Albany Welcomes Motor Junketers

Good Entertainment Provided for the Portland Party, Arriving Strictly on Schedule, Leaving Likewise on Dot.

Albany, Or., Aug. 21.—Singing "Gasoline, Gasoline," the Portland Motor dealers arrived here Monday night 15 minutes ahead of schedule, and proceeded to take possession of the town.

Commander in Chief M. O. Wilkins reported that the only trouble in the entire run to this point was the changing of one tire.

There were 23 cars in the party when it reached Albany, but the party was joined here by Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Burnside, representative of the Firemen's Fund Insurance company, who came from Seattle to join the southern Oregon run.

The excursionists were met at Jefferson by representatives of the Albany dealers, who escorted them to the Hotel Albany, where the Albany dealers had provided a luncheon punch.

The entire party, together with the Albany dealers and members of the Albany Commercial club, sat down to a six course dinner at 6:30. With the Adjuvant leading the amusement, the dinner was a scream from start to finish.

Lumber Company Resumes Hood River, Or., Aug. 21.—The Oregon Lumber company resumed operations Monday after the burn-out of a part of its logging road and the burning of an engine and several logging cars that occurred about 10 days ago, in which Dan LaRocque, engineer on the logging engine, lost his life.

under Lieutenant Roy Doble. Companies A and C will drill Saturday night. The quarters have been assigned each company, and the men will be enrolled as fast as applications are received. There are now more than 200 on the muster rolls but 450 are wanted. This force of men will constitute the only state military force in Oregon, and as they are all veterans it will not take long to have them in shape for active duty if need arises.

Heavy Rains Will Help Convill further explains that the first heavy rain will wash many of the caterpillar nests from the trees, but will not destroy the pests. He says that rain will assist in stopping the spread of the web-worms but that the trees now infested will not be helped.

The pests usually weave their webs near the end of the tree branches and within these webs make their homes. Several thousand caterpillars are found within each web or nest. The pests increase and spread rapidly.

Hillsboro, Or., Aug. 21.—Louie Stoller, a Beaverton hotelkeeper, and Andrew Beggi were arrested at Beaverton Monday by Sheriff Applegate, charged with selling liquor contrary to the prohibition statute.

The sheriff seized several bottles of beer, a jug of wine and some alcohol at Stoller's place. Beggi's place was raided and about 60 gallons of wine of various kinds was brought to the court.

Hood River, Or., Aug. 21.—Forest fires that have been raging in the upper Hood River valley are now reported to be under control. D. I. Stone, resident of the upper valley, reported today that little damage had been done by the fire thus far and that the large crews of men engaged in fighting the fire had done most effective work.

MAYOR DECLARES WAR ON CATERPILLARS; BIG DAMAGE DONE IN CITY

Chief Johnson Instructs His Men to Notify Tree Owners to Destroy Pests.

FIRE OR SPRAY WILL KILL

Park Superintendent Convill Will Clean Up City's Trees; Rain Will Check Ravages.

In an effort to stamp out the web-worms, the caterpillars which are destroying thousands of shade trees throughout the city, Mayor Baker is calling on tree owners to spray the trees and remove the large nests hanging from the branches.

Owing to the long dry period the pests have spread by the thousands and now there are few trees, particularly on the west side of the river, which have not been marred by the web-worms. Several large fruit trees near the south park blocks are so badly infested with the web-worms that it is with difficulty that the natural foliage can be distinguished.

Police to Notify Tree Owners Fearing that the spread of the web-worms will mean the destruction of many of the trees, Mayor Baker today instructed Chief of Police Johnson to have his men immediately notify tree owners to do everything possible to kill the pests, and ordered Park Superintendent Convill to clean up the trees in the parks which are noticeably infested with the caterpillars.

Many of the infested trees are in private yards and the park bureau is without jurisdiction here. The police bureau, however, has the authority to have the trees cleaned or destroyed on the ground that they are a menace in the city.

Park Superintendent Convill says that the pests can be easily destroyed by spraying with a solution of arsenate of lead, or by burning the nests. Keratene or any good tree spray is effective, he declares.
