These readings were illustrated by pictures. Miss Tuttle also gave four piano numbers. Klamath Folk Want Project Completed

Commercial Club Suggests to Government This Would Be Good Way to Increase Food Production.

Klamath Falls, Or., April 21.—In accordance with the government plan to increase the production of foodstuffs, the Klamath Commercial club has appealed to the legislators at Washington for the completion of the Klamath reclamation project here. It is felt that no more certain way to increase the food supply of the country can be found than to place water on the lands.

Lands of the Klamath reclamation project were second in their cash yield per acre last year of the 23 government projects, according to Secretary Lane's annual report. Two million dollars has been expended by the government in placing the water on the 50,000 acres now reclaimed and it is estimated that $2,000,000 more will be required to complete the project, which embraces 250,000 acres.

Monitor Cheyenne Fires Upon Launch

Small Unidentified Boat Approaches Too Close and Shot Is Fired When Hail Is Unanswered.

San Francisco, April 21.—(P. N. S.)—An unidentified launch, approaching too close to the United States monitor Cheyenne in the bay early Friday morning and refusing to answer the hail of the sentry on watch, was fired at, according to a report made to Chief of Police D. A. White this afternoon by Lieutenant H. B. Howe of the Cheyenne.

Four hours later, Lieutenant Howe states, Peterson launch No. 11 approached too close to the monitor and the launch captain passed a remark about hoisting the American flag, which the navy officer says might be regarded as disrespectful of the flag. At the request of Lieutenant Howe, Chief White instructed Captain Patrick Shea, in command of the harbor district, to warn all small craft owners not to approach too close to war vessels in the bay, and to answer all hails of sentries under penalty of being fired at for disobedience to these orders.

SEALERS INSTRUCTED TO PROSECUTE BERRY DEALERS WHO WELCH

Notice Served That Failure to Give Customers Full Measure Will Mean Trouble.

STANDARD BOXES NEEDED

All Merchants and Growers Are Presumed to Know What State Law Requires of Them.

Salem, Or., April 21.—Spence Wortman, deputy state sealer of weights and measures, has sent notice to his district sealers to prosecute all berry dealers who do not give their customers full measure of berries.

This notice is being given in connection with the arrival of the strawberry season. In his letter to the district sealers, Mr. Wortman says:

"Berries must be sold in standard boxes, in quantities up to and including a dry quart.

"The boxes must be well packed. The purchaser is entitled to a box of berries well packed and level full.

Last Year's Efforts.

"Last year this office spent considerable time and money distributing about 6000 copies of the weight and measure laws, visiting the growing sections in the state, calling the attention of the merchants and growers to the law, and insisting on the boxes being level full when sold to the consumer.

"Feeling that the department has exhausted every effort to acquaint the merchants and growers with the law, I am determined that the consumer, when buying berries, shall get berries in a standard box, well packed, and level full.

What Standard Is.

"I would request you to prosecute vigorously any violators of the law, which is as follows:

"'The standard boxes or baskets used in the sale of strawberries, blackberries, loganberries, raspberries or similar berries, shall be of the interior capacity of 67.2 cubic inches (dry quart) or 33.6 cubic inches (dry pint) or 16.8 cubic inches (dry one-half pint). And it shall be unlawful to offer or expose for sale or sell strawberries, blackberries, loganberries, raspberries, or similar berries, in boxes or baskets of other than the standard size; provided, that nothing within this section shall be construed as in any way preventing the sale of strawberries, blackberries, loganberries, raspberries, or similar berries, by the weight or in boxes or baskets of greater capacity than 67.2 cubic inches.'"

Wheat Tax Made Easier.

Salem, Or., April 21. — Under the present laws it is difficult to collect taxes on wheat stored in a warehouse when the wheat is owned by some unknown person outside the state, points out Attorney General Brown in an opinion to T. H. Weinke, district attorney at Condon. But the attorney general says that when the 1917 session laws go into effect May 21, it will be possible to force immediate collection of personal taxes, and in the case of the wheat it will be proper to assess the taxes to the warehouseman, holding him liable for payment of the tax before the wheat can be removed.

Water Matters Discussed.

Salem, Or., April 21.—George Sorenson and O. S. Blanchard of Grants Pass, connected with the Rogue River Public Service corporation, were here Friday conferring with members of the state water board regarding the company's permits for water power development on the Rogue river. The company is to be required to proceed with the proposed development or see its permits cancelled. The company proposes to supply water by pumping from the Rogue river for irrigating about 50,000 acres in the vicinity of Grants Pass.

