

What Society Is Doing

BY NONA LAWLER

Portland Women are taking up their share of the burden of work for the big drive in the American Red Cross campaign, this week to the million dollar goal. Entertaining has therefore occupied a minor place in their interests. That Portland may furnish her quota of the necessary sum for the American Red Cross, a house to house canvass is being made and in this work yesterday and today hosts of maids and matrons were busily engaged covering their appointed blocks.

Series of Tea and Sale
The ladies sewing circle of Queen Elizabeth Review No. 24 is planning a series of afternoon teas with a sale of handmade aprons. The members will meet Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Kulla Dunning, 806 East Taylor street. A musical program will be arranged. All Macabees and friends are cordially invited.

For Bride-Elect
Honoring Miss Lena DeGroat, whose wedding to Bert Curran will be an event of the week, Mrs. DeGroat is entertaining with a dinner and miscellaneous shower on Monday evening at her home on East Sherman street. The table was adorned with Cecil Brunner and Mrs. DeGroat. The dinner was served by Misses Katherine Rooney, Isabel Starbard, Margaret Mann, Elise Snyder, Lillian Long, Dora Barua, and Mrs. DeGroat. The bride-elect is Mrs. Lena DeGroat. The groom-elect is Bert Curran. The wedding will take place in the early summer.

Your Ears
FOR the size and shape of the ears Nature is responsible—but much can be accomplished for the benefit and beautifying of the ears by the use of the earplugs and earstays in young ladyhood. Mothers should be very cautious regarding the care of the ears of their infants—for often they do their baby's ears down over the extent as long as the work has for a share of its population a goodly proportion of the daughters of Eva.

Just at the present time the fashion of wearing earrings holds a shadowy reign. They are rarely worn by people who study good form, except for some artistic effect or character costumes, but the few who still believe that piercing the ears helps to strengthen the sight should allow only a medical man to pierce the ears and as far as possible see to their healing properly, since serious cases of ulcers and even cancers have resulted from bungling work of amateurs in that line.

The slight which formerly met our eyes of disfigured ear lobes caused by the heavy rings cutting the ears and dragging them down is a thing of the past. I am glad to say. They were a justifiable accusation of barbarism and unsightly enough to prove a warning in themselves. No base metal should be worn in the ears and no gold that is not at least 18 carat fine. A perfectly healthy ear should be a very pale pink.

Should the ears be very pale in color, with that waxlike appearance that betokens ill health, bathe them frequently with first hot water and then cold. Regarding the care of the ears, cleanliness is the main point of consideration. The wax may be softened and removed after becoming hard by winding a little absorbent cotton around the end of a wooden toothpick, dipping it in pure olive oil or almond oil and inserting it very gently into the ear and turning it around in order that the oil may touch the interior. No digging should ever be done and sterilized gauze should be used to wipe out the oil. Sharp instruments should never be inserted in the ear, as they are liable to injure the delicate membranes and produce permanent ill results. When hairs grow in the ears they should never be pulled out with tweezers nor destroyed by depilatory applications; both are dangerous to the hearing.

There is no cure for them but cutting. Nature places them there as a protection and she should be respected. Ear afflictions are most unfortunate, as they are generally in evidence. Women have the advantage in being able to arrange their hair to cover and hide such defects. The care of the ears should never be neglected. They play such a strong and forceful part in our daily lives.

NO MORE GRAY HAIR

No Need to Look Old—Natural Color Comes with the Use of Q-Ban, the Great Scientific Discovery—Not a Dye.

There is no longer any need for sensitive people to let gray hairs spoil their looks or make them appear older than they really are or feel. Now that great chemists have succeeded in discovering a way to bring back a natural color to gray and faded hair in a perfectly healthy and without likelihood of ridicule—thousands have banished their gray hairs or gone bald. This is by the use of Q-Ban Hair Color Regulator, a harmless and efficient liquid, all ready to use.

FUNERAL DATE SET FOR HERO OF 161 BATTLES

Colonel Joseph L. Buckley

Funeral of Colonel James L. Buckley, soldier and statesman of West Virginia, was held at 10 this morning at the chapel of J. P. Finley & Son, Fifth and Montgomery streets. The body will be taken to Parkersburg, W. V., for burial in the G. A. R. cemetery. The G. A. R. of Portland is in charge of the ceremony here.

Colonel Buckley was a veteran of the Civil war with a remarkable record for distinguished service. He was a member of Company E, First West Virginia cavalry, and went through 161 battles, including most of the important conflicts of that great struggle.

At the close of the war he held the rank of lieutenant. Colonel Buckley took an active interest in the formation and building up of the National Guard and was colonel in the West Virginia service. He was a member of the G. A. R., a Knight Templar, Shriner and for over 50 years a member of Olivet lodge, A. F. and A. M., Parkersburg, West Virginia.

Surviving him are his wife and their only daughter, Mrs. H. M. Patton, with whom he had made his home for three years.

