To Get the Goat's Goat.

Toutle, Wash., May 8 .- To the Editor of The Journal-I read something a few weeks ago in Uncle Jeff Snow's smart sayings about a rancher being bothered with goats jumping fences until some Jap showed him how to prevent that by cutting a nerve in the goat's leg. Now I have a few breachy pannies myself, and have been trying to find out how the trick was done. If it is not altogether a joke could you insert part of this in The Journal, ask-

An Employer on Farm Hands, Hood River, Or., May 16.-To the Ed-tor of The Journal-In reply to J. itor W. McGinnis, in a recent isssue of The Journal in reference to pay and treatment of farm hands, I wish to say his is not an isolated, extraordinary case. Here in this valley we pay $60 a month, with house and garden plot and with other accommodations, and treat them in every way as equal with ourselves

.I have never known a man to give me five minutes of his time without pay. The hand usually works 10 hours a day. I work 12 and more. He bears no responsibility and no loss.

Farm labor does not stand for low wages or ill treatment any more than any other labor. Mr. McGinnis' letter is rather overdrawn. A FRUIT GROWER.
