

CONGRESS READY TO GO "ALL WAY" TO WIN BIG WAR

Administration Heads to Get All Money Asked, and Any Other Form of Aid Wanted to Make America Win.

FORCES ABROAD TO BE AT MAXIMUM IN 1919

Solons Are Willing to Go the Limit for Uncle Sam in Great Battle.

Washington, Nov. 26.—(WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE JOURNAL)—Congress is going resolutely forward with authorizations for money and men for the prosecution of the war, in what ever degree the executive departments may indicate is necessary.

Few members of either senate or house have so far arrived for the regular session, which opens the first week in December, but those who are here, and those quoted elsewhere, show unmistakably what will be done. Secretary McAdoo may be correct in estimating that not over $10,000,000 will be provided to finish out the fiscal year, but if these estimates are forced upward by later circumstances, there will be no hesitation in voting whatever sum is needed.

Expenditures to Bear Fruit

The fruit of these big expenditures, and of other billions to be raised and expended in the fiscal year which begins next June, is expected to be realized in 1919. During the year 1918 the American force abroad will be large enough to be a substantial element in proof that the allied nations cannot lose, but the full force of American arms to demonstrate that the allies can win will be ready in 1919.

Strengthened by Russian Collapse

This has been the opinion of military men all along. It has been strengthened by the Russian collapse, which was not unexpected, and by the Italian reverse, which was not anticipated. The essential situation is not changed from the standpoint of those who believe that the ultimate battle will be fought on the western front, without regard to what happens in Russia, and without regard to the depth of the Teutonic occupation of Italy.

Intercourse with the allied commanders and military experts has become free and intimate. Congressmen who have been abroad are in position to give valuable information to their colleagues, and all of it tends to the same effect. This is to the effect that American strength must be continuously exerted, and that congress must supply with unstinted hand the support that is needed.

Selective Draft to Stay

There is no indication that congress will be asked to change the selective draft law in its general features. There has been some agitation for reduction of the age limit from 21 to 19 or 20, but this is without official endorsement. From the draft law as it stands men are being assembled as fast as they can be readily trained, armed and transported. The call is not for more men. Congress will be asked, and will be willing, to adopt measures to hasten the construction of ships and of aircraft. These are regarded as the most vital parts of the war program where speed may be applied for.

SUNDAY SERMON TOPICS

Rev. A. Ross Kitts, director of young people's work for Baptist churches of the Pacific coast, spoke at the First Baptist church Sunday morning, his subject being "Thanksgiving in War Time." He took occasion to score the I. W. W. and others who annoy and harass the government. Rev. Mr. Kitts will occupy the church pulpit for the remainder of the year.

The new edifice of the Glencoe Baptist church was dedicated Sunday afternoon with Rev. W. B. Hinson as the principal speaker. Rev. A. B. Waitz, pastor, presided at the services and pastors of several other churches occupied seats on the platform. The dedication marks the tenth anniversary of the founding of the church.

Dean E. H. McCullister of St. Stephens Pro-Cathedral, Sunday morning urged the people to stand the brighter side, the divine light of faith and hope and to work for the establishment of good on earth. He advised moral standards as one of the means of getting the nation at peace with God. "God has delivered the world to its own devices because it has rebelled against him," declared Dean McCullister, who decried the tendency of some people to tell and read stories with an immortal trend. "To men who think," he said, "one of the most disastrous aspects is that the large percentage of readers of stories of this character are women. No wonder so many of the boys and girls seem to have lost all sense of modesty."

Rev. Robert H. Milligan, new pastor of the Rose City Park Presbyterian church, preached to capacity congregations Sunday morning and night. He is to be tendered an informal reception Tuesday night. He was formerly pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Tacoma, Washington. Here he succeeded Rev. J. H. Skinner, now pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Stockton, California.

Members of the Mount Taber Presbyterian church, East Fifty-fifth and Belmont streets, Sunday closed their week's celebration over the 25th anniversary of the church. Meetings were held every night in the week, except Saturday. Rev. Mr. Mac Henry, pastor, summarized the influence of the week in the Sunday morning sermon, "Forgetting the Things Which Are Behind and Looking Forward", and the evening sermon, "With Grateful Hearts".

Laurelhurst Club to Dance Wednesday

The Laurelhurst club is expecting a large attendance at its annual ball at the Hotel Multnomah next Wednesday evening. The Japanese tea room, the two ballrooms, the lobby and the Arcadian Gardens have been taken over for the evening and five "jazz" orchestras will provide the music. Fred A. Burgard will be chairman of the floor committee.

Only the Pine street entrance will be open and those who have failed to secure tickets may get them at the door.

New York, Nov. 26.—(U. P.)—Makó sure that your Thanksgiving turkey wasn't a tobacco chewer. H. Q. Foy, market expert, in issuing advanced instructions today on how to pick out a turkey, warned that turkeys from Virginia or North Carolina usually chew tobacco during their wild young days. That makes 'em bitter.

FALING WILL CONTEST EXPECTED TO KEEP UP TWO MONTHS LONGER

Estate Worth $600,000 Is Left by Woman Who Killed Husband Who Deserted Her.

