you know?" asked her mother. "I know it because I have watched and watched, and I never saw a fairy in the daytime—never once in this whole house!" "No?" questioned her mother, "but have you seen them at night?" "Oh, yes, indeed," and the little girl dimpled happily. "Many times!" "I've seen them in the firelight;

A whole row of flame fairies came out and bowed to the little girl. I've seen them playing with the moonbeams on the living room floor—I know they are here at night!" "Yes, I've seen them, too," said her mother. "I wonder where they hide during the day?" "Maybe they hide behind the books or under the piano or some place like that." "Maybe they do," said her mother, "only behind books and under pianos don't seem quite like fairy places—look and see if they do."

The little girl looked behind the books and she got down and looked under the piano. "No," she decided, "those places are not where fairies hide—I wonder where they do stay?" Just then the fire glowed and sparkled brighter than usual and a whole row of flame fairies came out and bowed to the little girl. "Listen, mother!" she exclaimed "they're talking to me!" They both listened and watched till the fire died down and the fire fairies vanished up the chimney. "I know all about it now," said the little girl, happily. "They told me." "The fire fairies said, 'Don't worry about where the fairies live, just watch them and enjoy them when they are here, and if they go away—why, never mind—they'll come again.' And really, mother, just to know there are fairies—that's something. I don't care where they live."

Use Coconut Oil For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain unperfumed coconut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair. Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoons will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage. You can get unperfumed coconut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

"From a little dugout in France"

HERE is a reproduction of an actual letter received from the firing line "somewhere in France." Read it.

It comes from a soldier over in the shot-torn trenches who is thinking of the days when he can come home again and is looking forward to owning the "Handy Volume" Britannica when that happy time comes. He says: "When we get this little affair fixed up over here we hope you will still have a copy of the Handy Set waiting for me."

Our answer in this case must be "Yes." Under the circumstances, we will make this one exception and reserve a "Handy Volume" set for Gunner Townsend. It will be waiting for him when the war is over.

