City Milk Chemist Calloway Submits Report With Recommendations for Service.

TICKET SYSTEM IS URGED

Daylight Delivery System Would Be Safer and More Efficient, Is Believed.

If dairymen would establish a better system for the distribution of milk, waste would be eliminated and the milkmen make more money, according to City Milk Chemist Calloway, in a report submitted to the commission...

Calloway further suggests a ticket system of selling milk. He would have the dairymen sell the tickets in advance so that the losses from "beats" would be minimized. He also suggests better cooperation between the dairymen and store proprietors to prevent loss of excess milk held for sale in stores.

Mann Would Prevent City Employees Holding Two Places.

City employees on vacations or leaves of absence are not to be permitted to hold outside positions while temporarily out of the city's service, if the city council adopts a resolution being prepared by John M. Mann, commissioner of public utilities.

OREGON CITY MAN TO APPEAL DENIAL OF HIS CLAIM TO PRESIDENT

Robert James Mattoon Gives Verbal Notice; Grand Jury Investigated Case.

Many Names Certified. Albert William Frederick of Oregon City, Denied Exemption, Will Appeal on Dependency Grounds.

Oregon City, Aug. 30.—Robert James Mattoon of Oregon City, whose claim for exemption, based upon having a wife and two children solely dependent upon his labor, was denied by both the local and district boards, has given verbal notice that he expects to appeal to the president of the United States.

HUSBAND'S CLAIM OF EXEMPTION IS GIVEN DENIAL BY HIS SPOUSE

Woman, Who Says She Was Ejected From Home, Tells Authorities; Man Arrested.

Because she was ejected from his home last November and has since made her own living, it is claimed, Mrs. Joseph McCarty, wife of a rancher near Vale, in Malheur county, felt that she was not dependent upon her husband for support and so informed the army exemption board in McCarty's district.

As much as McCarty had certified that his wife was dependent on him, the exemption board could not recognize the claim and reported the case to United States Attorney Clarence L. Reames.

At noon today the federal grand jury reported to Judge Wolverton, returning an indictment against McCarty, who has already been arrested, with making a false affidavit. The indictment is practically a charge of perjury, according to Deputy United States Attorney Goldstein, and is the first one of its kind reported in this district.

The McCarty's were married in November, 1915, and just a year later the separation occurred, according to Goldstein. McCarty registered and took the physical examination, but claimed exemption on the grounds of dependency. He made out the usual affidavit and sent it to his wife, now residing in LaCenter, Wash. To sign. She signed it, according to Goldstein, but wrote in the margin that she was not dependent on her husband for obvious reasons.

Another indictment returned by the grand jury is for a new type of an alleged military service evader. A man whose true name is said to be Joseph O. Harrison, and residing at York, Elkhart county, is accused of registering as Joseph Burns, and afterwards is said to have taken a third name. When he boasted to friends that he would change his name so often that he could never be cornered for military service, according to the United States attorney's office, his arrest followed.

Neil O'Hare, proprietor of the Kenton hotel, was accused of importing a 10 gallon keg of whiskey into dry territory from California, and also of selling to the police of the shipment on the trunk when it was placed in transit with an express company. Jeff New was indicted on a charge of selling a plain slacker. He is accused of falling to register at Jennings Lodge.

Family Bible Shows Man Year Younger And Must Register

Through records in a dusty family Bible uncovered by investigations by Assistant United States District Attorney Goldstein, Robert Braden, of Newberg, has found that he is a year younger than he thought and that he must register for draft.

Braden was under the impression that he is over 31 years of age, as his life insurance policy and other documents, show, and consequently did not register. When a dispute over his age, however, reached the federal authorities, Assistant District Attorney Goldstein began a probation which lasted for several weeks and resulted in finding the old family Bible in possession of Braden's uncle, one of the few members of the family living.

Braden registered willingly and said he was glad to find out his real age though he didn't feel any younger for the discovery.

SOUTHERN OREGON TO INCREASE ITS ACREAGE IN GRAIN NEXT YEAR

Heavy increase in acreage in Jackson, Josephine and Douglas counties give promise of a record grain yield in those sections next year, according to G. R. Hyslop, professor of farm crops of the Oregon Agricultural college.

Professor Hyslop, who has recently visited southern Oregon, has every reason to believe that the 1918 yield of crops in that western section will exceed by far any previous year.

Reviewing the crop conditions, Professor Hyslop said: "Land which is now being used for the growing of corn, beans, potatoes, sugar beets, etc., can easily be prepared for the fall grain crops. All that is necessary, after the harvesting of the crops mentioned, is to disc the ground and drill in the seed. The farmers will not have to resort to plowing and this fact alone will prove highly advantageous to the grower."

"Many of the fields which were plowed late in the spring and those which yielded comparatively light crops are easily cultivated for the winter crops."

"The advantages of the winter wheat is that it continues to grow during the rainy season. I found the spring wheat yield of a medium nature and look for a big increase in the fall crops."

Professor Hyslop visited Portland today to confer with W. B. Ayer, local food administrator. Mr. Ayer paid the Oregon Agricultural college a high compliment for the work it is doing in behalf of food conservation and the assistance it is giving in inducing farmers to increase their acreage and through the experiment stations, the aid that is being given in improving methods of agriculture.

Gas Attack Fatal To Army of Roaches Invading City Hall

The army of cockroaches in the city hall has retreated, leaving thousands of dead and a few of the few guard. The cockroaches failed to provide themselves with gas masks and were unable to fight the purplish-blue vapor shot at them by the cockroach exterminator. S. C. Simmons, superintendent of the building, says that the insects have left the city hall, but he fears that they may return. The few of the rear guard are dying the death of martyrs. Each one seen on the floor now gets stepped on. The battle between the cockroaches and the vapor began in the basement of the building. A few of them died there, but the big army moved upstairs, the vapor moved too and the roaches moved up another flight. The top floor was reached and what happened there is a matter of conjecture. The roaches disappeared. Where, no one knows.
