Boxing club in this city October 26. Because of his mannerisms and his concerts both in and out of the roped arena. Pinkman is about the most popular attraction the local promoters could present. With all his oddities he certainly can box and is possessed of a wonderfully hardhitting right Stapley McDonald, Mitchie's mentor, is confident the local lad will wrest the Northwest title from Pinkman when they clash on October 26. As usual Eddie is doing the dictat ing and the club has practically agreed to all the conditions which he has im posed. Pinkman is now serving his country as a member of the Washington coast artillery and is stationed a Fort Worden, Wash. Among the conditions he has imposed on the manage ment of the Columbia club is that a percentage of the gross receipts be given to the mess fund of his company. The club has agreed to accept Pinkman's patriotic offer, so as soon as a few minor details are settled the match will be definitely closed. Muff Bronson is once again going at top speed and his friends are contending that he is by far the classiest of the local contingent of mitt wielders. This season Pinkman is still champion, but the other Seattle lads have been practically eliminated as contenders. In fact, Pinkman's only dangerous rivals are both Portland boys, Peter Mitchie and

Willie Bernstein of Portland writes from Oakland, Cal., that Jimmy Dun-dee, who was scheduled to box Charley Moy in one of the main events of the se City smoker last Friday, received the offer too late to come to Portland. According to Bernstein, Dunden had just returned from a trip to Los Anseles and was in no shape to box in

"Jimmy Duffy, who made a great hit here last season, looks like a second Berny Leonard," said Bernstein.
"Portland fans will sure get a surprise when they see him in action again. He s training with Frankie Burns and Battling Ortega."

Professional bouts in Seattle have been tabooed again by Sheriff John ager. This is the second time this season that the King county sheriff

Multnomah Club Team to Battle With Both State Institutions on Local, Pield-Soldiers to Be Met.

Portland football fans will have to be content with witnessing but two teams of the Pacific Northwest Intercollegiate conference in action this

The Oregon Agricultural college and the University of Oregon are the two field. Each of these teams will be seen in action twice during the season, the two coming together in the annual state football classic on Thanksgiving day. The dates of the games between the colleges and the Multnomah club have not been agreed upon, but it is likely that both contests will be staged

Late Opening Causes Condition The late opening of the college se-mesters and the depletion of the collegiate ranks on account of the war is one of the reasons why Portland did not fare so well this year as last season when all teams except the University of Washington and Idaho clashed on Multnomah field.

Graduate managers of the conference have practically completed their schedule for the season. Oregon and O. A. C. will get into action as soon as conditions will let them, the Lemon-Yellow being scheduled to clash with Multnomah October 13 and the Aggies hooking up with Willamette on the same day.

Club Games Held Up The Multnomah team will play as many games as possible this season. Efforts are being made to set the dates of the games with Oregon and O. A. C., so that the balance of the season's schedule may be arranged. The University of California eleven will be seen in action in Oregon for the first time in many seasons when it tackles the Oregon team at Eugene ovember 17. Washington State and Washington will get together for the first time since 1914 Thanksgiving day in Seattle. This game should draw one of the biggest crowds that ever witnessed a football game in the northwest

USE OF THE SPITBALL

Interscholastic Coaches Up in Air Over Buling Prohibiting Artificial Tees Sport News of All Sorts.

Byron Houck, the big twirler of th Beavers, who has been drafted by the St. Louis Americans, is having great success with his spitball. He had pitched 30 innings without being scored upon until the fourth inning of last Thursday's game when Vernon scored two runs. The last run Houck allowed before the Tigers dented the place was made September 8 in Salt Lake in the ninth inning of that 21-1 contest. Previous to the ninth inning Houck had the Bees shutout. Are Against Spitter Houck's success with the spitter has been wonderful and the big question is, can he get by in the majors with Tener of the National league and Ban Johnson of the American circuit have to press dispatches from the East. There is a certain following among the club owners for abolishing the unsanitary features of major baseball, it would not be surprising if action against the "wet one" would be taken during the winter meetings of the big league organizations.

Houck depended on a curve and fast one before he acquired his "spitter," and if the majors rule against the spitball, the Beaver hurler may still be able to hold his own.

What's the use of feeling so oil, cross, nervous and "grumpy" all the time, a burden to yourself and a constant irritation to others. It's not how old you are in years that counts, but it's the amount of iron in your blood that may tell the story. For want of iron, you may be an old man at 33, dull of intellect, poor in memory, nervous, irritable and all "run down" while at 50 or 60, with plenty of iron in your blood, you may still be young in feering, full of life, your whole being brimming over with energy and vital force.