TWICE ON TRIAL FOR LIFE

Lawyer Who Obtained Her Acquittal Is Beneficiary in Will; Long List of Witnesses Yet to Testify in Suit.

The now famous Faling will contest, being tried in County Judge Taswell's court, has closed its second week. It is expected to take two months longer, so attorneys say. The petitioners for probate are not half through and the contestants haven't begun.

W. Tyler Smith of Sheridan, Or., is seeking to break the will of Mrs. Zarifa Jane Faling on the ground that she was insane, subjected to undue influence and duress and was legally incompetent to make a will. He is represented by Attorneys Coy Burnett and E. E. Heckbert.

Mrs. Faling died July 5, 1917. Her will was made August 28, 1916. She bequeathed the bulk of her estate, valued at $600,000—some say it is worth a million—to Thomas N. Strong, for a long time her attorney, and to C. Lewis Mead, a friend.

The defense, known in classic legal lore as the "proponents," represented by Attorneys John F. Logan, James G. Wilson and C. Henri Labbe, have so far put ten witnesses on the stand. They have been unanimous in declaring that Mrs. Faling was perfectly sane, sharp, shrewd and keen of intellect, eminently capable of attending to her business affairs and perfectly competent to dispose of her property by will.

Score Yet to Give Testimony

The contestants on the other hand have swarms of witnesses whom they claim will go on the stand and declare the very reverse.

The first witnesses for the proponents were Dr. Charles E. Moreland and Lydia Metzger who were witnesses to the will. Then came Mrs. B. B. (Chattin) Fuller, a professional nurse, who attended Mrs. Faling for two years prior to the making of the will and up to the time of her death. Her testimony agreed with that of the two witnesses preceding.

It was upon Mrs. Fuller that Attorney Burnett turned the full force of his merciless questioning. But she never flinched.

Mrs. Faling was born in Wales and when quite young was taken by her parents to Peru where she lived until 10 years old.

She was the daughter of Charles and Mary E. Barrett. Her father took her to San Francisco in 1850, leaving the mother behind because of domestic differences. Mrs. Barrett went to San Francisco later when Barrett left for Portland to one. He acquired a number of valuable pieces of property, among them being the corner of Fifth and Washington streets. This he put in his daughter Zarifa's name.

Divorce proceedings followed, begun by Mrs. Barrett in San Francisco, whereby Mrs. Barrett got a decree and a judgment for a large sum of money.

Twice tried for murder between Morrison and Alder, in the early seventies.

At one time she made her home at Fourth and Taylor and lived for a long time at Fourth and Taylor.

The last years of her life she lived at the Sargent hotel, on Grand and Hawthorne avenues, later she made her home at the Multnomah hotel, where she stayed until it closed temporarily, when she moved to the Imperial hotel, where she died July 5, 1917.

Other Witnesses Called
Carey L. Howe, secretary of the Mitchell, Lewis & Steves company, was on the stand in the Faling will contest this morning appearing on behalf of the proponents. He lived at the Sargent hotel from March, 1910, to September, 1911, and from October, 1912, to August, 1914.

During these two periods he saw Mrs. Faling frequently and said in his opinion she was entirely capable of managing her business affairs and competent to make a will. Under cross examination he denied that he had ever said to anyone that Mrs. Faling was insane.

Mrs. Sarah A. Stevens, 76 years of age, an old acquaintance of Mrs. Faling, was called to the stand, but because of her feebleness the hearing was held in Judge Taswell's chambers. She testified as to some business and social relations with Mrs. Faling, giving it as her opinion that Mrs. Faling was entirely sane.

Mrs. Stevens told of a visit to Mrs. Faling the day the latter's husband left for San Francisco with another woman and took a large sum of his wife's money. Mrs. Faling was preparing to go in pursuit and Mrs. Stevens said she urged her against the step. Mrs. Stevens testified that in all her dealings with Mrs. Faling she found her normal mentally.

Formerly Conducted Book Store
Notwithstanding her troubles with Cornelius, she provided for him in her will, leaving him $10,000, provided he was alive.

Mrs. Faling conducted a book store between 1850, and 1880 on Front and Morrison streets. She moved her store to another location on First street, be-

Buying machine-made clothes when you can buy hand-tailored clothes for the same money is about as sensible as buying yesterday morning's paper this morning, or hanging up a 1917 almanac on January 1st next, or kissing your wife's picture when your wife is present!

Why spend your money or your affections on replicas, when it costs you no more to get the real thing?

ELLIOT CO. IS SUING FOREST GROVE FOR CONTRACT PAYMENTS

Sewer System Installed but No Payments Have Been Made—Added Sum Asked for Damages

The $100,000 suit of the Elliott Construction company against the city of Forest Grove began this morning before Circuit Judge Morrow and is expected to take a month.

The construction company installed a sewer system in Forest Grove and is now seeking payment. Its contract with Forest Grove called for $50,000 which the city has refused to pay, and also asks for damages which brings the total amount of its demands to approximately $100,000.

The city contends that the work was not done in accordance with specifications. The construction company, on the other hand, claims that it was hindered in many ways by the engineers and inspectors of the city.

Rocco Nelson and Malcolm Clark are appearing for the plaintiff and ex-Senator C. W. Fulton and J. Bowman for the defendant.

The case was set for trial in October.
