CHAT 25

McElroy is delighting large audiences with is popular band concerts every evening this week — given free in the Auditorium at 8:30.

Picnic parties seem to be the big order of the day, but that's not to be wondered at, as these flower-laden grounds are an ideal setting for an all-day outing and have undergone but little changes since Chief Multnomah held his war councils on this spot before the coming of the white man.

Professor Melville now has the plunges in fine shape, and hundreds are enjoying their daily swims. The tiny real train carries loads of laughing children on every trip, and dancing in the pavilion marks the ending of perfect Summer days.

"20,000 Laughs Under the Sea" —that irresistible cartoon movie with a thousand laughs a minute— will be shown twice daily, commencing next Sunday at 3—FREE TO OAKS PATRONS.

Young Elopers Are Missing Once More

Camas, Wash., June 21.—Marjorie Bennett, the 17-year-old girl who eloped and married Irvine Miller, a month ago, disappeared again Tuesday. Miller, who is out on bail under a charge of abduction, is also missing. They were married in Stevenson, Skamania county, May 21, and Miller was arrested the next day. The sheriff of Skamania county refused on technical grounds to deliver the prisoner to Clarke county authorities, and later released him from custody. He was taken in Hood River a few days later and returned here for preliminary hearing, which he waived and was bound over to appear in the superior court.

The father of the girl announced his intention of starting an action to have the marriage annulled.

Ticket Sales Spurred By Vacation Rates

The vacation rates were reestablished by the railroads for the summer on Wednesday. The hot weather and the reduced rates have combined to stimulate the vacation travel. Many of the early season tickets are being sold to school teachers and to students.

Other tickets are being sold either to the many summer resorts of the northwest and to eastern cities where relatives live. This rush in business is almost swamping the railroad offices, especially as many of the regular employes have enlisted.

Military Tourney Is Proposed for July 4

City Council Gives $500, County to Appropriate Similar Sum and Committee Has Balance in Treasury $400

A big military tournament, an old-fashioned athletic meet, patriotic band concerts and street dancing in the evening are a few of the events suggested for a Fourth of July celebration in Portland this year.

Plans for the celebration were discussed at a meeting of the county commissioners and city officials Wednesday afternoon, and a call for a meeting of the big committee appointed by Mayor Albee was issued for this afternoon.

The city council appropriated $500, the county commissioners are to appropriate a similar amount, and with the $400 left from last year's Fourth of July fund, the committee will have a total of $1400 to be used in celebrating Independence day.
