

BEER AND WINE ISSUE IS QUESTION OF MOST CONCERN TO SENATE

Determination of Responsibility Will Be Basis of Promised Controversy.

NEW CLAUSE IS PREPARED

Chamberlain Will Introduce Amendment Which Herein Provides That Whiskey Making Be Abolished.

Washington, June 30.—(U. S. S.)—The prohibition fight has switched. Whiskey must go. That is practically certain. Beer and wine will continue to be manufactured as far as the senate is concerned. That is a safe bet.

But is the president to allow this manufacture of beer and wine? Or will the senate itself determine the question? On this issue will the fight hinge.

Dry senators seem to desire to put the question up to the president. Many others are opposed to this. They say that the responsibility is with the senate and it would be cowardly to shift it to other shoulders. Senator Chamberlain, in charge of the food control bill, which contains the liquor amendment, takes this view.

New Amendment Prepared "I think the senate should make the rule itself. I for one am perfectly willing to assume my responsibility," he said today.

Senator Chamberlain prepared a brand new amendment today which merely provides that whiskey making shall be abolished. Nothing whatever is mentioned about beer or wine and the inference is that these shall go on being made as usual. The amendment reads:

Section 12.—That from and after 30 days from the date of the approval of this act, no person shall use any foods, fruits, food material or feeds in the production of distilled liquors except for governmental, industrial, scientific, medicinal or other non-beverage purposes.

Passage Is Anticipated

"Any person who willfully violates this section shall, upon conviction thereof, be punished by a fine not exceeding $5000 or by imprisonment for not more than two years, or both."

It was learned today that the president took the view that while Congress should stipulate that beer and wine should be left alone, he was willing to take upon himself the responsibility of determining this if it were necessary to pass the bill. The president did not seek the responsibility. He merely made his offer to save the bill, so administration senators asserted.

The Chamberlain amendment will be offered Monday and it is thought that it will, in the end, be inserted in the bill. The fact that the president did not wish to assume the responsibility coupled with the idea of various senators that congress should face its own problems will be two powerful factors. Still stronger will be the fact that Democratic senators are expected to usually line up behind the president.

Prohibitionists Disappointed

There are Republicans, too, who take the same ground with Senator Chamberlain. Senator Borah is one of these. Their influence will count strongly on the left side of the chamber.

Prohibitionists in general are not pleased with the president's idea that the two beverages should be left alone. The dry forces saw a golden opportunity for prohibition when the Borah amendment forbidding the manufacture of all intoxicants, was passed in the house. They are disappointed now.

The Anti-Saloon league is rallying its forces. But it is generally agreed that straight out prohibition has lost, certainly in the senate, and with the great probability of carrying after the vote of the prohibitionists in the senate will support the Gore amendment, which also will be offered Monday. This leaves to the president the discretion to manufacture beer and wine.

The prohibitionists who support this believe their standpoint will be consistent, for they fear that the senate will do nothing at all to check beer and wine.

The only prohibition debate on the bill came today when Senator Lewis of Illinois said the liquor amendments should not have been attached to the food control bill.

"But if they are, then allow the president to exercise the discretion," said he. "He will know with his selected staff in what way to enforce the limitations. As we are giving him full power to control food let us give him full power to control drink also."

Lewis Starts Sharp Debate

Senator Lewis also said that in times like these it was useless to argue that the constitution should hold up war measures.

"The American people are in no mood to allow an obsolete paper constitution to defeat the preservation of the human constitution."

The constitution is a document which in too many instances has served to impede rather than to advance progress."

This angered Senator Reed of Missouri, who replied:

"There are only two sources of power. One is from God; one is from the people. The American system is from the people and it is from the people he derives his from God. Where does the senator from Illinois get his power as a senator?"

"He who denies here today that he gets his authority from the constitu-

COL. YOUNG CALLED TO DUTY

Colonel George S. Young, U. S. A.

Colonel George S. Young, U. S. A. retired, who was commandant at Vancouver barracks from 1912 to 1915, has been reassigned to duty as officer in charge of recruiting for the state of Oregon. He relieves Captain E. J. Huebscher, who has been in charge of the recruiting here for some time. Captain Huebscher will continue as his assistant.

