

HIGH PRICES IN ALL LINES HOLDING BACK CONSTRUCTION WORK

Steel, Lumber and Wages Are Far Above Normal and Investors Hesitating. ARCHITECTS HAVE PLANS

Activities Despite High Prices Expected to Resume Once Portland Makes Start.

With business in all other lines booming, building activity in Portland is conspicuous by its quietness. The long sustained lull is not peculiar to this city, for it is the case in every part of the United States today.

Under the present time there is little building being done save on a few public structures and at industrial plants. The building in the latter instances is for the most part inexpensive and more or less temporary.

Some Permits Small. The number of home permits being issued is very small. For several weeks the municipal bureau of buildings has not issued one permit a day for new residences.

Quiet Expected to Continue in Realty Market During Summer Vacation Period. Seasonal quiet is prevailing in all lines of the real estate business in Portland and in a short time many principals of the market will be enjoying summer vacations that are not likely to be disturbed by any great rush of activity.

Plans for Masonic Home Are Indefinite. Grand Master W. G. Shellenbarger has not yet appointed the committee of five to act with a like committee to be appointed by Grand Matron Mrs. Lena C. Mendenhall to consider the building of a Masonic and Eastern Star home at 15th and Irvington streets.

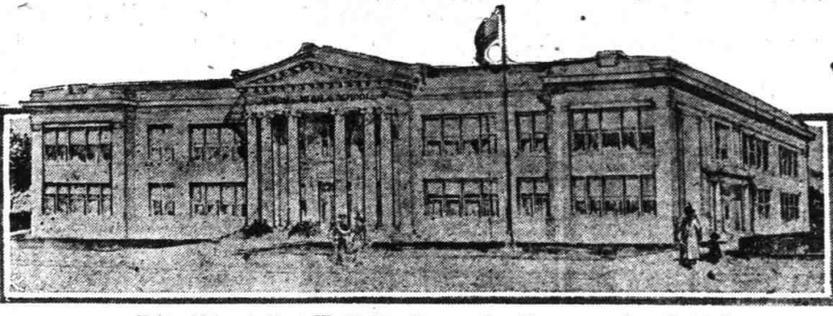

Wages Also High. The United States Steel corporation is practically out of the market as far as present orders are concerned. The price of heavier truss steel has proportionately increased.

Lumber Advances Rapid. Lumber has gone up from 32 to 100 per cent. Cull lumber, sold a year ago at $8 per cord, has advanced $15. Common lumber, once around $11, is now at $21; flooring has jumped from $26 to $38; finishing lumber from $28 and $30 to $38 and $40; rustic flooring at $21 and $23, and ceiling from $18 and $20 to $28 and $30.

Money Market Tightens. Another thing contributing to the depression is the tightness of money and general uncertainty regarding the program of the government for the war. The Federal Reserve bank has taken up considerable money that might otherwise have been available for expansion purposes.

PORTLAND ARCHITECTS PLAN SCHOOL UNIT

Union high school at Warrenton, Or., as it will appear when finished. The school board of Warrenton, Clatsop county, has ordered Tourtelotte and Hummel, architects of Portland, to prepare plans and specifications for finishing the second story of the first unit of the Union high school, and have asked estimates for wings on either end of the present building. The central unit, now completed, has nine rooms and a large auditorium.
