News for publication in the Sunday society pages must be in The Journal office by Friday afternoon.

By Nona Lawler
TO THE exclusion of almost everything else women are giving their time to the Liberty Loan campaign, are ever enlarging their war work activities and are also carrying on the usual philanthropic endeavors of the city which in normal times seemed a great task in itself. The week just past has brought two well known and well established charities to the minds of the people, the Portland Fruit and Flower Mission's Day Nursery and the Portland Women's union opening of their new residence for women, the Martha Washington. There has been little time for social affairs and little interest in seeking pleasure.

Saturday seems to be the favored day for weddings this season. Miss Isabella Macleay is about the fifth prominent society girl to set that hitherto unpopular day for her wedding during the last 12 months. Mrs. Edward W. Clark (Hazel Dolph), Mrs. Cameron Squires (Claire Wilcox), are among the others who have been married on Saturdays. Miss Macleay's wedding to Lovell Winters will be an event of this week, October 27, and the ceremony will be read at St. Stephen's Pro-Cathedral before a large assemblage of guests. The happy bridegroom (Nan Fullerton) of Seattle will be the only attendant to the bride. R. Lea Barnes will give her in marriage, and following the ceremony a large reception will follow at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Lea Barnes, on Portland Heights.

The Martha Washington, the new home of the Women's Union, was opened for a public reception Saturday and Sunday afternoons. The event also commemorated the thirty-first anniversary of the opening of the old home on North Fifteenth street. Tea was served Saturday from 3 to 5 o'clock. The building is located at Tenth and Montgomery streets and is splendidly equipped. Mrs. J. B. Comstock, president of the organization, was assisted in the receiving line by the former presidents, including Mrs. Henry E. Jones, Mrs. P. J. Mann, Mrs. H. L. Pitcock, Mrs. C. R. Templeton, Mrs. Elliott H. Corbett and Mrs. A. A. Leckum. Presiding at the tea table during the afternoon were Mrs. Jacob Kamm, Mrs. Mary H. Squires, Mrs. Elizabeth Hamilton, Mrs. Helen Ladd Corbett, Mrs. Thomas L. Elliot, Mrs. H. W. Corbett and Mrs. Frederick Egger, all of whom have for years been identified with the activities of the union.

Mrs. A. J. Meier presided over the basket into which the voluntary silver offerings were dropped. Miss Ella Stephens had charge of the decorations. Mrs. Stanley Jewett received new members. Assistant hostesses for the two afternoons include Mrs. W. A. Macleay, Mrs. Max Hirsch, Mrs. Willis Dunway, Miss Elsa Grell, Mrs. F. Reinhardt, Mrs. Albert Smith, Mrs. J. W. Cook, Mrs. A. M. Ashley, Mrs. H. H. Northrup, Mrs. Thomas L. Corbett, Mrs. Charles Rumein, Mrs. L. A. Frank, Mrs. Robert Wilson, Mrs. A. C. Holmes and Mrs. Alice Benson Beach.

In honor of Mrs. Alamatu, wife of the Japanese consul at Portland, who recently arrived from her native land to join her husband in Portland, Mrs. William D. Wheelwright entertained Wednesday with an informal tea. The autumnal decorations were themes formed an effective decorative scheme in the dining room and on the tea table. Mrs. J. B. Montgomery and Mrs. Theodore H. Knox poured.

Mrs. Halph Hoyt and her daughter, Miss Kathryn Hoyt, were hosts at an informal tea Thursday afternoon in compliment to two San Francisco visitors at their home, Mrs. H. A. Miller and her daughter, Mrs. Lou King Miller. About 50 guests were assembled, and at the tea table Mrs. Walter F. Burrell, Mrs. Spencer Biddle, Miss Ella Hirsch and Miss W. O. O'Brien presided.

An event of interest here scheduled to take place in New York Saturday, October 20, was the marriage of Miss Pauline Parke and Stephen Kellogg Plume, captain of ordnance United States national army. Mrs. Parke and her daughter have been in New York for several weeks and Colonel Parke and his second daughter, Miss Genevieve Parke, left for the east over a week ago.

Friday Miss Isabella Macleay was an honored guest for an informal tea and knitting party given by Miss Susan Cheney, and Saturday she was again entertained at a similar affair at which the Misses Katherine and Charlotte Laidlaw presided.

The reception and inspection Tuesday of the new residence of the Portland Fruit and Flower Mission's Day Nursery at Tenth and Madison streets drew forth hosts of old time friends of the mission. The 60 children now enrolled have a splendid new home in the old Burrell residence with its large yard and commodious rooms. The hundreds of women who visited the nursery were shown about the building from the storehouse of jellies and jam in the basement, which have been solicited and contributed under the care of Mrs. Harry E. Coleman, to the top floor, where neat little white beds are ranged in rows for the afternoon naps. The house was a gala attire with great boughs of bright hued autumn leaves, and about the walls of the playrooms are cunning pictures of the sort that delight children. Tea was served in the back playroom from where the guests got a view into the nursery dining room with its diminutive tables and chairs. Bread and milk time arrived with tea time and about 5 o'clock all of the little folks romped in from play in the yard and took their places at the tables. The tiny babies were perched up in high chairs and they alone kept firmly fixed undisciplined eyes on the great bowls of bread cut in little squares and pitchers of milk during the blessing. The mothers of the children clasped their hands firmly and bowed their little heads most devoutly, reciting the blessing in unison.

The guests were received by Mrs. William H. Skene, president, Mrs. Edmund C. Giltner, Mrs. Everett Ams, and Miss Mabel Beck, the latter taking charge of the silver offerings. About the room Mrs. Lou King Miller, Pherson, Mrs. F. E. Grigaby, Miss Lou Sanders, Miss Gussie Marshall and a number of other prominent members assisted, and at the tea table Mrs.

MISS ISABELLA MACLEAY

KEY TO THE PICTURES

MISS ISABELLA MACLEAY will become the bride of Lovell Winters next Saturday at a pretty church wedding to be solemnized at St. Stephen's pro-cathedral.

Mrs. Justin Johnson, whose photograph posed with her little daughter Elizabeth Ann, is reproduced today, is a San Francisco matron who is passing the winter in Portland.

Miss Lura Tamiesie is passing the winter at Palo Alto where she is taking a special course at the Leland Stanford university. Miss Tamiesie is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. Philippe Tamiesie of Laurelhurst, is one of the most prominent girls of that district, having taken an active part in the Laurelhurst club community affairs.

Mrs. Joe H. Jordan Jr. was a bride of the past week, having been married last evening at the First Presbyterian church study. Mrs. Jordan was formerly Miss Edith Pettigrew.

hung with mural sketches by John Trullinger of Portland. "They are cool bits of poetic fancy, fairies and nymphs in fields of flowers and by green pools, vistas of wisteria and rhododendrons, or wide views over western prairies or wheat fields," says the Sunday Seattle Times.

Mr. Trullinger is a westerner by birth who has had years of training abroad. He returned to give his art to the west. The West gallery has an interesting group of murals by two Seattle artists, Y. Simonsen and S. Mack. These paintings are to be hung in Norway hall on Boren avenue and Virginia street, and are done in quaint style, after the old Norwegian tapestries. This exhibition will continue until the middle of the month. The first regular meeting of the society was held last Tuesday. Mrs. Jessie Honeyman of Portland gave a talk on "The Chapel of Silence, London."

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hofman Williams and their son, Harold Parish Williams, will be at home to a number of their friends this afternoon at a musicale at their residence in Halsey street at the corner of East Twenty-second. The program will be given by Harold Parish Williams, baritone, and Miss Marie Chapman, violinist, beginning at 4 o'clock.

Messages of congratulation are being showered on Mrs. and Mrs. Jay R. Coffey over the arrival Monday morning of a baby son. The little fellow has been named for his maternal grandfather, the late Thomas Richardson Coffey. He is also the grandson of Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Coffey.

Mrs. Arthur Drake of San Francisco, who is visiting Mrs. E. C. Cornell and Miss Ruth Drake at Alexandra Court, was the honoree at a luncheon Tuesday, given by Mrs. Frank W. Camp, 57 Elm street. The affair was small and informal, the guests including a few of the visitor's old-time friends.

