patronizing the butcher shop of J. Caesar & Co., Ltd., for they have suddenly grown great, aye, great enough to take a series from the saucy Seals. Reference to the archives reveals that it is the first series the Beavers have been able to glom from the league leaders this season, so they may be pardoned if they get up on their hind heeis, cockadoodledoo, turn a somersault or perform any of the things a genus Castor Canadensis is supposed to do when tickled to death.

Red Oldham was the victim in the fourth straight game the Beavers have taken from the Seals, 3 to 2. Kenneth Penner, the shuffling mound artist from Marshalltown, Iowa, formed the opposition to the Seals' break into the win column and he got by scoreless till the seventh, when they landed on him for their duo.

Williams Spoils Three Bagger

A great running one-handed catch in the right center field by Kenneth Williams out off a three bagger at least from the bat of J. Calvo, the chattery Cuban, in the sixth frame. One inning later J. Calvo smacked another hit to the identical spot, but this time Williams bould get nowhere near it and it chased in a run.

Portland got away in the lead by clustering a bunch of bingles in the second session. Babe Borton rolled one down to the left of Jerry Downs and when Jerry tried to head it off, it took a bewildering bound and soaked Jerry in the chest, Then Arturo Griggs cut off a row of daisy heads through cut off a row of daisy heads through short. Patrick Siglin, the Donegal demon, tried ineffectively to bunt the runners along, but got nothing more than two fouls. He swung on the next one over and it went to left field for two cushions, scoring Borton.

Espless Jeremiah Again a Victim Again the hapless Jeremiah was victim. This time Baldwin hit a high hopper over the pitcher and when Downs closed in on it, the ball took a crasy bounce and sailed over the field marshal's head. Siglin reached third, whence he tailled as Penner's grounder was being converted into a double play via Downs to Koerner.

and Williams pulled off some fielding and two lost, that had held them down behind Penner's smart pitching. In the five and lost none, while Bader, Bosseventh one was gone, when McKee ambled. Oldham laid a bunt down the first base line, which Penner tossed 10 and lost one. wildly to Borton and the mysterious fisherman was safe. Fitsgerald, who has recovered his momentarily lost batting eye, skated a safe one across second, and McKee tallied, Oldham being held at second. Schaller forced Red at third, Hollocher to Pinelli, and that brought the man from Garcia's island to the front, He cracked out the double, as hereinbe-fore mentioned. Fitz counted. Siglin made a nice stop and throw to Borton of Maisel's grounder, and the rally was snuffed out. Fitzgerald doubled against the right field fence after McKee and Pinchhitter Pick had been retired in the ninth, but Schaller was retired and the game was over. Schaller was retired by Borton,

PAUL STEFFEN IS VICTORIOUS IN A GREAT NET GAME

Rallies After Practically Being Defeated and Wins; Neer a Winner.

By C. C. Harrison The Steffen fighting heart brought Faul Steffen, Portland representative in the northwest junior tennis championships, home a winner yesterday after William White, the light-haired Lewiston lad, had the match all but

Phil Neer, Portland's entry in the boy's championships, also won handily with the result that this afternoon it will be Portland against the northwest for the titles. Is Great Match

The Steffen-White match was unloubtedly the greatest exhibition seen here in years. It excelled the Goss-Richardson match of last year over which tennis fans had only just quit talking. It was a battle. White was a second Richardson. To tennis players that means he is a fox He is crafty, steady and cool. He has no service, no drive. He does nothing but get 'em and get 'em back. Paul Steffen had never been up against such a game. He lost the first set 6-1. By sheer force he took the second 7-5 and then eased into White's game again to lose the third 6-2. It was at this time the lads took their rest with White leading, two sets to Steffen came back strong. He remembered he had a vicious drive and Harper.rf.. 3 he began to use it. He won his first Young.2b.. 3 game handly but lost the control of the state of game handly, but lost the second on four driven balls that went out on He saw the wisdom of that though, and stuck to it. brought him home victor in that set 6-4 and tied up the match. And then came the great fifth set.

White won the first three games.
Steffen took two. Then White came back and took two more. With the score 5-2 it looked as though the match was all but over.

But for those who reckoned that way there was a surprise coming. They reckoned without the Steffen heart, the boxer, and which is making Paul Steffen a great tennis player.

heart that made Willie Ritchie a great out victor in another pitchers' Shows Pighting Spirit Steffen settled down to fight. He gritted his teeth and sailed in. He went to the net on every ball. He took the net and kept it. He fought White tooth and toe nati and he won five games running and the match.

After that match one could see the tennis hold. Where the old guard would have sat back and clapped their hands and then headed for tea, the new fans yelled. They couldn't restrain themselves longer. They let out one big yell and then grabbed Paul Steffen. He received one real ovation. White came in for his share too, for he played a wonderful game. While Steffen was battling in No. 1 court, his partner. Phil Neer, was going through Millington Grey of Seat-tle right back of him. Neer had little trouble. He couldn't get his mind off of Steffen and the fact that he was having a hard time. But the moment the tension eased up and Steffen was safe, Neer was through Grey like a shot and the battle was over, the score being 8-6, 6-3, 6-1.

Allen in Pinals Marshall Allen and Alva Roberts are the other entries in this after-noon's finals. Allen won his way in by defeating Camille Pessemier, the Facoma youngster, 4-6, 7-5, 6-0, 6-3. The high wind bothered both boys. Allen, while he at times showed his famed drive, seemed unable to keep it up. Pessemier forcing him into a chopping rame repeatedly and at this Pessemier was Allen's equal at least.

Lewiston Lad Disqualified Roberts of Tacoma will play Phil Neer for the boys' championships through the real sportsmanship of Abram Goldstone of Lewiston. Yes-terday, Goldstone discovered while reading some literature on the tournament, that to be eligible he must not be 16 before October 1. Realizing his ineligibility under this, he went straight to Walter Goss and told him. The committee could do nothing more than disqualify him. But even in doing so, it cannot but admire the boy who had the nerve to do it. Goldstone then beat Roberts 6-4, 6-3, 1-6, 3-6, 6-3 in an exhibition match.

A mere handful of people watched the matches, but a real crowd is expected for the finals this afternoon. reading some literature on the tourna-
