

PORTLAND CHINESE SIGN ARMISTICE FOR PERIOD OF 30 DAYS

Pact Is Result of Threat of Mayor Albee to Institute Relentless Prosecution.

SEVEN WEEKS' WAR ENDS

During Period of Tong Fight 28 Orestants Have Been Killed, Four More in This City.

Portland Chinese are at peace again. At 11:15 Saturday night the last name was added to a contract agreement between the four warring societies whereby the gunmen agreed to lay down arms. The peace is for 30 days, but in that time the tongs must get together for permanent unity.

The agreement ends a war of seven weeks' duration, in which 28 Chinese have been killed up and down the coast. It started in Portland, February 7, between the Hip Sing and Sui Sing, but quickly spread to the Bing Kong-Bow Leongs and Hop Sing and became the most vicious feud in years. Four men died in Portland as a result of the war.

Representatives of these tongs signed the agreement in the mayor's office. The peace is local. It provides that no matter what shooting is done outside, the factions here will remain inactive. Credit for the truce belongs to Mayor Albee. It was his threat to institute relentless prosecution against the fighters that brought them to time.

Efforts Seem Hopeless. Conference started at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, and for many hours hope of success died down, to flare again and again. The Chinese Peace society met first yesterday afternoon, doing nothing because the Bing Kong were not present. At 4 o'clock the Bing Kong met their opponents and Peace society officials, with Mayor Albee, District Attorney Evans, Immigration Inspector Bonham, numerous attorneys and others.

At divers times during the next four or five hours various officials to sign the compact were rung in by the two factions, only to be rejected by the others. At 10 o'clock Mr. Evans stalked from the meeting in great rage, threatening arrest of every Chinaman in Portland Monday because the Bow Leongs produced an official who afterwards admitted not to be secretary.

This was the critical time. The 14 Chinese in the room prepared to leave, but better counsel prevailed, and once again deliberations started. The Bow Leongs proceeded to dig up an entirely new secretary, and he was satisfactory.

At 11 o'clock Attorney W. W. Banks, representing the peace society, drew the contract, and it was signed and given long seals in a few minutes. Then the mayor had the four secretaries shake hands. The only unhappy ones, as a result, apparently were the armed guards employed by the tongs leaders, for they lose their jobs.

The tongs further agreed to assist in prosecuting any man who violates the compact. The session produced an illustrious array of local Chinese, for the wealthiest men of the race in Portland attended. The peace commission-ers were: Lee Hong, Lee Chung, Wong On, Leong Jew Hing, Ho Chung Way, Jung Bing Jan and Lee Mee Gin. Held back by Harry Ding conducted Bow Leong negotiations. Final signers of the compact were Gong Wo, Sui Sing, Tong; Lee Gin, Hop Sing, Tong; Ching Hing, Bow Leong, Tong; and Lee Hing, Hip Sing, Tong.

Boise Chinaman Is Killed. Boise, Idaho, March 31.—(U. P.)—Wong Bok Sing, a Chinese laundryman, was killed tonight in his laundry, a victim of the tong war being waged in the west. Wong's body was literally riddled with bullets. He was a member of the Hop Sing tong, and the shooting was done by Hip Sing tong highlanders. Five Chinamen arrested as suspects are held pending an investigation. The police are looking for Eng Dong, alias "China Tom," well known in the west and believed to be the ringleader in the murder.

PATRIOTS' ZEAL TAKES FORM AT GREAT MEETING

Stephen A. Lowell of Portland, Ellsworth Benham of the National Security League, Elmer Marston, Westworth, president general of the Sons of the American Revolution, Mrs. George F. Thompson, Wallace McCann, justice of the state supreme court, City Attorney W. P. LaRocha, City Commissioner George L. Baker, President C. E. Cochran of the Rotary club, which issued the call for the gathering, and others.

At intervals in the stirring program, martial airs were rendered by the Junior Artisan band.

President's Course Applauded. The resolutions adopted began: "That the course of the president and the congress in the present crisis to uphold the honor and dignity of this republic and to protect its citizens in full enjoyment of American rights shall have our unqualified indorsement."

The second paragraph called upon the delegates to return to their respective organizations and lead in the formulation of a policy that it was declared should result in a great citizen's auxiliary in aid of the securing of eligible men for the service of the army and navy.

In cooperation with the American Red Cross, the mass meeting pledged itself to see that the family of no man who answers the call to the colors shall come to want.

And, last, "That Americans should adopt immediately a policy of active preparedness not only for the present crisis, but for the protection of the nation. A policy which will not only defend the Atlantic coast, but the Pacific coast as well; a policy which will be in strength exceeding any other power."

