As Boat Is Sinking Fire Continues, Dealing Death and Injury to Most of Crew.

DIVER REFUSES ANY HELP

Incendiary Shells Are Sent Into Vessel and Bombs Complete the Devilish Work of Destruction.

Paris, May 28 .- (U. P.) - The story of the French schooner "Leontine" is a tale of modern piracy and murder which rivals any of the unauthenticated history of Captain Kidd. Here is what happened on the high seas during the morning of March 25, 1917; The schooner "Leontine," carrying 280 tons of mine stakes, left Francs, March 23, at 2 o'clock. Two days later the "Leontine" was stopped by a long range shot from a German submarine. The crew, eight persons in all, prepared to leave the ship, as the captain rushed below for the schooner's papers. The submarine approached and lay 300 meters away, her commander and crew watching all that was happening aboard the "Leontine." Germans Fire on Craft.

Instead of allowing the unarmed men to save themselves, the submarine kept up a steady fire, deluging the little ship with 40 rounds of shrapnel. The first few shots killed four of the crew, and wounded the four others, three seriously. The "Leontine" was a charnel house so far as the human material aboard could make it. Her captain, slightly wounded as he attempted to mount the bridge, returned to the deck and courageously carried two of the victims to shelter forward.

The "Leontine" was now riddled like a sieve, but did not sink. The Germans then fired incendiary shells, which started a fire in the stern! The blaze, however, as if fate had intervened, did not spread. Immediately a boat left the submarine and a party came aboard to sink the "Leontine" with bombs Seeing that all the crew were either killed or wounded, the boarding party placed their bombs and prepared to Boy Pleads in Vain.

Shortly before the first bomb exploded aboard the "Leontine" the submarine turned and steamed to a safer place. The explosion tore a gaping hole in the vessel's side. The first mate, who survised his double injury, faintly called to the captain that another bomb was about to explode. This bomb was hanging over the side by a cord, and the captain cut the cord. The first bomb had done its work. Water was lapping the decks. The ittle ship wallowed in the waves and sudden gust of wind threw strongly to port and she capsized immediately.

The two others crawled atop the capsized boat, while the captain, summoning all his strength, appealed fluttering they bore down on the first by signals to the submarine, which lay line positions with wild yells.
