

NORTHWEST WILL NOT SEE SO MANY FOOTBALL GAMES

Members of Coast Conference Will Hardly Have Time to Play With Smaller Conference.

TRY TO CONCILIATE PAIR

Directors at San Francisco Tried to Get Washington and Oregon Together for Game.

In view of the great inroads that will be made on the student bodies of universities and colleges during the next year, Pacific Coast intercollegiate conference managers did not arrange heavy schedules for the 1918 football season. This information was given out by Fred J. Bohler, athletic director of Washington State college, who passed through Portland Thursday to Pullman, Wash., from San Francisco.

"Because of the fact that the schedule will be smaller than ever before Washington State college will not play the Oregon Aggies next fall and the University of Oregon will not meet the University of Washington," said Bohler.

"California wanted to play W. S. C. next season, but in view of the fact that Pullman has to play Idaho, Whitman and Montana it was impossible for us to arrange a game with the Bears. All sorts of schemes were tried to arrange for Oregon to play Washington on November 16 so that W. S. C. could play California, but they failed."

"The Northwest intercollegiate conference managers will meet in Spokane, December 14 and 15, and the balance of the schedule will be arranged."

"There is little likelihood of the freshmen ruling in the Northwest conference being killed. There is a rule in the conference which permits institutions which have a made student body of 200 or under to play freshmen on the varsity teams. Both Montana and Whitman played freshmen athletes and the University of Idaho will probably come under this ruling next year."

"There will be no basketball games between California and Northwestern institutions. I am of the opinion that Northwest conference teams will arrange a schedule of games. W. S. C. is figuring on playing games with Washington, Oregon, Oregon Aggies and Multnomah."

"Washington State will close at least seven or eight members of its championship football team and it may be possible that others will enlist before the next draft."

Rajah Caught With Deck in His Hands

Toledo, O., Dec. 7.—(U. P.)—A card game in the ticket office at Swaine field, Roger Bresnahan's baseball lot, broke up in a fight early yesterday morning, according to the scant information in the hands of the police.

Bresnahan, former Giant and Cardinal, with W. E. Moore and the other men, were in the game. Moore was taken home by the police after he had jumped from the second floor window to the street below. He was badly cut about the head and his hips were injured in the leap.

Moore told the police he was threatened by one of the other players during a quarrel.

Charlie White Won't Take Orders in Camp

Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill., Dec. 7.—(U. P.)—A clash of authority or refusal to obey his superior officer is the cause of Charlie White's shift from Camp Grant to Camp Custer. It is said that when White took up boxing work, he was under the impression that his commission was boxing director, whereas it is only boxing instructor. He refused to take orders from Lewis Omer, athletic director at the camp, and the stricture grew when Charlie declared Danny Goodman, a soldier in the national army and a boxing instructor appointed by the army chiefs, his assistant. It is said White and Omer had several open clashes.

CUBS AND GIANTS ARE AFTER WILD PIRATE PITCHER

Incragible Al Mammaux May Be Moved to New Territory

New York, Dec. 7.—(U. P.)—Through several club owners and managers will attend the coming meeting of the National league here next week, prepared to offer attractive prices for players, the impression prevails today that there will be few trades or sales. A majority of club owners do not feel sure of their players because of the coming army draft, and will hold onto the talent they have under contract at present rather than take a chance of being caught short-handed in the spring.

There has been talk of big deals since the close of the season, and President Charles Weeghman of the Chicago Cubs has announced that he is in the market for the best available talent to rebuild his team. Weeghman will attend the meeting. It is said, with certified checks calling for $200,000 and willing to spend big money for talent. Rumor says he will attempt to persuade Barney Dreyfus of the Pirates to part with Pitcher Al Mammaux, who was suspended last season for refusing to obey orders and has since announced that he will not play another game with the Pittsburgh club. The Giants are also said to be angling for Mammaux.

Christy Mathewson, who announced recently that he hopes to land two pitchers, a catcher, an infielder and a right-hand hitting outfielder, will also be on hand prepared to dicker for players. But the club owners who want talent will have little to offer in the way of trades involving players who are exempt from the draft, and for this reason few deals are expected.

Alex Trambitas Too Young to Box in S. F.

Chief of Police White of San Francisco raised the limits of boxers to 18 years the other day in a letter to the promoters of the Bay city, and that eliminates a chance for the California fans to see Alex Trambitas of Portland in action unless the bout is staged at Colma. Trambitas is 17 years old and therefore ineligible under White's ruling.