Colonel Young is well known in Portland. While in Vancouver he was in charge of the Twenty-first United States Infantry. After leaving Vancouver he was sent to the Philippines, where he was in command of the 100th Infantry at the Mayo hospital, Rochester, Minn., he was retired from active service on May 9 of this year. He returned to Portland then.

His son, Captain Harold W. Young, is one of the officers in charge of the Eighty engineers recently recruited in Portland and is now at American lake, American lake, Colonel and Mrs. Young went to Tacoma, where Colonel Young received the order replacing him on active duty.

He will now make his headquarters at the recruiting office in the Worcester building. As soon as Captain Harold Young leaves American lake for France the family will again live in Portland, where all are well known.

Captain Huebscher relieved Lieutenant Colonel Varnum here last January, since which time the big recruiting drives have been conducted. The work proved extremely hard on the captain's health and he proposes to take a long rest before renewing recruiting activities under Colonel Young.

When must take his stand by the side of Wilhelm. I am not going to pursue this line further. I think so much of the senator from Illinois that I am mortified to let my blood cool off."

Reed is a strong opponent of the food bill. He thinks it too drastic in it if enacted in time of peace, would mean "imperial socialism fastened upon the republic." He also spoke of the recent drop in the price of potatoes and remarked: "Oh! if of potatoes and the president had been appointed when this happened, they would have been wreathing enough garlands for his brow to last 100 years. And the rarest flowers in those wreaths would have been the magic words from the magical lips of my friend, the senator from Illinois."

Dry Assure "Hands Off" Attitude Washington, June 30.—A "hands off" policy on the present prohibition features of the food control bill was agreed upon by the dry forces and a letter notifying the president of its application was sent to the White House tonight. It was made clear, however, that a later prohibition fight will be launched. The letter, signed by Rev. James Cannon to whom the president wrote his request to discontinue the fight for a "dry" food bill, said in part:

"We are aware of the threats made by our friends of beer and wine in the senate of an indefinite and protected filibuster against those provisions of the bill. We beg to assure you that, as patriotic Americans, we determine to uphold you as commander in chief of the army and navy in the present war, we will not for our constituency offer obstruction to the prompt passage of the food control bill."

"We are glad to note that your request applies only to the pending food legislation. It will be our purpose to urge the passage of legislation prohibiting the waste of foodstuffs in the manufacture of beer and wines, at the earliest possible date, either in the form of a separate bill, or in connection with other war legislation."

Bonus Given Employees Employees of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railway system in this city have received their second 10 per cent salary bonus, as announced by the company the end of last year. The first bonus was granted on January 1. At the time it was announced that the second would be forthcoming July 1, making two during the year. Increase in revenues and the high cost of living are the reasons the employees are favored.

will be grateful for the information that this extremely irritating annoyance is no longer to be feared. The pain, itching, fever and irritation disappear almost like magic with a few applications of Santiseptic. Santiseptic heals and prevents other skin irritations such as sunburn, chafing, fever and cold sores and insect bites. It is a remarkable soothing and healing lotion. Men use it after shaving, and the women for the complexion and for baby's skin.

Santiseptic is easily procured at most drug stores, a good sized bottle costing but 50c. If your druggist cannot supply it, twenty-five cents stamps or coin sent to the manufacturers, The Ebancoet Laboratories, Portland, Ore., will secure postpaid, large introductory bottle.

THE LAUREL HILL CEMETERY, of which I am superintendent, writes H. H. Brumme, of Springfield, Ore., "Is full of Poison Oak. I take it very easily. When I sent you for a bottle of Santiseptic Lotion, I had had Poison Oak for about five months. I commenced using Santiseptic as soon as I got it and kept applying it in the Poison Oak. My appearances I am now entirely cured and believe me I certainly take something to even help me. I had never tried everything I or anybody else ever heard of, including all kinds of guaranteed remedies, but simply time and money wasted. Santiseptic certainly did the work. I will recommend it to every one I can. Anyone who has ever experienced the tortures of Poison Oak or Ivy, Dedication of New Auditorium Under Auspices of Rosarians Is Opening Event.

