Home-Reading Course For Citizen-Soldiers

(This course of 30 lessons as offered to the men selected for service in the National Army as a practical help in getting started in the right way. It is informal in tone and does not attempt to give binding rules and directions. These are contained in the various nanuals and regulations of the United States Army, to which this course is merely introductory.)

tory.) (Issued by the War Department and Lesson No. 28

Why We Fight

TVERY American knows the causes ernment. Yet this course would ongs appearing as the first words of be incomplete if it did not contain a the text. When so addressed they will brief review of the events that finally forced us into war, when at last there remained "no other means of defending our rights."

The soldier of an autocratic kaiser may fight best when he understands least of the true meaning of the war. To tell him the facts would be to chill his enthusiasm. But the citizen soldier of a democracy is entitled to know for what purposes he enters the struggle. He fights best when he sees most clearly why he fights. The resolution of congress declaring state of war (April 6, 1917), expresses the immediate cause in these few words:

"The imperial German government has committed repeated acts of war against the government and the people of the United States of America. Chief among the acts of war were attacks by German submarines on American ships and on unarmed merchant ships of other nations carrying American passengers. "Vessels of every kind," said the president in his address to congress on April 2, 1917, "whatever their flag, their character, their cargo, their destination, their erand, have been ruthlessly sent to the thought of help or mercy for those on board, the vessels of friendly neutrals along with those of beiligerents. Even hospital ships and ships carrying relief to the sorely bereaved and stricken people of Belgium, though the latter were provided with safe conduct through the prescribed areas by the German government itself and were distinguished by unmistakable marks of identity, have been sunk with the same reckless lack of compassion or of principle . . . The present Ger-man submarine warfare against commerce is a warfare against mankind." German Insults and Aggressions There were other acts of hostility i addition to the submarine warfare. In his Flag day address delivered at Washington on July 14, 1917, the president summed up the events that brought on war as follows: "It is plain enough how we were forced into the war. The extraordinary insults and aggressions of the Imperial German government left us no self-respecting choice but to take up arms in defense of our rights as a free people and of our honor as a severeign government. The military masters of Germany denied us the right to be They filled our unsuspecting communities with vicious spies and conspirators and sought to corrupt the opinion of our people in their own behalf. When they found that they could not do that, their agents diligently spread sedition amongst us and sought to draw our own citizens from their allegiance—and some of those agents were men connected with the pfficial embassy of the German government itself here in our capital. They sought by violence to destroy our industries by violence to destroy our industries and arrest our commerce. They tried to incite Mexico to take up arms against us and to draw Japan into s hostile alliance with her-and that, not by indirection, but by suggestion from the foreign office in Berlin. They impudently denied us the use of the high seas and repeatedly executed their threat that they would send to their death any of our people who ventured to approach the coasts of Europe." Our Liberty and Safety Involved Yet even this list of "extraordinary insults and aggressions" does not tell the whole story. Our motives for war go even deeper. Not only our rights and self respect, but our liberty and safety are involved. Speaking on July 29, 1917, at the officers' training camp at Madison Barracks, N. Y., the secre-

"The evil character of the German government is laid bare before the world. We know now that that government is inspired with ambitions which menace human liberty, and that to gain its end it does not hesitate to break faith, to violate the most sacred rights, or to perpetrate intolerable acts of inhumanity * * * Let us un derstand once for all that this is no war to establish an abstract principle of right. It is a war in which the future of the United States is at stake."

right. It is a war in which the future of the United States is at stake."

The record out of which grows our deep conviction that it is necessary at once to put a curb on so powerful and unscrupulous an enemy is set forth in an official publication "How the War Came to America."

"Judging the German government now in the light of our honest attempt to keep the peace, we could see the great autocracy and read her record through the war. And we found that record damnable. ... With a fanatical faith in the destiny of German kultur as the system that must rule the world, the imperial government's actions have through years of boasting, double dealing and deceit, tended toward aggression upon the rights of others. And if there still be any doubt as to which nation began this war, there can be no uncertainty as to which nation began this war, there can be no uncertainty as to which nation began this war, there can be no uncertainty as to which nation began this war, there can be no uncertainty as to which nation began this war, there can be no uncertainty as to which nation began this war, there can be no uncertainty as to which nation began this war, there can be no uncertainty as to which nation began this war, there can be no uncertainty as to which one was most prepared, most exultant at the chance, and ready instantly to march upon the other nations—even those who had given no offense. The wholesale depredations and hideous atrocities in Belgium and in Serbia were doubtless part and parcel with the imperial government's purpose to terrorize small nations into abject submission for generations to pose to terrorize small nations into abject submission for generations to come. But in this autocracy has been blind. For its record in those countries, and in Poland and in Northern but to liberal peoples throughout the world the conviction that this menace to human liberties must be utterly shorn of its power to harm. German Scheme Unsafe "For the evil it has effected has anged far out of Europe—out upon he open seas, where its submarines in defiance of law and the concepts of humanity have blown up neutral ves-sels and covered the waves with the dead and the dying, men and women and children alike. Its agents have conspired against the peace of neutral nations everywhere, sowing the seeds of dissension, ceaslessly, endeavoring by tortuous methods of deceit, of brib-ery, false promises and intimidation, to stir up brother nations one against rder that the autocracy might emerge from the war.

"All this we know from our own experience with the imperial government. As they have dealt with Europe, so have they dealt with us and with world might not be able to unite, in the German nation is divested of such, mocracy can not be safe."

Mot Hostile to German People One thought which you should keep Iways in mind is the clear distinction etween our attitude toward the imperial German government and our at-titude toward the German people. The president said in his speech of June 14, 1917: "We are not the enemies of the German people and they are not our ena-They did not originate or de sire this hideous war or wish that we should be drawn into it; and we are vaguely conscious that we are fight ing their cause, as they will some day see it, as well as our own. They are themselves in the grip of the same sinister power that has now at last stretched its ugly talons out and drawn lood from us."

Every American soldier in this war fights for objects dearer to all of us han life itself-for freedom and democracy, for the safety of our own nomes and families, for the honor of our country. You will think often of these objects during your period of training and after you actually enter the trenches. The more you think about them the greater will be your pride that you are one of those first chosen to defend them. "The world must be made safe for