Bed Time Tales

BY CLARA INGRAM JUDSON

Jimmy South-breeze! Come here this minute! I need you." The voice of Mrs. South-breeze blew through the gardens, around the houses and up and down the streets. But there was no answer. "I wonder where that child can be," she exclaimed. "I want him quick. Jack Frost is coming and it's high time I collected my family and started south."

Mrs. South-breeze hunted anxiously through all Jimmy's favorite play spots, but no Jimmy did she find. Then she remembered the woods. "Why didn't I think of that before! Of course, Jimmy had left the city! I remember, now—he told me he had some new playmates out in the beech grove."

She blew out from the city as fast as she could—so fast, in fact, that she blew off people's hats, tossed curtains in and out of windows and kicked up enough dust to spoil a dozen housecleanings.

But did she care? No, indeed! She was hunting Jimmy, and that was all she thought about.

When she reached the edge of the beech woods she stopped to listen. Sure enough, off in a distant corner of the woods she heard the murmur of Jimmy's voice.

"Jimmy!" she called. "Jimmy South-breeze! Do come to me! I have been hunting all over for you!"

Now, all this time Jimmy had been having a beautiful time of his own. He played with the leaves, talked to the squirrels and other creatures of the woods, all without a thought of his mother needing him. For usually, you see, she was glad to have him find his own duties and pleasures.

Then, in the midst of a lovely conversation with Bushy Squirrel, he thought he heard his mother's voice. "Listen a minute," he said to Bushy. "I believe that's my mother calling me." So they listened. And, sure enough, it was Mrs. South-breeze calling from the edge of the forest.

"All right, mother," replied Jimmy. "I'm coming."

"I expect she thinks it's time to go south," said Bushy. "Maybe I won't see you again for a long time."

"Oh, dear me!" exclaimed Jimmy. "Do you really think so? Just when we're getting acquainted! I mean to ask her if I can't stay a little longer."

Back through the woods Jimmy blew

"I believe that's my mother calling me."

He met his mother. "Yes, mother," he said. "Did you call me?"

"Indeed I did," replied Mrs. South-breeze. "I've been hunting all over for you! I've just had a message that Jack Frost is coming—that he'll be here tonight. We must back up quickly and start for the south at once!"

"But I'm not afraid of Jack Frost," said Jimmy. "Let's stay one day longer—I'm having so much fun just now."

"But, Jimmy," said his mother, "you don't understand how fierce Jack Frost can be! He'll come in the night, while we are sleeping, and he'll make us shiver and shake with cold."

"No, no!" laughed Jimmy. "Then I'll fool him. I'll stay up all night and blow around him so he can't get into the woods."

"But do you think you are strong enough?" objected Mrs. South-breeze. "Indeed I am," replied Jimmy. "Just look!" and he blew nearly all the leaves off a tree to prove his strength.

Mrs. South-breeze laughed. "All right, Jimmy," she said. "If you're growing up, we'll stay till tomorrow and you may take care of us. I don't mind fooling that old Jack Frost myself."

Tomorrow—Jack Frost Meets Jimmy South-breeze.

Portland Hunt Club To Hold Spring Meet

The annual spring meet of the Portland Hunt club will be held on the club track at Garden Home Saturday afternoon at 2:30. The 12 events that make up the program are well filled and the competition will be keen for the trophies that are to be presented to the winner of each class. This year the jumping classes will be open to the junior members as well as to the senior. The jumping classes are the most spectacular events of the day. Many of last year's competitors will be out of the meet this year because of enlisting.

Mother of Six Hangs Self by Flour Sack

Mrs. Moto Takahashi, mother of six children, committed suicide at her home at Multnomah station Wednesday night by hanging herself from a rafter in a flour sack.

Her husband was awakened during the night by the crying of a 10-month-old baby. Failing to find the mother he started a search through the house and finally found her body hanging from a rafter in the barn.

For some time Mrs. Takahashi had been complaining of poor health. The body was turned over to coroner Smith.

Just One Application and the Hairs Vanish

(Modes of Today)

A harmless, yet very effective, treatment is here given for the quick removal of hairy growths: Mix enough powdered talc and water to cover the undesirable hairs, apply paste, and after two or three minutes remove, wash the skin and the hairs have vanished. One application usually is sufficient, but to be certain of results, buy the delatone in an original package.

Unlike iced drinks and other sweet things it keeps you up "on your game" too.

No Mardi Gras for 1918

The Mardi Gras, the annual celebration that has attracted international attention for many years, likely will not be held in 1918. If the United States is still at war the money usually spent for gorgeous street pageants and entertainments will be devoted to war purposes.

Auto Swerves; Six Injured

Chicago, June 21.—(I. N. S.)—Two men and four women were seriously injured when an automobile swerved into a curbstone on Lake Shore drive early today. Miss Thora O'Connor, 19, and Ralph Clausen, 29, may not live.

The Ice Cream Point

That last smash which wins the set. "Now for the Ice Cream" somebody once said, as the last ball burned over. And since then, all tennis players call the last smash, "the Ice Cream point." Whoever started it had the right idea. Nothing brings back the "pep" like a plate of