HOLD A MILITARY PARADE

State Troops and Veterans Will March: Field Sports and Drills on Program With Dinner for Soldiers.

While Portland's big Fourth of July celebration will be in the nature of a farewell to the state troops which are soon to go into federal service, several organizations plan to hold community celebrations in the city during the day. A big feature of the day's program will be the opening and dedication of Portland's new $600,000 public auditorium in the morning. The Royal Rosarians have arranged an attractive program for the opening.

In the afternoon the state troops, Spanish-American war and Grand Army veterans will participate in a military parade. Following the parade a military tournament, field sports and drills will be held on Multnomah field.

In the evening a dinner is to be given to the soldiers in the Multnomah hotel. The dinner will be followed by dancing by the mothers and women friends of the soldiers have been invited to attend the dancing.

The Ancient Order of Hibernians has arranged a program of field sports and a polo celebration to be held during the day on Council Crest. Judge John E. Dwyer, a jurist of Butte, Mont., is to be the orator of the day.

The residents of Vernon are to have an all day celebration beginning with a parade at 10 o'clock in the morning. Races, athletic contests and field sports are to be held on the Vernon playground. A number of prizes are to be awarded the winners of the various events.

cons disembark. A Cleveland recruit, who spoke German, greeted him in the streets and a polo celebration to be held during the day on Council Crest. Judge John E. Dwyer, a jurist of Butte, Mont., is to be the orator of the day.

"You Americans," the German responded, "are not coming here to fight against us. You'll find this is different"—and he turned away to his work again.

Colored Men Confused One of the thousands of humorous episodes occurred when a husky negro slaveholder—an enlisted man—saw a face as black as his own in the crowds that circulated admiringly about him. He looked like a brother Ethiopian. The American hurriedly pressed forward and in broadest darkey accents shouted a greeting.

But the other darkey was a French colonel. He backed away under English. He backed away quickly. "Huh!" remarked the American negro disdainfully. "That's the ignorant nigger I ever saw in my life."

As the last of the transports arrived and disembarked her men, those who had set foot ashore before lined up and cheered with the populace. It was not only enthusiasm for the task ahead, but an expression of relief that officers and men alike felt that all the American contingents had safely reached their destination, through all the perils of the sea.

Y. M. C. A. Losses No Time. One hour after the first American private stepped ashore, the business-like American Y. M. C. A. had its chairs, tables, and plenty of food and other necessities. And there were 50 soldiers busy writing home from "somewhere in France," telling of their safe arrival, while an American phonograph appropriately enough swelled out in the refrain "Home Sweet Home."

eral Pershing came down to see "his boys." He was accompanied by the French general Pellitter and several of his staff. Then, for the first time in history, two American generals of a belligerent force met on French soil—Pershing and Sibert.

Pershing was enthusiastically received as he inspected the camp. "Task as Soldiers Lies Clear" "This is the happiest of the busy days I have spent in France, preparing for the arrival of the first contingent," the American commander in chief declared. "Today I have seen our troops safe on French soil from transports safeguarded in their passage by the resourceful vigilance of our navy. Now our task as soldiers lies clear ahead. With the aid of the French leaders, who have placed all the results of their experience at our disposal, we hope to make this force worthy in skill and determination to fight side by side with our brothers-in-arms in the French army."

Pershing and his staff were entertained at luncheon on board Admiral Gleaves' flagship. City Is Scene of Great Activity This city is now the scene of the greatest activity. Streets literally hum with the constant passage of troops. On board the American naval vessels in the harbor, Admiral Gleaves and his staff are busy receiving and transmitting important orders and information. The troops themselves are eagerly taking in every sight to be seen and doing their best to master French.

Rumor of Sale of Island Is Denied

Venezuela Says Neither Government Nor Private Individuals Have Intrigued to Dispose of Margarita.

Washington, June 30.—(U. P.)—Venezuela today denied that either the government or any private individuals are intriguing to sell the island of Margarita to Germany as a secret base for German submarines.

This is Venezuela's answer to American representation against disposal of the island to the Teutons. Receipt of the message followed a previous message which showed Venezuela would take up with Germany the matter of submarine warfare in general. Venezuela is believed to be one of the nations referred to in recent announcements here of the German plotting in South America.
