

LOAN'S SUCCESS LIES WITH FARMERS, SAYS A PORTLAND BANKER

People Must Be Made to Realize Their Assistance is Vital, Says Mr. Olmstead.

CROPS BRING WAR PRICES

Half of $125,000,000 on Deposit in Oregon Banks Belongs to Farming Communities.

"The farmer is the factor upon whom the Liberty loan depends, not alone in Oregon, but throughout the United States."

"This was the assertion made Saturday by Emory Olmstead, vice president and manager of the Northwest National bank, in speaking of the drive for the second bond issue now on."

"In round figures, there are $125,000,000 deposited in the banks of Oregon," said Mr. Olmstead. "Of this amount, something over $31,000,000 is in the Portland banks, and the rest is scattered through the country."

"This means that the Oregon banks have the greatest deposits in their history. The country banks, as a rule, are loaded with money."

"War makes farming prosperous. This money to a large extent belongs to the farmer. It came to them through the prosperity of the year which has brought and will be the result of the big prices paid for food commodities. Now they must contribute to the Liberty loan."

"Normally, I do not think interest is being directed to interest the farmers in the vital necessity of subscribing the loan. The farmers are away from the city, somewhat out of touch with events, and at least away from the intimate touch of the war."

"Newspaper appeal helps largely. Letters to the farmers, I do not think have great deal of effect. It seems to me that the best can be accomplished by speakers and workers who among the farmers realize the rural communities personally, and make them feel at first hand that their assistance is absolutely necessary."

"As a former country banker, I know that the fall is the most prosperous time of the year for the farmer. Any one familiar with the country knows that most of the loans have dates for just one period of the year, the fall. This is because the farmers are then able to meet their obligations."

"That time is here. The money is in the country and the loan subscriptions must come from there. The country was barely touched in the first loan campaign. The farmers didn't have the money then, or rather they were using it in the crop."

"But this time it is now and it is up to them to get their part."

PLAN PROPOSED FOR CENSORING OF MAIL SENT OUT TO EUROPE

tees will censor outgoing mail and radio and cable messages.

The new regulations not only provide for cutting down on the mail to the United States and Germany, but they also cut off trade with Germany's allies. Cut off trade with Germany's allies. Cut off trade with Germany's allies.

Officially create a censorship board, consisting of representatives of the secretaries of war and of the navy, postmaster general, war trade board and committee on public information to censor mail, cable, radio and other means of communication.

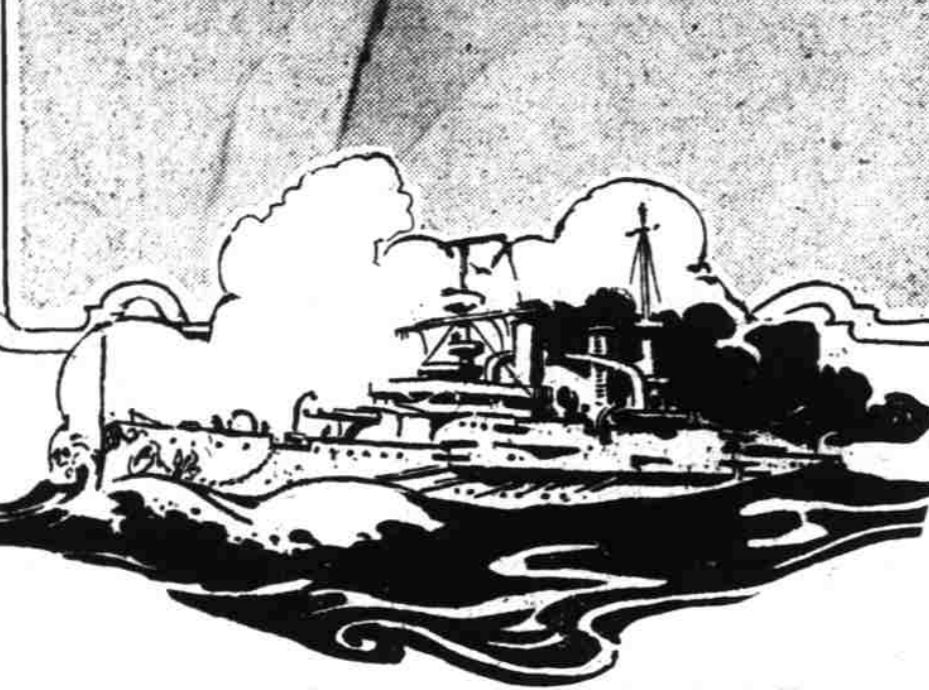

Empower the secretary of the treasury to investigate and supervise all foreign exchange and prevent its working advantage to the enemy.

Officers at the recruiting station were delighted to enlist Miss Nesbitt and hope that there will be more such enlistments. They say that there are many more places for members of the fairer sex. Miss Nesbitt is the fourth Portland girl to enlist so far.

citizen of the United States should promptly familiarize himself with these definitions for his own protection and for the loyal support of the government in its efforts to wage the war to a successful conclusion.

These are the definitions: Any person, of no matter what nationality, who resides within the territory of the German empire or the territory of any of its allies, or the territory occupied by any of their military forces is expressly made an enemy of the ally of the enemy.

Any person, no matter where residing or of what nationality, who is doing business with these territories is made an enemy of an ally of an enemy. This, of course, applies with special force to the border neutrals, and it is this definition that will give great force to the embargo.

It is pointed out in the president's order that in dealing with subjects of Germany who are residents of the United States it must be remembered that their nationality does not prevent ordinary commercial intercourse with them. The test of their "enmity" in this law is whether or not they are trading with the enemy for the benefit of their fatherland. It is pointed out that they may be interned under other provisions of law.

To enforce and administer all of these provisions, the president has created the war trade board. This board for good and sufficient reasons may license the trading prohibited generally by this law, but with absolute control of practically any phase of world trade in which Germany or her agents enter or may try to enter.

One of the far reaching effects of this power will be to enable the United States legally to cut off from neutral countries supplies for German corporations, and induce neutral trade to cease with Germany with German agents if the same trade expects to do business with the United States.

It is highly important that every citizen of the United States should promptly familiarize himself with these definitions for his own protection and for the loyal support of the government in its efforts to wage the war to a successful conclusion.