It was proposed that the board of directors be composed of the following: General Charles F. Beebe, Franklin T. Griffith, William D. Wheelwright, W. Colton, Ben Seiling, Dr. E. K. Scott, Ellsworth Benham, H. E. Hume, Vincent, E. A. Clark, Guy W. Talbot, H. H. Ward, Rev. John H. Boyd, Rev. Father George F. Thompson, Rt. Rev. Walter T. Sumner, Rabbi Joseph B. Wise, Mrs. J. N. Davis, Mrs. C. S. Jackson, Mrs. George W. McMath, Mrs. Alva Lee Stephens, Edward Cochran, E. H. Semmler, Charles P. Howard, Dr. J. E. Hall, Charles E. Cochran, H. C. Wortman, L. E. Beach and Mrs. Hattie Hendes.

Officers Are Suggested. The board of directors was requested to elect the following officers: President emeritus, General Thomas M. Anderson; honorary president, the governor of Oregon; two honorary vice presidents, the mayor of Portland and the chairman of the board of county commissioners; a president, one vice president from each of the organizations of men and women of the state of Oregon, such vice president to be elected by each organization and ratified by the board; one secretary and such additional assistant secretaries as may be needed, and a treasurer.

At the close of the meeting Chairman Cochran read a telegram received from the National Security League in answer to one he sent earlier in the day seeking information concerning the full page advertisements appearing in the newspapers Friday urging "peace at any price."

The telegram from the league read: "Mrs. Henry E. Villars is chairman (of the Emergency Peace Federation), and Miss Lella Faye is secretary. There were no other names publicly identified with the organization. Mrs. Villars is the mother of Oswald Garrison Villard, editor of the New York Evening Post. We can not find out who is supplying funds for the peace at any price campaign. The offices of the federation refuse to give information on the subject."

match for that of a regular war vessel.

Tonnage Sunk Placed at $2,350. The total of tonnage sunk by the Seeadler, according to lists furnished by survivors, is $2,350. There was considerable variance in the stories of the actual destruction of the Seeadler's victims—number of survivors claiming that the raider opened fire without previous warning, while others claimed she hoisted the German flag in place of her Norwegian ensign and warned the ships that crews must leave at once.

Tonight the 283 survivors were still held aboard the Cambronne, pending the completion of the investigation of the examination and decision as to their future course on disposition of the Cambronne.

Up to tonight there was no official confirmation of early reports that a considerable number of persons lost their lives through drowning when the raider attacked various vessels.

The Brazilian admiral announced it had confirmed the fact that in no case did the raider operate in Brazilian territorial waters.

There are three small German merchantmen named Seeadler, the largest of 500 tons, belonging to the North German Lloyd. There is however, also an unprotected cruised Seeadler, listed in the "Rachefuehrer Der Kriegsflootten" a semi-official German naval almanac. This vessel is of 1570 tons, and was launched in 1912 at Danzig. Her speed is given at 15.8 nautical miles and her armament as consisting of eight 10.5 centimeter guns and five 3.7 centimeter rapid fire and two torpedo tubes. Her complement consists of six officers and 100 crew, a doctor, a purser, seven non-commissioned officers, and 144 men, a total of 160. From descriptions of the ship it is probable that this is the ship.

The raider has three masts and is equipped with a powerful wireless cleverly concealed in the rigging. She is loaded with mines and is armed with two guns of 105 millimeters and 16 machine guns. She carries a great supply of munitions and explosives. She has two concealed auxiliary gas engines. Her supply is said to be enough for 18 months. Her commander is Count Luckner. (Two counts von Luckner are listed in the German naval almanac as reserve officers of the imperial navy. Both were in the employ of the Hamburg-American prior to the war. One a captain of a merchantman, is Count Karl Adam von Luckner, a lieutenant captain in the navy reserve. The other is Count Felix von Luckner, brother of Karl Adam. He was a first officer on a Hamburg-American vessel before the war and is a lieutenant in the navy reserve.)

The 12 organizations were called out like those before them, for purposes of police protection. The First New Mexico infantry will be mustered out as they had not been mustered into federal service with the full federal oath. They will, however, be mustered into the federal service later, it was indicated.

the front, when their work would be more valuable back of the line. The national defense council draw plans for co-ordinating all national preparedness measures except purely military steps, for submission to President Wilson.

Even while the active steps were being taken for the vigorous entrance of the United States into the war against Germany, the latest act of the imperial government against the United States, was reported at the state department—the killing of two Americans aboard the torpedoed British steamer Crispin. Eighteen more are missing.

