ollowing points: Points to Be Investigated Whether militiamen watched, without interference, the murder of negroes Monday night. Whether militiamen fraternized with Whether officers in command of the troops are to be upheld in their behavior in the crisis. There is a tendency on the part of the city officials to place the entire blame for the seriousness of the rioting on the military, but this meets with little sympathy from unprejudiced observers.

Many of the charges made against the soliders are substantiated by eye witnesses but because they were greatly outnumbered by a mob as well armed as themselves there is little tendency to blame them seriously.

Wholesale Massacre Flanned

Further astonishing revelations were brought to light late yesterday at the coroner's inquest. Testimony by negro prisoners showed there was a well organized plot among negroes, to make yesterday, Independence day, a second St, Bartholomew's day. Four companies of blacks, all armed, had been practicing for a revenge massacre for the killing of blacks late in May, which was scheduled for yesterday. When one of these companies was surprised by police last Sunday night the negroes fired, killing Detective Sergeant Coppedge and precipitating the revenge riot by whites, which probably prvented yesterday's alleged schedulod onslaught by the blacks.

77 Bodies Have Been Found

The finding of several negro bodies in Cahokia creek yesterday and last night, brings the total known number of bodies found to 77. The police still assert the dead are more than 100. Figures compiled by authorities who have been constantly in touch with developments make the total 105.

Three white women were attacked and seriously injured by blacks, it became known today. Mrs. Maud Isom is so seriously injured she may die. She was attacked in her home by an unidentified negro and badly beaten. Two other women whose names are withheld by the police for fear of further rioting, are known to have been attacked and injured.

List of Patalities Chief of Police Payne gave the folowing total of dead: Negroes slain in the streets and odies found, 37. Burned at Broadway and Eighth street, eight.

Found in Cahokia creek, three, Burned in Broadway Opera house

Known burned in "black valley," 39. Four white men were killed during he riot. Exact figures, he pointed out, are impossible and only an approximate total can ever be made.