At a pretty though very simple ceremony last evening at 8:30 o'clock, Miss Edith Pettigrew and Joe H. Jordan Jr. were married at the study of Rev. Dr. John H. Boyd, pastor of First Presbyterian church. Miss Della Daner and John E. Finerman attended the couple. Only the relatives and a few intimate friends were bidden to the ceremony and for the wedding supper which followed. The bride wore a chic tulle suit of blue cloth with black velvet hat and a corsage bouquet of orchids. Mr. and Mrs. Jordan will be at home to their friends at the Mercantile Y. Simonsen and S. Mack. These paintings are to be hung in Norway hall on Boren avenue and Virginia street, and are done in quaint style, after the old Norwegian tapestries. This exhibition will continue until the middle of the month. The first regular meeting of the society was held

For the relief work being carried on by Dr. Esther Fohl Loveloy in France through the Portland club women assembled at the new club house on Weidler street Wednesday afternoon for bridge and "500," the proceeds totaling some $50 for the cause.

Mrs. William S. Knox has been called to Detroit on account of the illness of her mother.

The Portland Hunt club members are planning to open the fall and winter season of paper chases Saturday afternoon, November 3, on which date the Mr. Harry M. Kerron, announces a closed paper chase will be held. In the evening following this chase, Fred A. Martin, chairman of the house committee, states that a harvest festival dance will be held at the club house. A large number are expected at both of these affairs and they doubtless will be even more popular than they were last year.

Invitations have been issued by the newly organized Thursday Subscription club for a formal dance to be given Thursday evening, October 25 at Murlark hall, corner Washington and Twenty-third streets. The club is being organized by the younger dancing set, who attended the formal dances given last season by Mr. and Mrs. George E. Love. The subscription list will be closed Thursday evening with 75 couples and a series of six dances will be given on the second and fourth Thursdays.

In honor of Dr. and Mrs. Christen Quevil of Tacoma, Philip Jacobs of New York, Mrs. Bethesda Beals Buchanan of Seattle, and Mrs. Sadie Orr Dunbar, all of whom are prominent among the delegates attending the Northwest tuberculosis conference in the rose ballroom of the hotel, Dr. and Mrs. E. A. Pierce were dinner hosts at the Multnomah hotel Monday evening.

Mrs. Dunbar, who is the local executive secretary, entertained several visitors at luncheon in the gold room Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Smith have been entertaining as their house guests at their residence in Mount Tabor, Mrs. Smith's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. H. Z. Osburn, of Los Angeles. Mr. Osburn is a congressman from California, and with his wife is now on a route home from Washington, D. C.

Numerous supper parties, both large and small, have accompanied opera week. On Monday evening several "Dutch" suppers were enjoyed at a Hotel Portland. On Tuesday evening, A. E. Adams of Oregon City entertained a company of 10 people after the opera with a joyful supper.

Mrs. David H. Smith has returned from a five weeks' visit in San Francisco.

Portland Heights club members gathered Friday evening for a military dance given in honor of Colonel Jones and the officers of the army post at Vancouver. It was for members only without the officers and their wives.

Saturday evening the young people in their teens were entertained by the social committee of the club for the month of October, including the following members: Mrs. John A. Keating, Mrs. James B. Kerr, Miss Louise Boyd, Miss Gladys Ross and Mrs. A. P. Matthews.

Mrs. Patrick Noud with her daughter, Miss Maud Noud, arrived Wednesday morning from Marquette, Mich., to make an extended visit with her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Noud, at their Irvington residence, 554 East Twenty-third street, near Stanton.

Simple and pretty in all its appointments, the wedding of Miss Mary O'Connell and Mr. James H. Boyd, of Oregon, took place Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Cellars in Weidler street, Irvington. Dr. John H. Boyd, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiated in the presence of a large gathering of the friends of the young couple. Before the ceremony a bank of yellow and white chrysanthemums massed in autumn foliage formed a pretty bower for the ceremony. The couple took their vows at 7 o'clock. Miss Lucille Murton playing the wedding march. Just before the bride appeared Miss Irene Strawbridge sang most effectively "At Dawning" (Cadmus). Harry Parsons playing a violin obligato. The bride made a charming picture wearing a becoming gown of electric blue velvet trimmed with beaver fur with small blue velvet toque to match, trimmed in silver. A corsage bouquet of orchids completed her toilet.

Miss Mignon Allen of Astoria, a sorority sister, was her only attendant and she was costumed in a black velvet gown trimmed with iridescent beads with which she wore a black velvet hat and a corsage bouquet of Cecil Bruner roses.

Lieutenant James H. Cellars, a brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Lieutenant Cellars is attached to the 388th Central Postal Directory.