The news caused no material reaction here. It has been determined that the country is to meet Germany with the sword, the only effect of added strength is to strengthen the determination of government officials.

President to Draft Message. This determination also is strengthened by hundreds of telegrams to President Wilson from the country stands ready to back him in whatever steps he deems necessary—however aggressive.

Members of congress have polled their districts and with few exceptions find the predominating conviction voiced by the folks back home that the time has come for a united America to throw its strength and life into necessary into the struggle.

President Wilson is now ready to put into writing the document he will deliver to congress next week. From the tentative draft which has been discussed by his cabinet, the message will stand out as a powerful appeal to the peoples of all nations to realize the patience and forbearance exercised by the United States in holding aloof from the struggle until relentless blows wielded at the obviously deliberate direction of German autocracy left no other course open to America but must in the name of the name of humanity and democracy.

Demonstrations Are Planned. The advent of the "war congress" is being heralded by patriotic demonstration of every kind in Washington. Thousands of flags fly from the houses and public buildings in the capital. Many of those fluttering from government structures and the taller buildings are emblazoned in the light of giant searchlights which are shot from nearby roofs.

Crying "The White Flag of Surrender" will be heard in the folds of the Stars and Stripes, hundreds of men and women on a "pilgrimage of patriotism" are coming to town from every part of the nation to stage a counter demonstration to the plans of pacifists in an effort to avert the war.

The convening of congress promises to mark one of the most dramatic scenes in the nation's history. Thousands of men and women divided in their views on peace or war promise to invade the capital Monday, and carry their respective messages to the nation's war-making body.

For the first time in the history of any nation a woman will vote to decide peace or hostilities for her country. Miss Jeannette Rankin holds the responsibility for speaking the voice of American womanhood. Her vote on the war resolution has aroused the curiosity of the country.

More Troops Ordered Out. Washington, March 31.—(U. P.)—The War Department tonight ordered out additional troops. District of Columbia—Third infantry. Oklahoma—First infantry. Louisiana—First infantry. Texas—Second, Third and Fourth infantry and First squadron of cavalry. Arkansas—First infantry. Rhode Island—Second, Fifth, Twelfth and Fifteenth companies, Coast Artillery, to act as infantry.

The 12 organizations were called out like those before them, for purposes of police protection. The First New Mexico infantry will be mustered out as they had not been mustered into federal service with the full federal oath. They will, however, be mustered into the federal service later, it was indicated.

OFFICIAL STANDARDS FOR WHEAT IN UNITED STATES PRESCRIBED

To Be Effective for Winter
Wheat on July 1 and for Spring Wheat August 1.

NORTHWEST IS AFFECTED

Three Classes Mainly Affecting Northwest Are Soft Red Winter, Common
White and White Club Varieties.

Washington, March 31.—(WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE JOURNAL).—Official wheat standards for the United States, prescribed by Secretary Houston today, will go into effect for winter wheat on July 1 and for spring wheat on August 1.

Six classes of wheat are established, each divided into sub-classes and these in turn are divided into numerous grades. Thirty-seven typewritten pages give details of the grades required for each class and sub-class. The three classes mainly affecting the Pacific northwest are soft red winter, common white and white club. The soft red winter includes all varieties of that description, including northern hybrids, and is divided into three sub-classes, red winter, red walla and soft red.

Common white includes all varieties except sonora, winter or spring grown, with not over 10 per cent of other wheats and is divided into two sub-classes, hard and soft white.

Hard white includes white bluestem, early heart, alton, gasolona and northern, with not over 20 per cent of kernels that are soft and chalky. Soft white includes all containing over 20 per cent soft and chalky.

Eighteen Grades Described. While club class includes all varieties and hybrids of white club, also sonora, with not over 10 per cent of other kinds. Soft red winter is divided into 18 grades. Red winter No. 1 may contain only 2 per cent of other classes, 13 per cent moisture and must weigh 51 pounds. No. 2, 10 per cent, 13.50; No. 3, 8 per cent, 14.50; No. 4, 10 per cent, 14.50; No. 5, 10 per cent, 14.50; No. 6, 10 per cent, 14.50; No. 7, 10 per cent, 14.50; No. 8, 10 per cent, 14.50; No. 9, 10 per cent, 14.50; No. 10, 10 per cent, 14.50; No. 11, 10 per cent, 14.50; No. 12, 10 per cent, 14.50; No. 13, 10 per cent, 14.50; No. 14, 10 per cent, 14.50; No. 15, 10 per cent, 14.50; No. 16, 10 per cent, 14.50; No. 17, 10 per cent, 14.50; No. 18, 10 per cent, 14.50.
