FRATERNAL NOTES

Grand Officers of O. E. S. Welcomed by Several Hundred

Eastern Star Reception—One of the most successful receptions ever given by the Oregon grand chapter, Order Eastern Star, was accorded the delegates and officers of that body last night at the Masonic temple. The guest of honor was Mrs. Estella G. Mendenhall of Seattle, grand matron of the Washington grand chapter, O. E. S. The orchestra was under the direction of Mrs. Fred R. Olson. Frances Hanrahan gave the dance, "Les Millions." The Rose City escort, under direction of Mrs. Edna Ingram worthy patron of Rose City chapter, consisted of 16 young women, armed with shepherd crooks and bearing baskets of flowers. Mrs. Dora B. Schick, grand matron, and J. O. Mearns, grand patron, headed the procession of grand officers, and the escort, after seating them, went through a maze of figures and evolutions that indicated careful preparation and artistic designing. Mrs. Estella G. Mendenhall, grand matron of Washington, will open the grand chapter in Seattle, June 14. It is expected that Mrs. Lena C. Mendenhall, now associate grand matron, will be installed as grand matron of the Oregon grand chapter on that date. The coincidence of two women of the same name holding the same office in two adjoining states will not be likely to occur again for many years. The Oregon grand chapter, O. E. S., will be in session Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Two Lodges Give Degrees—Harmony lodge, F. and A. M., has a large number of visiting Masons present last night to witness the degree of Master Mason, and Willamette lodge conferred the degree of Fellowcraft, also, before a large number of visitors. The grand chapter, Royal Arch Masons, had attracted a number of veteran members of the craft to the city in advance of the grand lodge, that will meet Wednesday.

State Aerie of Eagles—The state aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, is holding its annual session in Portland today and tomorrow at Third and Madison streets, presided over by W. L. Cooper of Portland. There are 35 delegates and officers from 12 aeries. Frank R. Kirk of Marshfield, state vice president, is in line for election as president. Vic Chapman of Portland is grand secretary; M. J. Campbell, Clatskanie, conductor; T. E. Richie, Portland, treasurer; George E. Wood, Eugene, inner guard; V. Stroble, Pendleton, outer guard.

Special Program for Rose City—Rose City camp, Modern Woodmen of America, promises an interesting program Wednesday night, even if the clerk, F. J. Darlington, and the state president, J. M. Simmons, are en route to Chicago.

Beauty Chat BY LILLIAN RUSSELL

How Do You Interest Others?

Do you go through life with the idea that you are interesting and that there is no need of making any effort to please must be a comfortable sensation, satisfactory to yourself—very ineffective as far as the opinion of others is concerned. Each individual who desires to be an entity in this world, and who wishes to interest, even one person, or many, must be keenly interested in one subject at least and know it thoroughly.

Many women go through the world without gathering any information other than that which they can glean from the misleading headlines of the newspapers. They are not sufficiently interested in the news to read it in detail. Therefore they cannot converse upon the subjects sufficiently well to interest others.

The reason why some women are interesting and charming is because they have their brains stored with things that interest them. They have not only observed what was going on in the big world, but they have taken mental notes of the beautiful and great things that are going on in the world. They have given them thought and study. Away back in the brains of these women are ideas and plans and visions, which, even if not developed, are intensely interesting.

Every girl and woman should carefully consider what I say and compel herself to stop before she passes any subject of vital importance to the subject at least and know it thoroughly, and then listen to it seriously, and then list to it seriously. She should cultivate her brain in some way to retain what she learns, if by no other way than writing it down in correct detail.

"There is no excuse for ignorance," said Noah Webster when he compiled the greatest dictionary in the world, and there are some Americans who will ask, "Who is Noah Webster?" It is appalling to know how many women pass by the real and true in this world and waste their time on the artificial and unreal. We have all got to face reality at some time or another. The woman who, when she hears some ap-to flavor, and pour melted butter with salt and pepper over them just before serving. Another style of preparing them is to chop the greens fine and add to a sauce made of one tablespoon flour, two tablespoons butter, one fourth cup vinegar (or some lemon juice). Hard cooked egg may also be added.

Greens may be canned like other vegetables for winter diet.

