TINY GOODBRED, HARD WHEAT COMEDIAN OF OAKS, GETS A BEATING

Visitors Make More of a Battle of It Than Has Been Their Custom Here.

START OFF LIKE WINNERS

But Fail to Keep Up Pace and Finally Take Short End of 6 to 4

By R. A. Cronin

Tiny Goodbred, the hard wheat comedian of the Oaks, stepped right up like his predecessors and the Oaks took their daily beating, although yesterday they made more of a battle of it. Tiny was so busy trying to keep the Beavers away from the plate that he didn't have much time to "comede," and it was therefore more or less of a serious game.

The Oaks started right off like winners. Billy Fisher celebrated his draft into the big league by cracking out the first of two doubles. Mentor beat out a bunt to Gardner. Murphy sacrificed Mentor along to second and on Stump's out, Lane tallied. Mentor came across when Hollocher threw Miller's grounder into the dirt in front of Griggs, the first of three errors, which is a record in boots for this frisky kid in any one game.

Jack Farmer Clouts the Ball Jack Farmer doubled to right in the Beavers' half and stole third, which put the Beavers in a way to tie the count. Willie brought Farmer home with a blow over second and then stole. Williams walked and Griggs singled to right, counting Willie.

Hollocher walked and scored from first in the third on Dennis Willie's double to left. Willie went to third after Lane caught Williams' long fly and counted when Griggs also hit a long fly to Lane.

The Oaks brought Mentor home in the fifth on his single. Hollocher's error in dropping a throw ball from Gardner on Murphy's grounder, Stump's single and Miller's forecourt of Stump.

Gardner Gets Another Hit Gardner, who got three hits for the afternoon, opened the sixth with a single to right, went to third on Miller's single to center and scored when Goodbred forced Mitz to second. Brenton took up the pitching from the sixth on Goodbred's rest up like self-feeding yeast from the third to the eighth and then fell flat, as the housewives say.

Williams singled to right and Griggs got his third hit of the afternoon when his bunt rolled between Goodbred and Gardner. Rodgers sacrificed the pair along. Siglin hit over third and Williams scored. Fisher raised a third sacrifice fly to Lane and Griggs tallied the sixth run after the catch.

Brenton Gets Into Trouble Brenton was in a little trouble in the ninth when Miller reached first on Hollocher's low throw and Gardner singled, but Holly ran down a ball deflected by Brenton and tossed Mitz out at first, ending the game. The score:
