Portland and Vicinity—Fair tonight and Sat-urdsy; light variable winds. Oregon and Washington—Fair tonight and Saturday; light variable winds.

Weather Conditions

The western high pressure area has spread over the southern portion of the country from Criffornia to the Mississippi river, attended by coider weather in the Mississippi valley, the West Gulf states and Arizons. The drop in temperature was especially pronounced in the Mississippi valley where many stations report a fall of 20 degrees within the last 24 hours and at St. Louis there was a fall of 21 degrees. The eastern storm now lies central over the Great Lakes, and was accompative over the Great Lakes, and was accompative over the Great Lakes, and was accompative over the Great Lakes, and was accompative. Due to the fall in pressure, temperatures have lisen in the Atlantic Coast States and in the Northwest from the Pacific ocean to the 165 meridian, and as far south as Sait Lake City. The temperatures this morning are above normal in the Northwest, and east of the Mississippi river; elsewhere they are below.

The high pressure condition over this region will be attended by fair weather in this vicinity tonight and Saturday.

Show me one of your Old School dentists, who belongs to the dental societies and trails along behind the ethical band-wagon, and I'll show you a man who is, nine times out of ton, a pathetic boob about money matters, knews nothing about buying his materials at fair prices, knows nothing about running his office so as to get the best out of the time and cash spent, knows nothing about estimating a dental job as any other ordinary human being would estimate a contract, knows nothing about system, knows nothing about enlarging his practice through recognised trade stimulators—in brief, is a pitiful weakling in a highly organized industrial era. The dental college elaborate courses on dental "ethics" as well as dental practice, but it doesn't include in the studies of the embryodent is anything about dental business methods. The reason is that dentistry being a "profession." must not be vulgarised by being made economical and one hundred per contefficient.

Professional dentistry and busi-

He's an anachronism—this little waif from the Middle ages, concealing his ignorance of how to take care of bimself by hiding behind the skirts of old Mother Tradition and Grandma Ethics.

No wonder the dental colleges encourage these graduates of theirs to hurry up and join the dental societies. It's their only salvation. These babes in the woods need some sort of asylum like the Dental Trust to shield them with laws and regulations, aimed against the public and aimed to protect them in an illegitimate graft. Otherwise, the wolf of ordinary business competition would gobble them up whole.
