BY VELLA WINNER

At the meeting of the Woman's Study club of Coquille Friday afternoon the annual election resolutions were passed. The latter was a resolution approving the women's national economy movement. headed by Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and Thomas R. Marshall. The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. H. O. Anderson; first vice president, Mrs. H. W. Young; second vice president, Mrs. E. B. Rogers; secretary, Mrs. S. V. Epperson; treasurer, Mrs. W. L. Kistner. The club will meet next on May 1.

Eugene Has Child Study Day.—Monday afternoon the East Side Neighborhood club of Eugene had its weekly session at the home of Mrs. George McLean. This was the regular child study day and the members spent a profitable time exchanging ideas and listening to readings from the bibliography. A number of colored slides relating to the subject were loaned by the extension department of the university and were shown under the supervision of Mrs. Earl Kilpatrick. This club is meeting with great success, as is demonstrated by the attendance at the meetings. Next Monday at the home of Mrs. McLean Mrs. Charles McGinnis has charge of the program and Mrs. Dugald Campbell will read one of J. M. Barrie's Scotch stories. This Neighborhood group has formed itself into an auxiliary of the local Red Cross branch of the national association.

Will Discuss Fire Matters.—The two-platoon system for Portland will be discussed by Fire Marshal Stevens and W. S. U'ren at the next meeting of the Central W. C. T. U., Wednesday, May 2, in room A, Central library. From the present time until the election in June the measures to be voted on will be discussed at each meeting by prominent people, and the candidates for city offices will be invited to present their claims for election. The business session of the union commences at 2 o'clock. The public will be welcomed at all these meetings.

College Crest Club Meets.—Mrs. J. A. Cressay was hostess Thursday at her home to the colleges of its neighborhood club in Eugene. Mrs. Harrison of Iowa was an additional guest. The members are studying food values and at this time Mrs. Jay read a paper on the subject. At the next fortnightly meeting Mrs. C. B. Moore and Mrs. W. H. Freeling will be hostesses at the former's home and Mrs. Donald Young will give a talk on foods, taking her information from a set of charts.

W. C. T. U. Has Red Cross Meeting.—A large company of members and friends of Central W. C. T. U. met together in the home of the president, Mrs. M. L. T. Hidden, to knit and sew for the Red Cross Friday afternoon. Mrs. Jennie M. Kemp gave a most interesting resume of the work of this great association. Mrs. Lucia F. Addison urged consideration of the food question and conservation of its resources, stating that the waste and extravagance of the country was appalling in view of the present conditions of war and food shortage. Mrs. J. Kelly, vice president of the South Portland Improvement association, received a cordial reception and an offer of cooperation as she told of the plan to make Marquam gulch a place fit for human habitation. This delightful program, full of helpful suggestions, was closed by the singing of "The Stars and Stripes" and other numbers by Mrs. Blusser Hathaway in a charming manner. Light refreshments were served and this second of the social affairs planned by Central W. C. T. U. was voted a great success.

NATIONAL GUARD NOTES

Fourth Troop of Cavalry Expected to Be Formed Here.

Fourth Troop Expected.—The announcement of a fourth troop of cavalry being formed in the city of Portland. The enlistments in the two new troops are coming in well, and it is hoped that there will be a sufficient surplus this week to justify the additional unit, thus making a full squadron from Portland. Enlistments are received at the armory every night, and drills are conducted by experienced officers. Today the officers of the B and C will be kept open morning and afternoon. From now on there will be mounted drills at Clackamas every Sunday, and at other times as detachments can be arranged for. The horses have been taken from Vancouver to Clackamas, so as to be in readiness when the next call is made. Each troop will be recruited to full war strength.

Holding Back on Enlistments.—Battery A Oregon field artillery, is holding back hard on enlistments. No more men can be handled. The battery is full up and overflowing. Some rejections on final federal examination.

SICK WOMAN HAD CRYING SPELLS

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Enhat, Pa.—"I was all run down and weak inwardly. I had female troubles and nervous system feelings and my head bothered me. I would often have crying spells and feel as if I was not safe. I heard anyone coming I would run and lock the door so they would not see me. I tried several doctors and they did not help me. I should have tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It soon made a change in me, and now I am strong and do all my work."—Mrs. Augustus Baughman, Box 86, Enhat, Pa.

Why will women continue to suffer day in and day out and drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? If you would like free confidential advice address Lydia E. Pinkham's Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Miss Aileen Irving, who will respond to a toast at the Psychology club May Day luncheon Tuesday.

