

What Society Is Doing

The members of the Portland branch of the Drama League are much interested in the lecture this evening by Granville Barker at the Eleventh street playhouse, "Why Worry About Art." His subject is particularly interesting. For this afternoon the tea which Mrs. Everett Ames, Mrs. C. C. Kain and Mrs. Otis B. Wight are giving at Mrs. Ames' residence, for the benefit of Belgian children, will call forth hosts of people between the hours, 4 until 6 o'clock.

Tillikum's Dance Is Successful.
Saturday evening the Tillikum Dancing club held a successful dance at the Grand ball room, it being one of their series of bi-monthly dances. This subscription club has divided its membership alphabetically, so that at each dance half of the members may invite guests. Last week the first half took guests, and at the next meeting March 21, those whose names come in the latter half of the alphabet invited guests. About 150 guests were present Saturday evening, and a most enjoyable evening was passed. A number of dance parties also were given after the dance.

For Chicago Visitor.
Mrs. A. L. Levy entertained Friday afternoon with three tables of bridge, honoring Mrs. Max Steifel of Chicago, who has been passing the winter in Portland.

To Visit in Spokane.
Mrs. Milton Werschke, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Edward Coss of Spokane, has gone for a visit of several weeks in that place.

Girls' National Honor Guard.
The Honor Guard Girls interested in the Second corps social service work will meet at the home of Mrs. J. G. Keller, 402 Market street, on Saturday evening, March 13, at 8 o'clock. All clothing for this department may be left at the home of Mrs. Keller or at the Honor Guard headquarters, 901 Electric building.

The Honor Guard will hold the regular monthly meetings in Eilers hall the first Saturday of each month henceforth.

SERMON TOPICS

Baseball Terms Were Used by Rev. E. Percy Lawrence.
"A Sacrifice Hit" Title of Sermon.—Baseball terms were used by Rev. E. Percy Lawrence, speaking in the Kenilworth Presbyterian church, Sunday morning on "A Sacrifice Hit."
"No boy need a sacrifice hit," said Rev. Mr. Lawrence. "It is the giving up of his own glory and a chance to make a good 'grandstand play' for the sake of the team. There are ever so many times when you can serve God and the world with a sacrifice hit. The boy who saved Paul's life made a sacrifice hit. He remembered that God cannot call back the unkind things, once you have said them. Resolve to make a sacrifice hit every day and invest in your lives the things worth while."
Seven Reasons for Going to Church.
—Rev. H. H. Griffin, pastor of the First Christian church, in his sermon Sunday morning, gave seven reasons for going to church. He said:
"Going to church is a benefit to the body. Gloom, unrest and dejection are dispelled."
"Going to church refreshes a man's mind."
"Going to church promotes sociability. The church is a training school for democracy."
"Going to church protects secular institutions."
"Going to church fulfills the example of Jesus Christ."
"Church attendance testifies to the truth of Christianity. It is evidence that Christ is at work in human hearts."
"Going to church enables us, in a

BOTH MOTHER AND DAUGHTER

Relieved From Pain and Suffering by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"For three or four years I suffered a great deal of pain periodically, so that I would have to lie down. My back would ache and I would feel very weak and miserable. I remembered how my mother had found relief from pain by using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I decided to try it, and I thank you for the Compound, it helped me just as it did my mother, and I am free from pain backache and that general weakness that was so hard to bear. I am able to do my work during such times and am recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to my friends who suffer as I did."—Miss Meta Liedeman, 1622 Jefferson ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

To know whether Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, just try it. For advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

Mrs. Fred I. Reynolds, who is a patroness for the St. Patrick's day dance to be held at the Masonic Temple next Saturday evening by the Portland Social club, Order of Eastern Star.