State Fire Marshal Confers.

Salem, Or., April 21.—Jay Stevens, Portland's fire marshal, who will be state fire marshal when the new laws go into effect, May 21, and Deputy District Attorney Charles Robison of Portland were here Friday conferring with State Insurance Commissioner Harvey Wells about matters relating to the work of state fire marshal. Mr. Robison will be deputy state fire marshal.

Duties of Sealer Defined.

Salem, Or., April 21.—Attorney General Brown has advised Spence Wortman, deputy sealer of weights and measures, that the laws give the sealer of weights and measures no jurisdiction over the quality of commodities sold by weight or measure. All the sealer can do, the attorney general points out, is to see that an honest weight or an honest measure is given.

Nebraska Storm Is Aid to Wheat Crop

Omaha, Neb., April 21.—(I. N. S.)—Snow, sleet and rain yesterday and today completely demoralized railroad, telegraph and telephone traffic in western Nebraska, Colorado and Wyoming. The Union Pacific railroad reports 2000 telegraph poles down on the main line in Nebraska, while the Burlington has 1000 poles down between Trenton, Neb., and Wray, Colo. The storm is worth millions of bushels to the winter wheat crop.

CLOTHES NOT EVERYTHING

Several days ago I spoke of the importance of clothes, and it is true that if we are to appear to advantage in these days of rapidly changing fashions one must give a certain amount of time and thought to the dress problem. But don't, above all, let it become such an obsession that you become a walking clothes horse.

I know a woman who went east last autumn for a six weeks' trip. Although this was her first trip east she was familiar with the names and had had dealings with many of the fashionable milliners and dressmakers of New York. When she returned she had left no small or exclusive shop either or or off Fifth avenue unvisited. But she had not seen any of the interesting and historic sights of either the city or the country.

This poor little senseless slave to fashion returned to her home town without any impression of the east other than of its shops and its hotels. But she took with her several trunks full of new gowns, hats and lingerie. And one looking at her would marvel at the pitifully grotesque result of all this planning to "make a good appearance."

She was married to a man of large interests, kindly and sympathetic in his home life. His business brought him into contact with men of affairs, and in a patehtic effort to keep up with her husband the little wife would deck herself out in the most expensive apparel.

But when she entertained any of her husband's acquantances she floundered around helplessly and hopelessly while they talked of many things, and finally subsided altogether.

She knew nothing whatever of John's business, or, indeed, of anything in the outside world other than the new models Lucille would bring out in the spring or the fashion show at the Ritz.

Her reading was confined to the fashion pages of magazines, with now and then a trashy best-seller, which she devoured eagerly because she thought she was doing the proper thing.

No really feminine creature can deny the fascination which pretty clothes possess for her. We all love to appear well. But don't for goodness sake let dress become the alpha and omega of your existence.

ROAST RABBIT Empty, skin and thoroughly wash the rabbit; wipe it dry, line the inside with sausage meat and forcemeat (the latter worked up). Sew the stuffing inside, skewer back the head between the shoulders, cut off the fore joints of the shoulders and legs, bring them close to the body and secure them by means of a skewer. Wrap the rabbit in buttered paper, keep it well basted, and a few minutes before it is done remove the paper, flour and froth it and let it acquire a nice brown color. It should be done in three-quarters of an hour. Take out the skewers and serve with brown gravy and red currant jelly. To bake the rabbit proceed in the same manner as above; in a good oven it will take about the same time as roasting. Most cooks garnish the rabbit with slices of lemon and serve up with currant jelly.

POOR MAN'S MUFFINS One may use half the recipe with a small egg with satisfactory results, for this amount makes 30 muffins. Mix and sift 8½ cups of pastry flour, 3 tablespoons of sugar, 6 teaspoons of baking powder and 1 teaspoon of salt. Add gradually, while beating constantly, 1½ cups of milk, 1 egg well beaten and 3 tablespoons of melted butter. Bake in buttered gem pans 25 minutes, having the pan previously heated.

KITCHEN HINTS The shad season lasts from January until June.

It is said that oil of eucalyptus will remove machine oil from a garment.

If when filling hot water bottles a funnel is used, the steaming water will not touch the neck of the bottle. It is here that the first leaks usually appear.

