Reed Students Are Deep in Class Work

End of First Week of College Year Finds Students Accustomed to Their Routine—Campus Happenings.

The first week of the college year was used by the students in familiarizing themselves with the general run of things, and now that that is past, the students are confronted with their classroom work.

The schedule of periods has been changed and lengthened so that there will be no Saturday classes this year. This will give many students the opportunity of spending their Saturdays in work and will also offer a good time to make laboratory experiments.

Miss Louise Huntley is the new president of the student body, taking the place of Ambrose Brownell, who is at Camp Diseno. There are several new members in the organization. Edgar Meana was elected to take the place of John Lamborn, who is also at Camp Diseno. Fred Brainerd is filling the vacancy left by James Rogers, who is now in France studying aviation, being sent there by the government from the aviation school at Berkeley where he was graduated the highest in his class. Kirk Prindle was elected to take Howard Hokirk's place, who is at the second reserve officers' training camp at the Presidio, San Francisco. Miss Elizabeth Knight is taking the place left by Miss Helen Allison Phillips, who did not return to school this fall.

Dr. Joseph K. Hart will speak at vesper today, and Norman F. Coleman will speak the week following.

Dr. Wilystine Goodell, professor of education at Columbia university, visited the college Friday and spoke to the education classes.

Byron Mathews, ex-'18, is a yeoman in the commissary department of the Oregon naval militia, stationed at Seattle. Nathan Thomas, ex-'20, and Delvin Peterson, '17, in the same branch, are petty officers in the band. Carl Pheasantine, ex-'20, is in the hospital service in this unit. Jasper Jacob Stahl, professor of German for six years, is in the executive office.

Dr. Irving Fisher, one of the foremost political economists in the country, and for years a professor at Yale, will address a special assembly at Reed on Friday, October 12.

Hobbies of Royal Women

THE most enthusiastic souvenir collector in England is Princess Mary, whose special line is photographs of aviators. The profiles of practically all flying men of note adorn the Buckingham Palace. When a member of the Royal Flying corps goes to the palace to be decorated by his majesty for some brave deed on the battlefield he is invariably invited to leave a photograph of himself for which the king's daughter will find a place of honor in her collection.

Many royalties and royal highnesses are also full of interest.

Another curious fancy is that of the queen of Denmark, who collects eyeglasses of celebrated men.

For the Autumn Bride

By Dame Curtsey.

HERE is a novel scheme for a bride who is going right to house-keeping in a cozy little house just "built for two." She has been a neighborhood favorite for years and the girls and boys all are going to make this informal affair just as funny as possible.

There will be about 30 and they are going to meet at one house, each bringing a jar of something sweet and something sour. These jars will be packed in a clothes basket and carried to the home of the bride-elect.

Her family are in on the plan and are going to serve light refreshments. Each jar is to be marked with the name of the donor and a sentiment to be read aloud. In some instances recipes for the contents will accompany the jars.

Here is another unusual way of "showing" the gifts that I am delighted to tell our readers about. For the guests had the jolliest kind of a time.

Fascinating Millinery Is Shown

MILLINERY is fascinating. As you walk along the street you are likely to remark the variety and variation of human portraits that you pass. But you will be more surprised to find how diversified are the top pieces that crown human heads.

There's a perfectly good reason for endless hat designs. In normal peace times the milliners' models put on their lovely new chapeaux and assemble at the races and other joyous events on the daily amusement card of Paris. Each little model runs home and tells with the other little models what she thinks of the Paris milliners' copy each other, combine their own ideas with those of their classmates, and in a general way hit upon certain lines certain colors and certain trills and do-dads. Not so when the battle blings and the guns resound and Paris streets are soldier-thronged. Races and parties are not. Each modiste thinks out her thinkingest best, and the big boats carry them to America. Result: We have every shaped hat that ever was, including those that have been run over by motor cars.

Napoleon styles and novelty tricorne are ever so happy an idea, since they are becoming to almost every woman. There is also the Spanish sailor in many variations. The Boston hat has lost not a bit of flavor or freshness, and the little old poke bonnet is just as new this season as it was when our great-great-grandmothers wore it many years ago. Both the director and the Marquise shapes are seen among the newest of the new, and the collier shape done in velvet, with a peaked crown, is impervious, if not a bit impudent. The melon-shaped crown, decorated with chenille stitching and dented in at one side, after the fashion of the hat of the infantryman, imparts a military touch and go to the lady who likes to run with the speed dressers.

The tabloid hat, known as the toque, is even yet and so good style, but we would like to predict that the big Gainsborough and the hat with the high upturned brim are going to carry away all the popularity prizes. We have worn no-account helmets long enough, and the big shapes are more like real, regular hats.

