

LIBERTY THEATRE WILL BE MOST BEAUTIFUL IN PACIFIC NORTHWEST

Fifty Thousand Dollars Being Expended in Refurnishings and in Music Features.

ORCHESTRA WONDERFUL

New Motion Picture Playhouse Will Open in Near Future for Inspection of Public.

"The Shrine of Music and Pictured Arts." Music as well as pictures will be a major feature of the Liberty, the photoplay house at Broadway and Stark, that is to be the most beautiful theatre, not alone in Portland, but on the entire north coast.

Jensen & Von Herberg, owners of a circuit of photoplay houses that includes the Columbia theatre in Portland and the Liberty and Coliseum theatres in Seattle, hitherto rated as the most elaborately decorated in the west, are spending $50,000 on the Liberty in Portland in line with decoration and ornamentation, exclusive of the cost of a big Wurlitzer-Hope-Jones unit orchestra.

Many Alterations Made The alterations to the theatre formerly known as the Broadway, which henceforth will be known as the Liberty, include:

Entire interior decoration; Wurlitzer-Hope-Jones orchestra; inclined walk to mezzanine floor; entirely new lighting arrangement; enlarged projection room; largest type of projection machines manufactured; minor changes in seating arrangement; installation of a 35 foot electrically lighted statue of the Goddess of Liberty.

The scheme of decoration is by Percival Collins, nationally known as an artist in the line of work, in color tones are French gray and ivory, with draperies in orange. The large panels of the auditorium and the proscenium arch each will contain a painting of heroic dimensions done in oils.

Decorations Rich in Color On the stage alongside the screen will be two lattice framed vistas with one of Oregon's famous waterfalls depicted in running water at the end of each vista. One of these will be Multnomah falls. Beneath these will be large Venetian fountains with running water.

The curtain will be orange of heavy velvet velour. The organ will be located in two large lattice front chambers at right and left of the proscenium. Beneath the chambers will be rows of boxes and back of these will be more lattice work semi-concealing a garden staircase.

Flowers and vines will ornament all the lattice work in the house.

The carpeting, which will cover the entire floor, including the lobby, inclined walk and stairway, will be of genuine undyed angora with a black figure.

In the lobby there will be a fountain of exceedingly artistic design, six feet in diameter. The fountain will be on the mezzanine floor, large rest and retiring rooms for women are being provided. The decorations here will be in harmony with the rest of the house.

Mirrors of Plate Glass A notable feature will be the number of plate glass mirrors in the lobby and on the mezzanine floor.

The lighting arrangement of the house has been altogether changed. Every light in the house will be controlled from a master switchboard in the projection room. The inverted system will be used throughout the house and a color of lights of red, blue, gold and violet. These will be used to give atmospheric color to the pictures as they are being screened.

The projection machines will be of the largest type made and will throw a picture 18 by 22 feet at 125 feet distance. Each lamp will require 180 amperes of current.

Opening Date Near The electric street sign will contain the name of the theatre in large letters, with a "chasing border," surrounded by an electrically illuminated figure of the Goddess of Liberty. The whole will be above the marquee, which will be flower decorated.

Announcement of the opening date of the theatre will not be made, but it will be not much over a fortnight hence, according to the present indications.

Theatrical Members Enjoy Highway Trip

"More beautiful than Switzerland." That is what Martha Hedman, Swedish actress, thinks of the Columbia river highway.

"I've traveled all over the world," she declared, "but nowhere have I seen such wonderful views or traveled over a road so magnificent."

When Miss Hedman so expressed herself, members of the Rotary club who had arranged that she have the trip over the wonder road felt amply repaid for their expenditure of gasoline and tires. But when the entire company of which she is a member wrote a letter individually and signed it, the Rotarians felt more than repaid.

Five More Exemption Boards Organized

Twenty-two of 46 exemption boards have organized and begun their work in preparation of the great human lottery. Included are six Portland boards which have not reported to Adjutant General White.

With this start it is believed that by Monday morning all the county and city boards will be in full swing and that the work will be completed early next week.

Baker, Deschutes, Gilliam, Hood River, Jefferson, Multnomah and Tillamook counties and Portland boards Nos. 3, 6, 8, 9 and 10 reported in the 24 hours previous to noon today.

By the use of pyroxilin a woven ostrich feather has been invented that is a close imitation of the genuine article.