special way, to meet and commune with Almighty God."
God's Will and Right.—Rev. Edward H. Pence, at Westminister Presbyterian church, Sunday, said that some men can be corrected in their ways only by the imposition of a will vastly greater than their own. "It is God's moral right," he declared, "to use his mandates where other persuasions fail. In commanding, God seeks to check excesses in vicious conduct in order that the better character may be adjusted to the laws and forces by which goodness in character takes its mould."
Plea for Progressive Religion.—Rev. F. T. Scott, pastor of the First Universalist church, Sunday, made a plea for a progressive religion based on old-time truths and principles. Rev. Mr. Scott declared that the old-time religion was the heart of creeds ever since man first realized that he was possessed of a soul.
Wrong to Accept Part.—According to Rev. Wesley J. Beaven, pastor of the Third Baptist church, in his sermon Sunday morning, it is wrong to accept a part of what God sends and reject the rest.
"He who doubts," declared the pastor, "is like a 'wave of the sea.' That man gets nothing from God, not that God is unable to give, but that man is unable to pray intelligently and ask for what he wants, because he does not know. Let him then ask for sincerity, simplicity and earnestness."
Way Is Brighter Ahead.—Rev. David A. Thompson told members of the Mizpah Presbyterian church Sunday morning that causes of sin are almost as much physical as mental and spiritual. "The way is always brighter ahead," he said. "Go ahead, remember that the cause of sin is sin, always awaiting the faithful prophet."
Man Came Through No Vagrant Wind.—"Man came through the gates of birth through no vagrant wind out of chaos, but he bears the mark of the finger of God upon him, and because of that God challenges him to become all that Jesus has set before him to become." Such was the declaration of Rev. John H. Boyd, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, in his sermon Sunday night on "You Ought."
"The great imperative for which you cannot escape," he said, "is being the moral character."
Brotherhood of Man.—Now is the time to remember the brotherhood of man, according to C. C. Robinson, New York Y. M. C. A. worker, speaking at the local Y. M. C. A. auditorium Sunday afternoon.
"There is one lamentable thing in social life," he said, "and that is the tendency of the classes to pit themselves against each other and for the one in the seat of power to try to regulate the others. When we are convinced of the true brotherhood of man this evil will be removed."
Forerunner of Mission.—Christ's parable concerning the king who made a wedding feast for his son formed the theme of an address by Father Edwin V. O'Hara yesterday morning in St. Mary's Cathedral. His talk was the forerunner of a two weeks' mission of Rev. John A. Boyce, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, in his sermon Sunday night on "You Ought."
"The great imperative for which you cannot escape," he said, "is being the moral character."
Travel Through Any Creed.—Rev. Luther D. Wyatt, pastor of the First Congregational church, Sunday night scored persons who were too selfish to provide the necessities of life for their missionaries and those who admired religion without practicing it. Dr. Wyatt declared that the road to God was by no particular creed, and that there is some one thing in religion that appeals to each nature whereby that person should travel to God.
Girls' Youthful Wish Granted.—Here are admonitions handed out to his congregation by Rev. Joshua Stansfield, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, Sunday night:
"Whatever is closely unfair is untrue, false and wrong. Gird yourselves with the opposite of these and fight for the establishment of truth. If there is an error, and you see it, gird yourself with truth; put on the breastplate of righteousness and drive out the wrong."
Senators and Benedict Arnold.—Rev. E. Olin Eldridge, pastor of the Mount Taber Methodist church, Sunday morning declared that the 12 senators who stood against President Wilson in the recent armament bill invited reputations as unenviable as that of Benedict Arnold.

LEAGUE WITH 100,000 FARMER MEMBERS IS BEHIND GOVERNMENT

Head of Non-Partisan Political League Favors Peace, but Not at Any Price.

St. Paul, Minn., March 12.—(U. P.)—The Non-Partisan Political league, with its 100,000 farmer members, stands 50-50 on indorsement of congressional doings of the last fortnight. Its president, A. C. Townley, said last night:
"Let capital throw its resources into the war game unselfishly and the 100,000 farmers of the northwest will throw their resources and their blood, if necessary, into the game just as enthusiastically."
President Townley heads the political organization that swept the state of North Dakota at the last election.
"It is apparent that munitions, armor and steel plants would be gainers by a conflict," he said. "It is generally believed that the munitions plants are responsible for a propaganda to involve this nation in the European conflict."
"We have petitioned the administration to maintain peace with honor. We favor absolute neutrality—but not peace at any price. It is our firm and unalterable purpose to stand by our nation with our lives and property in case of war."
Seizing of munition making plants by the government in case of war was urged by Townley. He takes a broad view as to munitions plants, including mills, factories and all equipment contributing to the common need of the nation in time of war.