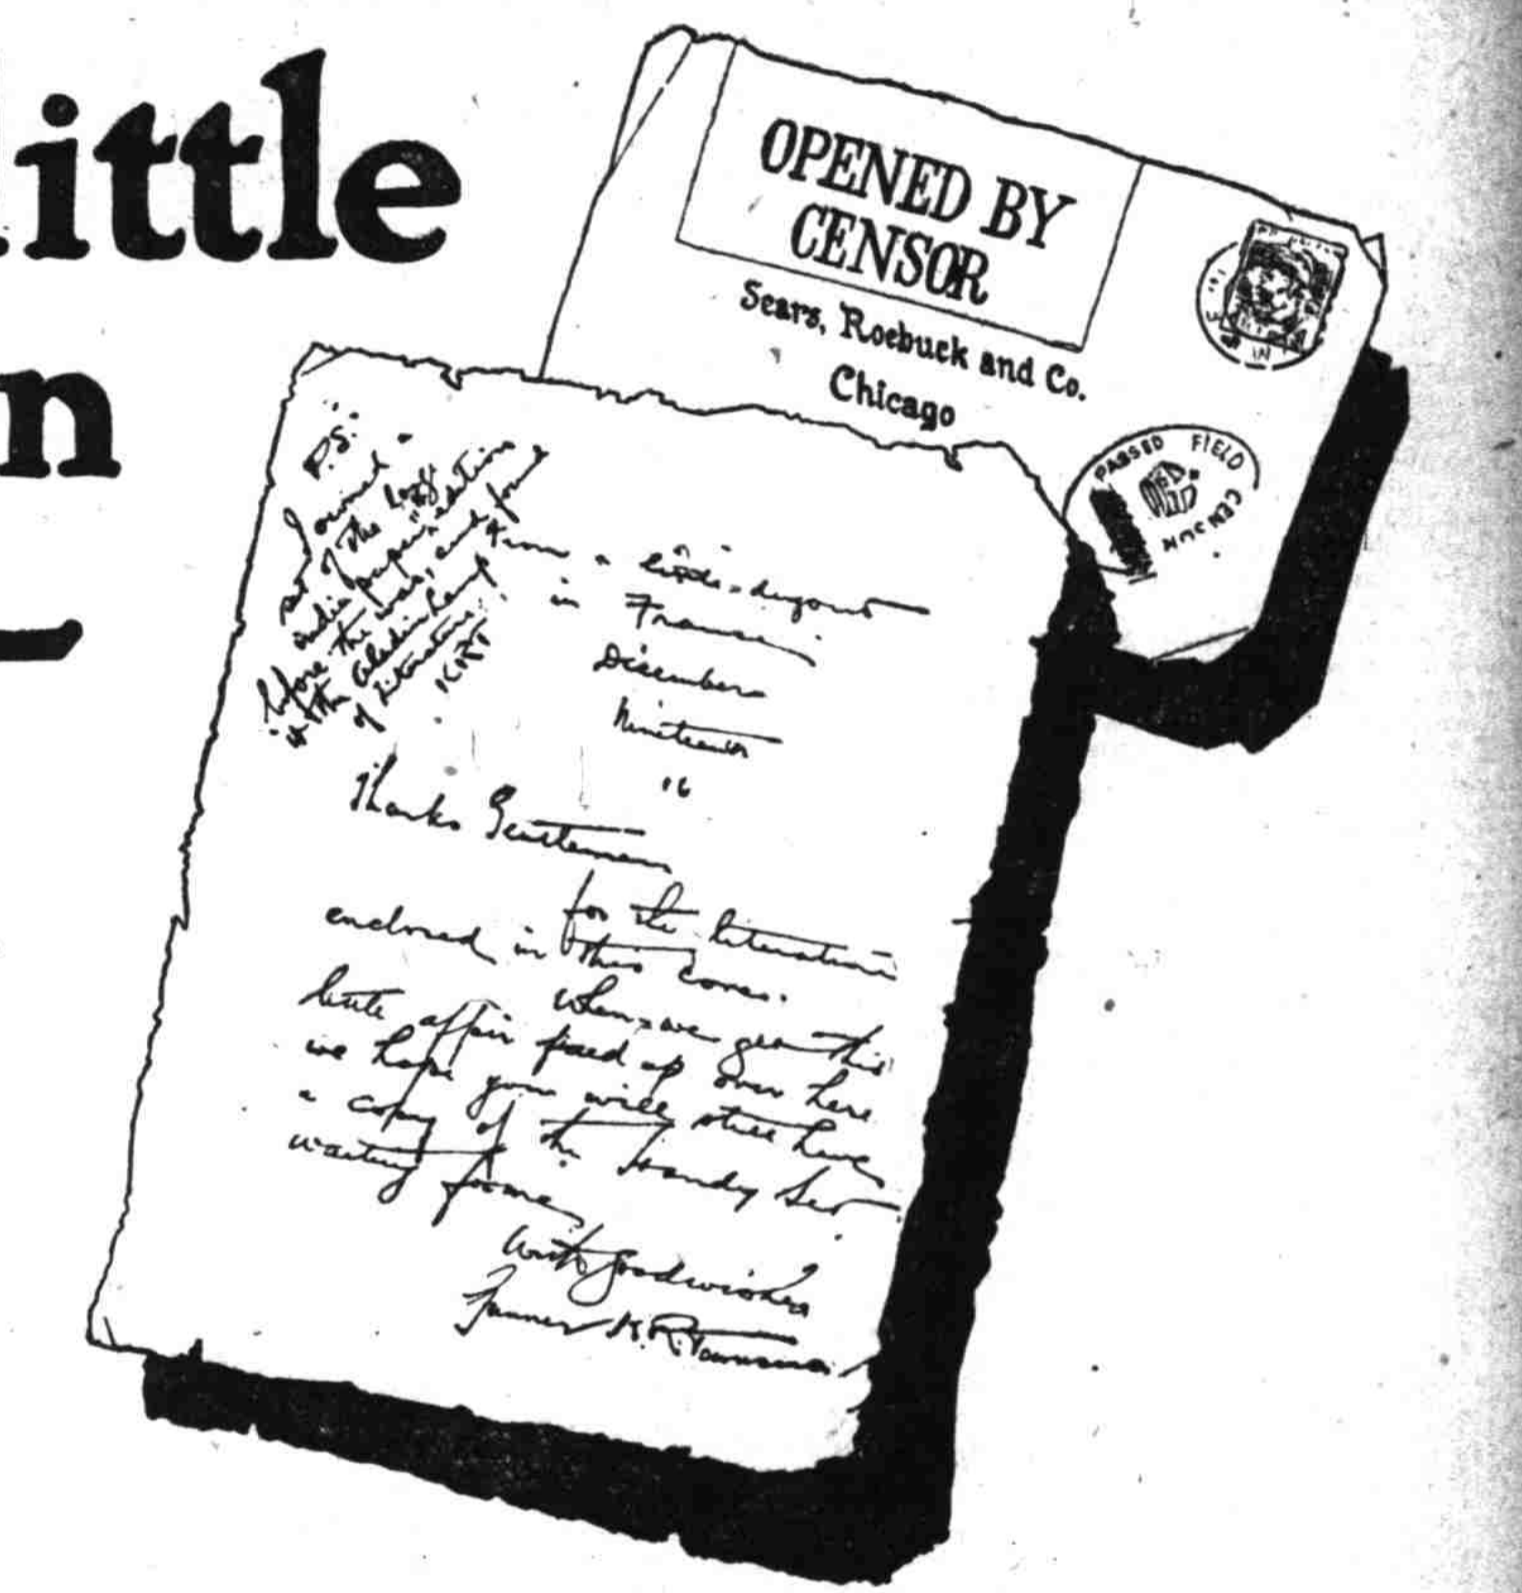

To YOU the Answer Would Have to Be "No"

Why? Because unless the war stops very suddenly, the few thousand remaining sets will be all gone before that time comes. Thousands of people are going to be disappointed when they find that they are too late and come to realize what we have been telling them almost every day—that no more "Handy Volume" sets can be published because the war in Europe has cut off the supply of India paper indefinitely.

If Gunner Townsend were here in America, as you are, he would take advantage of this offer NOW. No set can be reserved for you. When the remaining sets are gone, your opportunity is gone, too. No more can be sold because no more can be made. Today is the time for you to decide. It's something that can't be put off. Unless you act now it will be too late. The Encyclopaedia Britannica is a clear, concise, complete collection of the whole world's knowledge, a work that cost a million and a half dollars to produce. People of all ages, occupations and positions in life not only own the Britannica, but use the Britannica.

They use it in business, in reading for entertainment and culture, in buying supplies for the home, in rearing children, for self education and countless other uses that make for a bigger, broader viewpoint and greater joy in living. The Britannica will tell you everything you want to know and ought to know. It is supremely practical in every sense of the word.

To put the Britannica within reach of all it was published in the "Handy Volume" form to sell at about 60% less than the more expensive Cambridge issue. Yet not a page, not a word, not a comma has been changed—except in size. The pages are smaller and the type is smaller, but every word of the 41,000 articles is the same as in the Cambridge issue—all of the 15,000 illustrations and maps are there. You have 29 easy-to-handle, one-inch-thick volumes, each printed on the famous thin, strong, opaque, genuine India paper.