Let us warn you against embroidery; it has been done to death and cheapened, and so has beading. Southing survives, but we doubt if its life will be long in this dressland. Little appliques cut from brocades are novel, and all manner of braiding and designs achieved by the application of ribbons are effective and new. Think not that the jerseys have scattered and gone. Not at all; wool jersey is out among the hustling styles, as strong as ever, and particularly lively when dyed any of the new "jewel" colors—jade green, ruby, emerald or amethyst.

With Would Theem Tho
A young lady who lisped very badly was treated by a specialist and learned to say the sentence: "Sister Susie's sewing shirts for soldiers."

She repeated it to her friends and was congratulated upon her masterly performance. "Yeth, but it's thut an exceedingly difficult remark to work into a conversation—ethpecially when you contidier that I have no thitther thutthie."

OBSERVE GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Nickelsen

Hood River, Or., Oct. 6.—The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Nickelsen was observed Wednesday, October 3, at the K. of P. hall, where more than 40 relatives and members of the Woman's Relief corps were entertained. Luncheon was served to the members of the family at the noon hour and ice cream and cake to the members of the W. R. C. in the afternoon, followed by wedding money performed by Rev. D. M. Carpenter.

Mr. Nickelsen was born in Oldsum, Insle Fohr, March 3, 1848; Mrs. Nickelsen, whose maiden name was Inga Borden, was born in Witaum, Insle Fohr, May 16, 1850.

Mr. and Mrs. Nickelsen were married October 3, 1867, and to them were born five children: J. R. and C. D. Nickelsen of Hood River, Mrs. Ila C. Nealeigh of Oregon City, Mrs. T. G. Frohn and Mrs. Margaret Bullard of Hood River. Seventeen grandchildren and one great-grandchild constitute the immediate members of the family, most of whom were present at the anniversary.

Mr. Nickelsen, who was born under the German flag, came to America in 1871 to escape the burdens of the Prussian military system, and has a grandson, Lowell Nickelsen, serving in the United States navy. Upon arriving in America Mr. Nickelsen went to California, where he opened a blacksmithing establishment employing several men, and after the arrival of Mrs. Nickelsen with her two sons in 1876, moved to The Dalles, Or., in 1878, coming to Hood River in 1883, where they have since resided.

Mr. and Mrs. Nickelsen were charter members of the first Methodist church organized in the Hood River valley. Mr. Nickelsen has served as school clerk in Hood River for 20 consecutive years, and secretary of the farmers' irrigation district for 10 years. He has been a member of the A. O. U. W. lodge for 37 years and a member of the K. of P. lodge 36 years.

Japanese Knots
The Japanese have no use for buttons, buckles or hooks and eyes. Cord serves every purpose of fastening and furnishes artistic possibilities seemingly without end.

The Japanese have hundreds of knots, made necessary by the ornamental use of cord. Some are as old as the time when history was recorded by a series of knots, just as it was in China and Peru before writing was invented. There are dozens of knots in common and ceremonial usage, and these every child can tie.

There is an appeal to the imagination even in the knots intended for common use. There are plum blos-

The Cleverest Dresses Ever Seen

The smart young woman is forever looking for a fine quality serge dress, designed in an out-of-the-ordinary way, perfectly made and finished so that it has that look of quality. Yesterday we received a number of just such dresses. They are the cleverest styles in navy blue serge, some trimmed in deep braid, others in narrow braid worked in design, and even one has a design worked in white cross stitch through the front and back of the waist. A number have a touch of color at the collar and cuffs. It is a pleasure to announce that we have dresses of this character—a number are priced at $27.50.

Lovely Coats for Evening and Street

Panne velvet, whipcord, Bolivia and silk velour lead in handsome Dress Coats. High shades, such as rose and China blue, with rich silk linings and fur-trimmed, are some of the lovelier things shown. We have a wonderful line now on display, priced from $55 to $85.

Fashionable for the Ice Skating Season
Handsome Sweaters in Angora, Shetland and other novelty wools. Many striking styles to select from. Some large fancy bordered collars and cuffs, deep patch pockets. Many in bright colors with white trimming. Also a very pretty line of middie, slip-over and Russian styles. Priced $8.00 to $18.50. Clever wool caps and scarfs to match. You should see the new Scotch plaid styles. Priced $1.35 to $6.00.

som, cherry blossom, iris, chrysanthemum and pine tree knots. There are Fujiyama knots, turtle and stork knots, the "old man's," which is easy to tie, and the "old woman's" also.

There is one way of knotting a cord when sending a New Year's or birthday gift and another for doing up a funeral offering. There is one way to tie the brocade bag of the tea jar when it is full and another when it is empty. A sword bag, a flag or spear bag, a dispatch bag, or the box containing some precious piece of porcelain or lacquer, must each be tied in a certain way.

The ill-bred person classes himself with the foreigner by ignoring such niceties of custom, and an object tied in a slovenly manner may carry with it a deadly insult.