Jolly Good Show Given

RARE assortment of jolly good facts are offered this week at Pantages. The headliner, Kajiyama's talented act, is a well worth while exhibition of handwriting of all kinds, backward, upside down and sideways. The dexterous fingers keeps up a line of conversation all the while. An equally smart performance is that by Minnie Allen, who dispenses snappy songs, mystifying edgerediment, and some fine takes on movie vampires. Olson and Johnson are riotous comedians whose bold musical dissertations on marriage get lots of applause. "The Beauty of the Aerial Act" with its musical comedy, is quite meritorious for its size. Frank Sinclair and Cliff Dixon, backed up by six delicious specimens, present this act with rollicking ditties and dances. "Mag Hagerty's Father," a breezy comedy by Thomas Ryan and Marion Buell is full of fun. Carl and Victor Pederson start the show with an aerial act that gets by with the help of resourceful wits. "The Neglected Wife" in its third installment, contains continued interest and suspense.

Cardinal Gibbons Hopes for Victory

Prelate Gratified That There Has Been No Union of Church and State in This Country; Deprecates Policy.

South Bend, Ind., June 12—(U. P.)—That the United States may win a speedy victory in the world war is the wish expressed Monday afternoon by Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore, in an address delivered to the citizens of South Bend, in the high school auditorium.

"We are engaged in an awful war," said the cardinal, "the outcome of which God only can foretell. Let the outcome be favorable to America and let us all pray that with the termination of this struggle perpetual peace may follow."

The cardinal expressed his pleasure that there has been no union of the state and church in this country. "My prayer is that I shall never live to see the day that any such union might be perfected," he said.

Hearing on Freight Rates Is Deferred

Hearing on the application of railroads operating within the state of Oregon for an increase of 15 per cent on freight rates will not be given by the Public Service commission before June 21. This is the announcement given by the commission to the railroads in response to their query.

The railroads, the O-W, R & N, Southern Pacific, S. P. & S., and minor lines operating within the state have applied to the commission for the right to increase all intrastate rates 15 per cent, consonant with the action of the transcontinental lines. Arranged against the carriers is the entire body of manufacturers and shippers who hold that any increase in freight rates will be unjust.

FORTY YEARS' SUCCESS

For a business to be successful for 40 years means a great deal. Among other things, it means remarkable excellence in the products it sells. No other way can be sold on a large scale for so many years, and it must not only be good at the outset, but so good that the progress of 40 years will not develop any better article to supersede it.

So women can with confidence depend upon that old, tried and tested remedy for woman's ailments, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, still as popular as ever, though it was first placed on the market before the centennial year, 1876. (Adv.)

Bed Time Tales

BY CLARA INGRAM JUDSON

Jimmy South-Breeze Saves the Children

"SOMEHOW, I'm fearfully tired of parks and woods and trees and green things," said Jimmy South-Breeze. "I wish I could find some place different."

"Dearie me, that's easy," said Susy West-Breeze laughingly. "I wouldn't worry about that, that's so easily remedied."

"Wouldn't you?" exclaimed Jimmy. "Well, what would you do?"

"I'd go to the lake!" said Susy. Jimmy looked at her thoughtfully. "I would just like to know why I couldn't think of that," he said in disgust. "It seems perfectly easy for you."

Susy laughed. "It's easy for me because I don't try so hard," she said. "But let's not fool around and talk about it, come on over to the lake."

Together they blew through the trees across the meadows, and over to the sandy beach.

"This is surely the place for me!" exclaimed Jimmy in delight, "see the golden sand—come on, Susy, let's rough it up a bit."

"After while," replied Susy, "but first let's muss up the water a little. It's entirely too flat and blue."

Now, if you ever were a breeze—even for a minute—you would know exactly what fun Jimmy and Susy had.

They spread themselves thin and flat on the water and slipped away out from shore. Then they humped themselves up big and fierce and blew swiftly to the shore. Such beautiful, frothy waves they did make, too! They pushed the water up till each wave crest got so high it tumbled over in a frill of foam.

"Look at that!" cried Jimmy, "see the big one I turned over!"

"And did you see mine?" exclaimed Susy. "I'm sure my wave was the biggest."

"If it was, I'll make a bigger one," said Jimmy, gaily.

"Wouldn't you just like to stay here forever?" cried Susy, breathless and happy with her blowing.

"No, I wouldn't," said Jimmy, and he stopped his play long enough to look at the sky. "Don't you see that storm coming in the northeast? I mean to go back to the park and hide. We can play here some other day."

Just as they were slipping away to shelter, Susy spied some children on the beach. "Look, Jimmy, they don't know the storm is coming. Can't we tell them some way? I'm sure they ought to go home."

"Let's blow some sand in their faces," said Jimmy. "That will make them run." So both the breezes blew sand around in tiny whirlpools till the children were glad to run for home.

"There, that's done," said Jimmy, as the last child scampered away from the beach, "and now we must hide."

Off they blew to the shelter of the bushes. And they reached there just as a fierce storm broke.
