"I approve of Cremation as the method of disposing of the bodies of the dead and think it is preferable to burial." That's the opinion of RT. REV. CHARLES GORB, M. A., D. D., Bishop of Oxford,

The Greeks fifteen centuries before Christ buried their dead. Later they recognized the advantages of cremation. Only suicides, untesthed children and persons struck by lightning were buried. Now the custom to again resigner creams were buried. Now the custom is again gaining ground and such institutions as the Portland Orematorium with its wonderful gardens and beautiful buildings favor the practice. It is a more comforting disposition of the departed level ones.