Representatives of a Number of Pacific Coast Papers Would Have Chinese and Japanese Admitted.

Washington, April 30.—(WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE JOURNAL.)—Admission of Chinese and Japanese coolie labor for the period of the war was endorsed, it is learned, at a meeting of a group of representatives of Pacific coast newspapers, who are in New

Coolie Labor for Coast Advocated

York attending the annual meeting of the Associated Press. The proposal which found favor was that Asiatic labor should be admitted for farm labor only, under regulations insuring deportation after the war ends. New York business organizations suggested the same idea several days ago. The papers represented at the conference included the Los Angeles Times, the Portland Oregonian, the San Francisco Chronicle, the Seattle Post-Intelligencer and the Spokane Spokesman-Review.

SPRING SEASON CURE FOR BLUES

One is supposed to find more happiness near his birth month than at other times of the year. Whether this is true or not, I find it hard to believe any one can be in a state of chronic depression in the spring.

We all experience a certain lassitude, it is true. It is sometimes extremely difficult to force ourselves to work when all outdoors is calling, but we manage to get through somehow and find ourselves less disposed to worry over the things which have been left undone.

And, then, those days when we can steal off for a few hours, and go out into the great open spaces, and breathe not always, each time all over again, revelations?

Everything is symbolical of life at its best. There is something wrong in the makeup of those who pull long faces and declare they see nothing in the spring to rejoice over. They have mental dyspepsia.

MAPLE NUT PUDDING

To 1 1/2 cups brown sugar add 2 cups boiling water and 1/2 cup cornstarch diluted with 1/4 cup cold water. Cook until it thickens in double boiler for 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Remove from fire and add 1 egg (beaten stiff) and 1/2 cup nut meats broken in pieces. Serve with whipped cream.

SMOTHERED CHICKEN

Open the chicken as for broiling. Put into pan with a little water. Season with butter and pepper and salt. Cover with another pan and cook till done. Take off cover and brown. Make a gravy in pan of milk and browned flour. Pour over chicken.

THE NEW JACKET

A little is among us. Into the great family of clothes has come a new arrival. It is the jacket frock, as cunning as a baby's eyelash and as chipper as a bluejay. Its godmother is Jenny, and, as styles have offered us few excitingments, we are making a great fuss over it. If anything is to create a thrill, this little newcomer will be the thriller.

The jacket frock is going to put the eye out of the long, separate coat.

Hart's Finest Play

THERE seems to be no limit to the sensational, breath-taking things William S. Hart can do in his film stories of the once-upon-in-a-time type. In "The Desert Man," his latest offering, now being shown at the Columbia, he excels every previous effort in the art of holding up a mob of bad men and making a getaway. The plot is a wild saloon and dancehall, every inmate, frequenter and patron of which bears a grudge against our hero. His adopted son has been brought there to decoy Hart, as the hero, to appear, to meet at another door, and "sticks up" the place. Disarming more than 100 gamblers, cowboys, miners and others, he dashes out of the place, and escapes into the open. Margery Wilson plays opposite, and a boy and a dog have important parts. The staging is excellent; the story absorbing; "The Nature Dance," a super-Keystone comedy staged dramatically, and a Pathe scenic of Algiers, make up the balance of the bill.

Photoplay Is Thrilling

Spley intrigue and devious villainy on one hand and frail innocence and beauty on the other hand are the predominating features of "Pride" at the Peoples, which makes the film an extraordinary thriller. The photoplay throughout its five reels has a vivid plot and a gripping rapidity of action. "Pride" is shown, is capable of a lot of frock and it is jacket, or an apology of a jacket, which extends to the waistline in its piquant abridgment of cut and fabric. It is as youthful as a little red hoop, and for that reason every age will reach out a hand and want it.

New Star Is Great One

"The Greater Woman" at the Star, featuring Marjorie Rambeau, former star of "Cheating Cheaters" on New York's Broadway, is a great testimonial of Miss Rambeau's ability as an actress of distinctive personality. The play is the first venture of Miss Rambeau into filmdom. A troublous triangle that shifts about at different times among four people furnishes the theme of the film. The heroine takes the part of a sweet wife, who is driven to forsake her brutal husband for an artist, whose temperament is weak and who is financially ruined. A vampire, employed by the husband, tries to break up the new alliance, but is successful for only a short time. "Understanding" enters into the picture in the virtue which is a victory for true love. A great comedy, "Max and the Fair M. D.," starring Max Linder, a scenic and an instructive film, round out the offering.

