Corn Is a Luxury With Canners' Idea Of Price Higher

Corn promises to be a real luxury this season, if opening prices announced by eastern cannets are figured. Leading packers of the east are asking $1.75 per dozen there for standard corn. This means that canned corn in carload lots will cost jobbers here $1.95 per dozen for the new pack, and their profits must be added before the stock reaches the retailer. Normal price for corn charged by jobbers here is around $50@85c per dozen for standards.

Dealings in the marines were irregular, Marine preferred, after selling at 97½ points, rallied to 99, and then again sold below 98. Atlantic-Gulf sold down 2 points to 96.

Union Pacific was one of the most active of the rallroad issues, declining ½ to 116½, while Canadian Pacific fell 1¾ to 132½.

Money loaning at 4 per cent.

The board of governors of the New York stock exchange has started an investigation of the liquidation movement, which has kept the market upset for the last two days, it was learned on high authority this afternoon.

The chief aim of the inquiry, it is said, will be to find out whether or not the selling orders placed by a number of big houses represented on the floor were backed by a "concerted scheme" to raid the market.

A number of stocks developed pronounced strength in the afternoon. Marine preferred rose over 4 points to 101, while the common sold up 1½ to 28. There was a better tone to the steel issues, Steel common advancing over sold up 11/2 to 28. There was a better tone to the steel issues, Steel common advancing over points to 101 %. The railroad issues also made good gains.

Millstuff prices will be lowered in the Pacific Northwest after the first of the month. This much comes from leading milling interests who say that the situation is somewhat essis who say that the situation is somewhat ersier. Only the fact that very heavy sup-plies were sold for shipment during October kept the market where it has been. Millers here laugh at the report that a large per cent of the millstuff supply of the large per cent of the milistuff supply of the Pacific Northwest will be shipped east. They say that they cannot secure sufficient cars for the home trade let alone sending stocks thousands of miles away.

Demand for hay is very liberal at this time. Practically no alfalfa is now being offered by the interior and only nominal stocks are held here. The trade is taking the selected clover of the Willamette valuer instead of ed clover of the Willamette valley instead of