But if you want one of these last remaining "Handy Volume" sets, don't wait until they are all gone. And that won't be long. Better send for further information to-day. Don't let this chance go by.

It's so easy to pay for the Britannica, too—$1 down and $3 a month (for the cloth binding) during a limited period—only ten cents a day. There's no excuse now for you to be without the Britannica any longer. If you have children, think of them. What a wonderful help it will be to them to grow up with the Britannica in the home to answer questions, to settle arguments, to help in school work! The Britannica is for every member of the family, for every member of your family.

Send the coupon. This is your opportunity. A snip of the scissors, a dip of the pen and it's done.

SEARS, ROEBUCK AND CO. Chicago, Illinois
Gentlemen:
Please send me, free, your illustrated book containing full information about the new Encyclopaedia Britannica. Also tell me what I will have to pay for one of the remaining sets of the "Handy Volume" issue of the Britannica printed on genuine India paper.

Aberdeen, Wash., Feb. 22.—Lumber and shingle manufacturers from all parts of the county met Tuesday to protest the failure of the railroads to provide cars for the mills and made plans for a searching investigation of the car shortage. Save Your Hair! 25 Cent Bottle Stops Dandruff

Every bit of dandruff disappears and hair stops coming out.

Try this! Your hair appears glossy, abundant, wavy and beautiful.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre and strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—any time—will surely save your hair. Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, luster and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance, an incomparable gloss and softness; but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp. Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers and rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them, its exhilarating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful. (Adv.)
