CHINESE YOUTH IS NOW FULL-FLEDGED NAVIGATOR OF AIR

Seventeen-Year-Old Portland Boy Has Mastered Art of Flying After Hard Study.

YOUNG AVIATOR REAL ADVOCATE OF CAUSE

Henry Wong

TO BUILD OWN MACHINE

Following Graduation at the Couch School He Completed a Course in Aviation in the East.

After an absence of seven months, Henry Wong, a Portland Chinese boy, who was graduated from Couch school in February, has returned a full fledged aviator. He is said to be the first member of Portland's oriental colony to take up this branch of endeavor and intends to make it his life's work.

Henry Wong is 17 years of age and is a son of William Wong, Sanitor of the Madison building, formerly a Chinese merchant, who has been a resident of Portland for 38 years.

Aviation Course Taken.—After his graduation from the Couch school, Henry went to Celina, Ohio, and entered the Beam School of Aviation, where he took a seven months' course. Upon completing the course he was awarded a diploma as a regular aviator.

The course included designing, construction and flying and Henry has a good deal of practice in flying. Henry says on one occasion he stayed aloft 30 minutes, reaching an altitude of 7000 feet, he performed these feats in the regular course of his studies.

Mr. Edward Kyle, president of the Theosophical society, will lecture tonight on the "Tree of Life," 201 Central building, Tenth and Alder. A. J. welcome. (Adv.)

Steamer Traids for St. Helens and Rainier, daily 8:30 p. m., foot of Alder street; Sunday, St. Helens only, 8:15 p. m.

Depends on Motor.—The cost of an airplane depends principally on the kind of motor. He says a standard would cost nearly as much as his whole machine is going to cost.

"Yes, it's lonesome up there," said Henry in commenting on the fact that an aviator when aloft. "Seems that there is nothing in the world but me and the plane. The earth looks like a checkerboard with its farms, woods and cities. What if something were to go wrong? Well, I'd just go wrong, too, I guess. You can't do anything in a case of that kind and have got to take the consequences. But there is no reason for anything going wrong with the present perfection of airplanes. All you've got to do is be careful. There is a great future for aviation and I'm glad something told me while I am young and can take full advantage of it."

REORGANIZATION OF POLICE DEPARTMENT DELAYED BY STRIKE

Detective Cahill, Slated for "Layoff," Retained Until Issues Are Settled.

Reorganization of the police bureau scheduled to take place October 1, has been delayed on account of strike conditions. The majority of the patrolmen are detailed on strike duty at the shipyards in the city. This has also hindered the contemplated changes of the patrolmen on beats. Detective Cahill, who was slated for a "lay off," has been retained in that department, pending the outcome of the strike and certain civil service questions which have arisen over his retirement.

The laying off of five members of the department on pensions has also been held up to await the result of the pension question which is being worked on by insurance actuaries. These five men who come under the $200 will not be replaced and it will mean a saving to the city of $200 a month.

Definite action on the pension bill by the council hinges on the figures submitted by an actuary who has taken the plans to his home office, the Equitable Life, in New York city. This same firm is preparing figures for Buffalo, N. Y., and Pittsburgh.

JUDGES PICKED FOR POULTRY SHOW TO BE HELD IN DECEMBER

Clubs From All Parts of the United States Will Meet at Portland's Exhibit.

Oscar Nelson of Coeur d'Alene, William M. Coats of Vancouver, B. C., B. F. Keeney of Eugene and J. C. Murray of Portland are to be the judges of the annual poultry and chicken show at the public Auditorium from December 3 to 8. This announcement was made yesterday by the Oregon Poultry and Pet Stock association.

Chicken and pet stock clubs and fanciers continue to show increased interest in the Portland show. The Northwest Rhode Island club has announced that it will offer special ribbons and cups to be competed for in Oregon for the first time. The Middle West Bantam association with headquarters at Indianapolis has announced its annual meeting and exhibit at the Portland show as has also the American Buttercup association.

The Buff Leghorn club of America will hold its annual meet here and will enter about 100 Leghorns, the largest display of this kind ever seen in Portland. The Leghorn World has offered a prize for the best pen of Buff Leghorns.

The directors of the Oregon association have completed arrangements for coping this year's show in metal coops and cages in place of the wooden structures furnished heretofore by the association. The premium list has been sent to the larger pens and will be ready for distribution within a few days. The awards aggregate $1500 in cash, the amount appropriated by the state for the purpose.

Books for Soldiers Coming In Rapidly

The financial campaign throughout Oregon toward the attainment of a million dollar fund for libraries for soldiers has not decreased the inflow of books to the Portland library to be sent in bales, purchases and boxes to the soldier boys. They are coming from every town and hamlet at the rate of 200 to 500 volumes every day.

The larger post are pretty well cared for and next week every company of the Oregon National Guard doing guard duty in Oregon and Washington will receive books. Many places there are only 10 or 12 soldiers stationed, as at tunnels, bridges, etc., who have ample time to read and these will not be overlooked. The appeal continues for textbooks in elementary French, Spanish, German, practical English and mathematics. These should be sent directly to Dr. Norman E. Coleman at American Lake.

Pa., on police and fire department pensions. The same plans offered these cities may be used in Portland.