Salt thrown on fallen soot prevents the carpet marking, and enables the soot to be swept up cleanly.

Salt rubbed into an ink stain on a deal table, after the spot is dampened, removes the mark.

"No Fool Like" Etc.

In future years men will wait until they are 100 years old to wed, says an evangelist. And then girls of about 20 will be their choice.

Midnight Kinks.

IT IS just as necessary for women to assume proper positions while they are resting and sleeping in their nightgowns or pajamas as when they are dressed in the most elaborate costumes their wardrobes provide to parade through society's peacock alleys. If they neglect their sleeping postures they are almost sure to show signs of negligence.

A restful position is essential to peaceful sleep. Your body recuperates while you sleep. Many a rose that glows on feminine cheeks in the morning withers and disappears before evening. But if you sleep well, the rose that blooms in the morning should last until you retire. A restful position induces peaceful sleep, and this has an important bearing upon your appearance.

There are other reasons why you should not be careless about the position your body takes when you court sleep. Many ear defects are directly due to the indifference with which the head is placed upon the pillow. The ear that is twisted when you pillow your head is not likely to return to its proper shape as soon as you arise. And if it receives this treatment every night the deformity will become permanent.

It is claimed by some authorities that women who always sleep on the same side do not have regular hips. It is asserted that the under hip is not as large or as well rounded as the one upon which the weight of the body never rests. It is declared by the same authorities that the uniformity of the cheeks will eventually become impaired and one will be plumper than the other. They say the weight of the head on the same cheek each night has a tendency to flatten that cheek, while the other retains its rounded contour.

Few people have escaped the annoyance of a "kink in the neck" in the morning. These "kinks" appear when the neck is kept in an uncomfortable and unnatural position all night. When the limbs are held in a cramped and uncomfortable position all night they file their protest in the morning. These protests are sometimes in very vigorous forms.

We know that the body and all of its parts attempt to adjust themselves to the conditions that govern them. Crooked teeth, for instance, when held in correct position by artificial means will eventually remain there without the assistance or support other than that provided by nature. It is therefore reasonable to assume that the ears, or any part of the body that is kept out of its natural shape or position for a long period each day, will finally have a strong tendency to remain there.

We are generally told to sleep on the right side. In this position there is less pressure on the heart. The stomach is also in a better position to perform its functions, but there are many people who rest well on their backs.

In whatever position you may sleep the head should be correctly adjusted. I believe the head and neck should be at the same angle all the time, whether you are asleep or awake. The bed should not be too soft, but it is best to use a mattress that will permit of a distribution of the weight of the body, so that the muscles and joints are not pushed out of their natural position.

We feather our own nests, and it remains for us to determine whether we are to sleep on beds of roses or on beds of thorns.

HOOD RIVER FRUIT COMPANY FILES SUIT AGAINST APPLE MEN

Object of Litigation Is to Compel Distribution of Surplus Funds in Treasury.

Hood River, April 21. — Suit was filed Friday by the Hood River Fruit company of which H. F. Davidson, former president North Pacific Fruit Distributors, is president, against the Apple Growers association, asking an injunction restraining the Apple Growers' association from appropriating any of its $81,000 surplus funds for the purchase of additional property of the Apple Growers' union, valued at $125,000, as proposed by the association.

It is contended by the plaintiff that surplus funds in the hands of the association should be distributed to the growers whose tonnage created the fund.

Seventeen growers cancelling contracts with association this year represent 150,000 boxes of apples and join with the plaintiff in the suit. The association will fight the case.

Eureka, Cal., April 21.—(U. P.)—The United States submarine H-3, which went aground near here last fall, was relaunched in Humboldt bay Friday, after having been pulled across the peninsula from the Pacific ocean on rollers.

She will be towed to Mare Island navy yard for further repairs before being put into active commission again.

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT SUMMONS BEST O. A. C. CADETS FOR TRAINING

More Than 100 Students Immediately Apply for Admission to Officers' Camp.

47 OF THEM ARE SENIORS

These Will Be Graduated in Absentia and Juniors Who Join Colors Will Receive Regular Credits.

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis Or., April 21. — "We want your best men." This is the summons of the federal government to O. A. C., as stated in a telegram received Friday by President Kerr from Major General J. Franklin Bell, asking the attendance of qualified cadets at the three-months' training camp to be opened at the Presidio, San Francisco, on May 8.