Preacher Becomes Skeptic, Hangs Self

Hammond, Ind., March 12.—(U. P.)—I have grave doubts about the providence of God," wrote Rev. W. H. Carroll, 74, who is dead today, the result of hanging himself. "I have closely followed New York newspaper accounts at any price. It is our firm and unalterable purpose to stand by our nation with our lives and property in case of war."

Bed Time Tales

BY CLARA INGRAM JUDSON

A Hidden Spark.
Once upon a time, a spark lived in a long trolley wire.
For some days he ran up and down the wire hunting a place to live. If you ever have hunted you know just what a very hard time he had hunting a pleasant home. If a corner seemed fairly comfortable, it was sure to prove too public or it was cozy and snug it was too near the trolley.

You see, this spark, even though he was very little, was very wise, and he knew that if he made too much light or noise the repair men would come and then his fun would be over.
So most of the time he kept very quiet, only occasionally would he sputter and crackle and really have a good time.
For some days now he had been particularly good and quiet, and it was getting very tiresome.
"I'll declare," he said to himself one morning, "I've been good so long that I'm afraid something is the matter with me. If I don't do something dreadful pretty soon there won't be any sparkle left in me. But what is there I can do?"
He kept very still and thought the matter over carefully.
"One spark alone," he decided, "can't do anything much. I must hunt up some other sparks."
So every time a trolley car went by his wire he called out:
"Crack-k, Crack-k; if any of you sparks want some fun, come here!"
And would you believe it, from nearly every trolley pole that passed a little spark jumped about to his wire.
"Till by evening dozens of gay little sparks filled the wire. Of course they were very crowded, but nobody minded that. It's a joy when a crowd is that it seems uncomforable."
Patiently they waited till twilight, but nothing happened. And one little spark plucked up courage and said, "I thought we were going to have some fun? Of course this is all very pleasant, but I thought we were going to really do something."

"Sure enough we are," said the little spark, "only I'm waiting till dark. Whoever notices sparks in the daytime? But now it's almost time. When that next limited goes by, you must all be ready to jump out and sputter and spark the very loudest and brightest you can."
All the little sparks chuckled to themselves and got ready.
In about ten minutes the big limited came rushing along. Just as it reached the pole where the sparks were hiding there was a sputter and flash of a dozen sparks.
"Dear me!" exclaimed the conductor, "as everybody jumped and screamed, where did those come from—a wire must be loose."
And the gay little sparks chuckled to themselves to think he didn't know it was just a game.
Tomorrow—Almost a Fable.

GIDEONS ADD NEW LAURELS TO CROWN BY DONATING BIBLES

After Special Sermon for Them They Placed Bibles in Several City Hotels.

Traveling men—that is, traveling salesmen, or, to be explicit and thus separate the sheep from the goats, Christian Traveling Salesmen, have themselves spelled with capital letters—have added new laurels to their coming crowns by the distribution of Bibles to Portland hotels, and not since their brothers in salesmanship, but not necessarily in religion, succeeded in getting new awards of legislature making nine-foot sheets compulsory has such a thrill of joy gone through the hearts of weary wayfarers temporarily removed from the Christian influence of home.
The Gideons, a branch of the Christian Traveling Men's Association of America, were honored by a special sermon at the First Methodist church Sunday morning by Rev. Joshua Stansfield, and the singing of "My Mother's Bible" by Hartidge Whipp. They began the distribution of 350 Bibles to the Multnomah, Oregon, Nortonia and Seward hotels. The Hotel Portland some time ago was supplied, several hundred volumes being placed. The books are splendidly bound in black leather, on excellent paper, clean type, and with the latest references.
Before starting out, J. D. Ogden, secretary and treasurer of the organization, told of its object and origin. G. W. Butterworth, president of the society, had charge of the distribution, assisted by C. C. Callahan, J. A. Bamford, A. K. Taber, E. S. Miller, John H. Alecock Jr., R. K. Yoils, the Hustlers' class and the Oxford Bible class. The distribution was made by automobiles, 88 books going to the Hotel Multnomah, 75 to the Nortonia, 110 to the Oregon, and 98 to the Seward.
Kansas City, March 12.—(I. N. S.)—Frederick W. Oberhelman, for five years bookkeeper and paying teller for the Security National bank, embezzled $25,000, was married Thursday afternoon and committed suicide 13 hours later in a room in the new Oxford hotel. His body was not found until late Saturday.