Martyrs.
It is the cause, not merely the death, that makes the martyr.
—Napoleon.

that is decidedly refreshing. The play is a dramatization of the book "Mothers." Instead of her customary vampire part, Miss Bara plays the role of a demure 18-year-old country lass whose purity is made the gibes of the saunter and designs of her mothers' fast friends. A sympathetic touch is portrayed, and altogether the play is intensely appealing. Hectic scenes are given that are well enacted, and succeeded in winning approval. Oregon Daily Journal-Hearst-Pathé News Picture shows an array of military scenes and Uncle Sam's preparations. A Fox film comedy, "A Footlight Flame," has a lot of laughs.

Act Is Brand New

It isn't often that one sees an act in juggling and acrobatic work that presents brand new feature stunts, but the audience at the Strand theatre has the opportunity of enjoying such an act in the offering of Works and Percival. "Our Trio," Leahy, Archer and Butterworth, is back for another engagement with fine repertory and lots of comedy. Joe Brennan, a Portland boy, was welcomed back with enthusiasm in his skit, "The Irish Yankee," a monologue and song offering. The Bruewell Sisters are a beautiful couple with a beautiful offering of popular and old-fashioned songs. Jack Mulford in the photoplay, "The Hero of the Hour," is a bigger success than ever.

Innovations Are Popular

All the extra added features at the Lyric last week proved successful and the innovations will be repeated again this week. The Country Store, inaugurated Wednesday night, was especially popular and helped many to solve the problem of the high cost of living to an extent greatly appreciated by them. The show this week is the rollicking musical farce, "The Servant's Wife," depicting the troubles of a youth to provide for himself, a wife and family in order to get possession of an inheritance. The must satisfy the executor of his uncle's will and so palms off the wife of his Irish servant as his own and also gets busy scrapping up a child or two, all of which brings about a lot of funny mixups and affords the comedians plenty of opportunity to make laughs. Musical hits and choruses are abundantly sprinkled throughout the action.

Comedy Is Full of Laughs

Trials and tribulations of a pair of pill manufacturers furnish the funny-bone piece de resistance at the Baker theatre this week. The farcical situations are heightened by the ludicrous attempts of one partner to get rid of the other; their mutual jealousies and their final resort to chance to settle which one shall step down and out for a year, the loser to act as servant for the winner for the 12 month period. The play is entitled a "Pair of Sixes." The partners, after carrying out their separation agreement, at last become reconciled. George Taylor, as the senior partner, and Henry Hall, the junior member and "funkey," take off their comedy parts in excellent manner. As a fiancée, Aline MacDermott is attractive and clever, and the wife is well impersonated by Eleanor Parker. The characters of lawyer, bookkeeper and traveling salesman, the latter taken off by Charles Compton, are represented.

Bill Is Entertaining

Quite entertaining, the new bill at the Hippodrome merited the liberal applause it received Sunday. The two Ferraros, a man and a maid, are pleasing acrobats for grace and agility. For all-round enjoyment, the Reynolds trio, of which two are pretty girls, are hard to beat. They converse, warble and dance in a manner that wins appreciation. McGrath and Yeoman, a "nut" and a prima donna, Duke Johnson and Mae Wells, who sing and jest, and Drawes and Hambo with their sagacious dog, come in for approbation. "The Great Secret," featuring Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, has a number of exciting incidents in the current episode.

Crowds See Pickford Film

"The Eagle's Mate," one of Mary Pickford's original famous successes, attracted a great crowd at the Sunset Sunday, attesting to the undying popularity of the "sweetheart of the films." The fierce impulses of the uncouth fighting clans of the Virginia mountains, furnish the theme on which the plot is based. Mary is depicted as a captive of a chieftain whose brusque method of love-making wins her over. From a daughter of luxury she is transformed to an "Eagle's Mate." Fine scenes of action and appealing love scenes are shown in the still wonderful picture. "Cinders of Love," a Keystone comedy, and Paramount Photographs are shown also.