More than 100 students had answered the call and put in applications for admission to the training camp by the time the office of the commandant closed late Friday afternoon. Forty-seven of these were seniors, and several faculty members were also listed among the applicants. Present indications are that an overwhelming majority of the junior and senior classes will make application.

Eligibles to Be Excused.

On receipt of the telegram, President Kerr immediately called a meeting of the administrative council and resolutions were adopted providing that the eligible seniors be excused on May 1, or earlier if necessary, and that they be regularly graduated in absentia with their class at the regular June commencement.

Other students who are qualified and enlist for the work at the training camp will be given full credit for their work to the end of the semester, and upon their return to the college will be given special assistance in making up any deficiencies.

The initial response to the call came Friday morning when the message from the war department was read to the members of the senior class in the department of logging engineering.

Thirteen Seniors Take Initiative.

There are 13 seniors in the department and all 13 had signed application blanks within five minutes after the message was read.

A large number of the students here are qualified to enter the camp, according to Lieutenant Colonel V. A. Caldwell, commandant of cadets at the college.

Announcement of the call was made at the drill period Friday and the offices at the armory were crowded for the rest of the afternoon with applicants. An equal number are expected to file their applications Saturday.

Advocate of Peace Rebuffed in Russia

Demands for Arrest of Returned Exile Are Opposed on Ground That Free Speech Must Be Tolerated.

Petrograd, April 21.—(I. N. S.)—Nicholas Lenine, the returned political exile, who is trying to launch a national movement for separate peace with Germany, is meeting with rebuffs on every hand.

Lenine is being attacked in the press and duma and by representatives of the Socialists, the labor party and the army, but in spite of the opposition he persists in the hope that he can gather together enough radicals to influence the government.

Demands have been made for Lenine's arrest on the grounds of "treasonable utterances" but this was opposed by Professor Millukoff and others on the ground free speech must be tolerated in free Russia.

Bed Time Tales

BY CLARA INGRAM JUDSON

The Caterpillar.

A GORGEOUS black and gold caterpillar once started out for a stroll.

Hardly had he gone a foot when he met a snail.

"Good morning, Friend Caterpillar," said the snail, pleasantly. "Where are you going today?"

"I'm just going for a little outing," replied the caterpillar. "I got so very tired of that plain green grass back there."

"I'm not surprised that you did," said the snail, "such a handsome caterpillar as you are shouldn't have to spend his life down in the grass. You ought to climb up higher and live near the flowers."

"Dear me, how wise you are, Friend Snail," said the caterpillar, proudly humping up his black and yellow back, "I never guessed you had so much wisdom in your shell. I was just thinking myself that I was living too modestly."

"Indeed, you are," the snail repeated.

The caterpillar felt so important and so flattered and comfortable withal that he began looking at once for some place to climb.

Just then a butterfly came by.

"Oh, Friend Butterfly," called the caterpillar, "I'm looking for a new place to live. Now, you fly around and the world—please tell me if this stem I am on leads to a good home."

"Well, it's this way," said the butterfly, stopping close by to explain. "You are on the stem of a golden rod plant. The blossom is very beautiful and everyone stops to admire it, but—"

"That's just where I will live, then," interrupted the caterpillar, "for as handsome a person as I am should live in a beautiful home."

"But, you see, it won't be very safe up there," said the butterfly, "for the birds can see you much easier when you are up out of the grass and you may be eaten up."

"Such a handsome caterpillar as you are, shouldn't have to spend his life down in the grass."

"Never fear," said the caterpillar, importantly, "do you suppose any bird would dare eat me—a beautiful caterpillar with a black and gold stripe!"

So he turned his back on the butterfly and didn't even say thank you or good-bye.

Up the golden rod stem he climbed, up and up and up.

"I think this is going to be fine," he said to himself as he paused for breath, "I can see so much more of the world from here."

"Hadn't you better keep down under that leaf, so that the birds won't see you?" asked a big blue fly, going by.

"No, indeed, I'm not afraid of birds," said the caterpillar, "no bird would touch a big handsome caterpillar like me!"

And to show he wasn't afraid, he stretched himself out on the top of a big green leaf.

Just then two robins flew by.

"Excuse me a minute," said one as he spied the caterpillar, "I see my dinner waiting for me."

Down he darted and gobbled up the vain yellow caterpillar all in one bite, just as if he was a common every-day worm!