Headache From the Eyes.
THE least recognized and most common of all the causes for headache is an unhealthy condition of the eyes. We see women and men, however, who suffer from what they call chronic headache, taking all sorts of drugs which are compounded for headache caused from a bad stomach, without the slightest effect. They suffer and persist in getting and trying until finally somewhere some one casually remarks: "Perhaps it is caused by your eyes." Its usual symptoms should signify that from the first. They are pain in the eyes, in the temples and over the brows, while in a few exceptional cases an acute aching at the back of the head and neck is also felt. Even when these symptoms are not present, any sensitiveness to light and glare, any symptoms of inflammation or redness should receive the most prompt medical examination and treatment, but when neglect is allowed to very serious complications. It is important not only to secure medical treatment for any such symptoms, but it is of supreme importance that such treatment shall be administered, not only by skillful physicians, but whenever possible by an oculist who is both a specialist and a physician.
So often the condition requires the treatment of a specialist, that the average general practitioner refers cases of headache of this kind immediately to an oculist. Patients should have the same wisdom.
Whenever a child complains of headache his eyes should immediately be examined, as, unless there is some stoppage of the nostrils, the eyes are the usual seat of trouble. Headaches from other causes seem entirely a habit of adult life. In many cases of slight inflammation of the eyes and lids little ice bags placed over the eyes for about 10 minutes will relieve them. Care should be taken to use two separate little bags—one for each eye, and never alternate them. Hot water applications may be used with almost equal effect. Few persons know how valuable a stimulant is the application of hot water to the eyes. Its value as a part of ophthalmic therapeutics is universally recognized by physicians.
The growing practice of allowing opticians to prescribe as well as manufacture glasses cannot be too strongly protested against. Valuable as glasses often are in affording relief in cases of eye strain, their use must be supervised by the most careful medical care and attention. The double treatment is impossible for the optician, whose work should be that of manufacturing glasses, not of prescribing them.
There has been in the last 20 years as notable an increase in eye headaches as there has been in the number of opticians and eye-glass furnishing establishments. The growth has been naturally in proportion to the demand for their products and the relative increase of our city populations, and the growing practice of people less investigating surroundings and compels a less invigorating manner of life than the rural existence—thus lessening physical strength.
The use of artificial light, which increases longer study, aids in one way but harms in another. Children should not be allowed to read far into the night. There is no more pathetic sight than a child with glasses covering its young eyes. The greatest fault of the luxurious American people is—procrastination. They neglect their teeth, eyes and health generally, until almost too late—whereas, if such things were attended to at the first sign of trouble, health and happiness would be assured.
The stomach headache is but a warning of uncleanness which may be regulated by cleansing the intestines thoroughly, but the eye headache is a danger sign that means disaster to the whole system if neglected.
You have but two eyes, and can never have more than those two eyes. Respect them and they will be your faithful bodyguards all through your life.

Stands Helpless as Wife, Under Car, Dies

San Francisco, March 12.—(P. N. S.)—August Koch of Mill Valley was forced to stand helpless beside his overturned auto Saturday night and realize his wife was dying beneath it. The machine in which both had been riding, turned turtle about half way between Green Brae and Corte Madera, throwing the man clear and pinning the woman face down in the small stream. Before Koch could summon help to extricate her she was dead.

Tank Steamers to Sail Without Guns

New York, March 12.—(I. N. S.)—Tank steamers of the Standard Oil company will not be armed, even though the arming of American vessels is permitted, an official of the company stated Sunday.
The Standard Oil has a fleet of 200 tank ships, 80 of which are in service between this country and various ports in Europe.

Kansas City, March 12.—(I. N. S.)—Frederick W. Oberhelman, for five years bookkeeper and paying teller for the Security National bank, embezzled $25,000, was married Thursday afternoon and committed suicide 13 hours later in a room in the new Oxford hotel. His body was not found until late Saturday.

Boston Parade Is High Price Protest

Boston, March 12.—(U. P.)—Four thousand men, women and children marched through the streets of Boston Saturday afternoon in protest against the high prices of foodstuffs. Headed by several children carrying a huge white streamer on which were printed in large letters: "We are hungry," women of Greater Boston, some with shawls over their heads, others bareheaded, many carrying small babies, marched in silent protest.
