SEVERAL BILLS VETOED AND REASONS STATED BY GOVERNOR LISTER

Refusal of Legislature to Permit Checking of State Auditor's Office Is Rebuked.

INCREASED SALARIES FAIL

Measure Passed at Olympia to Curtail I. W. W. Propaganda Is Declared to Be Wholly Unwise.

The state bureau of inspection, maintenance of the governor's mansion and the position of state law librarian were wiped out today by Governor Lister's veto of items in the general appropriations bill.

Weeks ago the governor warned the chairman of the legislative appropriations committee that this action would be taken if proper appropriations were not made, but his suggestions were ignored.

His veto message the governor said: "I must take the action of the legislature, in declining to provide for the checking of the state auditor's department, when having before it the information that the department had not been checked since statehood, as an indication that the legislature was not in fact exercising its duty for this purpose."

Checking Appropriation Unwise. "If it is necessary to have a check of the auditor's office, which is clearly the most important department of the state in the matter of the payment of public funds, it seems to me that I am justified in taking the position that it would be unwise to appropriate $47,700 to be used in checking the other departments of the state."

The bill also proposed to increase salaries of the law librarian from $2400 to $3000, the assistant from $1200 to $1500 and the second assistant from $900 to $1200. The governor points out that he cannot see why the legislature should pay a salary as great as that paid the attorney general, so he vetoes the librarian's salary but leaves the two assistants at the increased pay.

He also vetoes $250 for Spokane architects for plans for remodeling the Spokane armory because they publicly offered their services free. He allows the $3275 relief bill for Auditor Clausen, though he points out that one of the items included was for printing by a local newspaper plant at a cost of several hundred dollars more than the public printer would have charged.

Vetoing the bill to severely punish dissemination of I. W. W. doctrines, the governor says: "If the enactment of a law relating to a special subject, such as that covered in this bill, could carry with it sufficient force to free the state from the disturbing and oftentimes destructive influence of false doctrines, we would, indeed, be justified in placing such a law on our statute books."

Accuses Society of Cruelty to His Dog

A. J. Andrews Claims That a Humane Society Employee Caught His Licensed Dog and Mistreated It.

A. J. Andrews of 271 Montgomery street accused the Humane society of inhumane treatment of his dog. The animal, though wearing a license tag on his collar was picked up and taken to the pound in a wagon box containing other dogs. Andrews was on the way and after arrival was badly used up by the other dogs and by the attendants that he has lost the right of an eye, injured leg, and is about to die. It was only after he conducted a search that he found the dog had been taken to the pound."

said Mr. Andrews Monday. "When he was finally returned to us, his furry coat was a mass of mud, he had a hole in the bone, and the diameter of a half collar, in his shoulder and he was otherwise mutilated. Although I have brought these things to the attention of the superintendent of the society, I have been unable to get an expression of regret, even. A veterinary was sent to look at the dog and he said the animal had been 'chewed up.'"

Superintendent Coperthwaite of the Humane society said that the dog wagon attendants declare the Andrews dog had been fighting before capture and that it was returned in the same condition as they found it. He says that he frequently warns his men to be humane in their handling of stray canines.