Portland Violinist Welcomed

Did you ever see one of those wonderful French "creations" such as "The Journal prints on its Sunday fashion page?" Doubting Thomases, like the man when he first saw a giraffe, will respond: "There ain't no such thing." There is, however, and Belle Story, prima donna headliner and beauty at the Orpheum, wears one. Miss Story has a voice of wonderful range and sweetness, and she is altogether a pleasure to the eye and ear. When the Barry sisters, Emily and Clara, appear on the stage just after the scenic pictures, the first thought is, why should a headline act open the bill? The girls are pretty and chic and excellent comedians. Modesta Mortensen, a Portland violinist, and her musical companions, Granville English, pianist, and Greta Spencer, soprano, are another treat. Miss Mortensen was given a cordial welcome home, and as a final solo encore gave Ernest O. Spitzer's arrangement of Tosti's "Good-Bye." Rosalind Coghlan is a great actress, but her vehicle, a comedy playlet, is woefully lacking, the humor being artificial and forced. She, with Miss Story, headlines the bill. Johnny Johnson and Bob Harty have a fine comedy skit, and take the audience in roars. Another who has like effect is Blue Bert Kenney, a monologist of an original kind. Eddie and Frank Monroe in a bounding act conclude the bill.

American Refugees Return From Europe

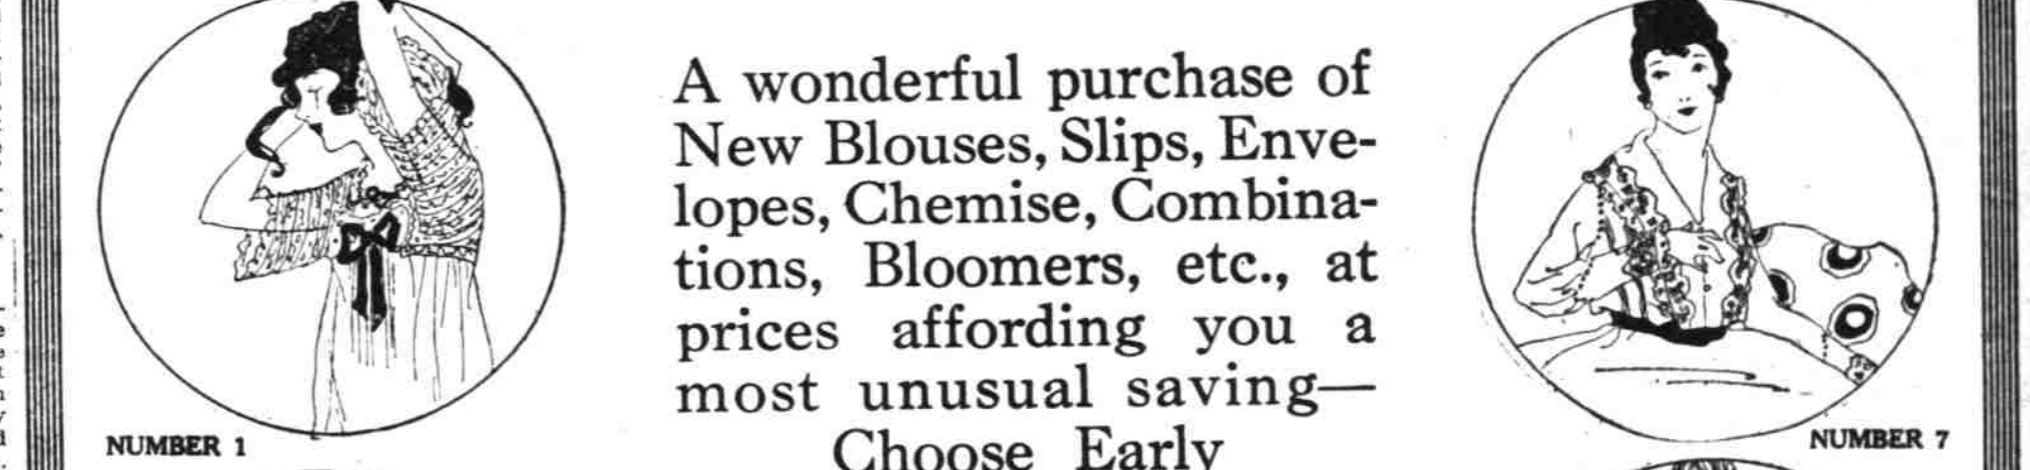

An Atlantic Port, April 30.—(I. N. S.)—A steamship of the Norwegian-American line has arrived with 1145 passengers. They came from a port in Norway. Nearly all the passengers were American citizens who had been marooned in Scandinavian countries since the resumption of ruthless German submarine warfare. They had been waiting ever since for vessels in which to return home.

Among the passengers was a Standard Oil company representative. He was one of the last representatives of the company to leave the Romanian oil fields. Several American citizens of German descent were among the arrivals. They were asked to satisfy immigration officials of their right to return to this country.
