GREATEST BACKFIELD IN COUNTRY CLAIMED BY SOUTHERN COLLEGE

The greatest backfield ever developed in the south and believed by many authorities to be the greatest backfield in America. Left to right, these gridiron giants are: Strupper, Harlan, Guyon and Hill. Photo shows them in their famous jump shift formation. Georgia Tech, at Atlanta, Ga., is out to gather the largest gridiron laurels this year and places its hopes in great measure in the work of these four boys. The team has already corraled high honors for their smashing, vigorous play.

Yellow wing man, intercepted two Cal- ed with the ball in their possession Referee George Varnell, that Coach Bezdek had worked up the best for-ward passing attack that any team had shown in the past few years. Four Interfere on Pass

Oregon's pass was a tantalizer, Steers got it off with quick precision and each time his aim found Medley in the air, flanked by four interferers with the ball safely tucked in his arms. Just when California thought that Steers was about to shoot the ball to ful passes netting 20 yards.

Twice when Steers saw no one to pass to and when California's second-ary defense was lying in wait for a pass, he raced around their ends for 20 yard gains. California had a shade the better of the first quarter and had Oregon on the defensive with their passes, line bucks, and wide end runs led by the speedy Shad Rowe. However, the closest the Bears ever got to Oregon's goal was within 30 yards. Oregon advanced the ball to California's 15-yard line by a series of line bucks and short passes, and after in-Maison, the scrapy 140 pound Lemon i tercepting their pass the quarter end-

Drop Rick Goes Wide

Steers tried a line smash, an end run and a short pass to Medley, which was completed, and yet had three yards to go on the fourth down. He stepped back for a drop kick but in his hurry to score what looked to be an easy three points, he kicked wide. California put the ball in play on its own 20-yard line and on the first play Hooper made two yards through center. Rowe made six yards around right end but was thrown for a two yard loss by Nelson on the next play. Big tow-headed Darrell Richardson California's giant right tackle and punter, stepped back to punt the oval out of danger. He little dreamed that Medley they were mystified to see Left 10 seconds later Bill Steers, after End Dow Wilson skoot directly across catching his punt would run around the line and grab a short pass. Steers the entire California team for a 60yard return and a touchdown. It happened so quickly that it took the breath out of California and caused every fan, save those few on the Bruins' bench to raise en masse and cause bedlam to break loose. He added the extra point and Oregon was on its way to victory.

Oregon Line Braces Up Nothing could stop Bezdek's men from then on. The line braced, the backs showed new drive and California was nervous, and disorganized. From then on it was all foh the varcouldn't stop the aerial heaves of After an exchange of offensives, with neither team able to gain, Oregon got the ball on the blue and gold's 40-yard yard pass and Medley journeyed the remaining distance to the goal line af-ter butting off two California tacklers. Rowe tackled Medley at the far corner of the field, but the ball was over Steers failed to gain in two downs, and Old Reliable Dot Medley plunged through for the third and last score. Steers easily goaled, and California was a defeated, broken-spirited eleven.

Rows, at right half, was the only player who showed to any advantage in their entire lineup. Wells, who came heralded from the Berkeley gridiron as a terrific line charger, was useless in that department today. Wings Discourage Buns

When California failed at line plunges they attempted wide end runs, but the sterling work of Wilson of The Dailes and Maison of Portland rebuffed them. Every Oregon man did himself jus-tice; they were all stars, but Steers, Medley and Maison will always be remembered as the triumvirate that made possible Oregon's great victory over California.
