BEAVERS GET START THAT MAY PUT THEM UP AMONG LEADERS

They Gather in First Series Against Oakland by Winning, Four to Three Games

NOW AFTER SALT LAKE

Local Team Experiences New Sensation of Pulling Out on Top While It Is Traveling Away From Home.

After gathering in their first series on the road against Oakland, four games to three, the Portland Beavers are bearing down on Salt Lake for this week's series.

It is quite a new experience for the Beavers to win a series abroad and it is possible that it will have its psychological effect in that it may carry them through a winner in the Salt REGRET PLACES Lake games.

The Portland pitching was a little better last week and if it keeps up this week the Beavers should at least break even. They usually begin their climbing stunt at this period of the year and they probably started against Oakland.

The big disappointment of Mc-Credie's pitching staff appears to be Lynn Brenton, who simply can't get started this year. Brenton has not won a game in months, although he appears to have plenty of stuff and is always willing to work. His gradual decline has begun to worry the little slabster and thereby to affect his work even more.

Continuous Chain of Boiling Points

High Boiling Points for power 8 mileage

Medium Boiling Points for quick and smooth acceleration

Low Boiling Points for easy starting

Low boiling points do it—the first links in a continuous chain of boiling points. Low boiling points for easy starting, medium boiling points for quick and smooth acceleration, and high boiling points for power and mileage.

Red Crown is a straight-distilled gasoline. Hence there's a continuous chain of boiling points, gradually rising from low to high.

Mixtures cannot have a continuous chain of boiling points. That's why mixtures cannot be as good motor fuel as pure straight-run gasoline. And that's also why the gravity test for gasoline is worthless-gravity tells nothing at all about boiling points, the only real test of gasoline quality.

To make certain of getting real gasoline, and not a mixture, fill with
