Deaconess Work Discussed by Speakers

Auxiliary to Mt. Tabor M. E. Church Holds an Interesting Session.

By Velta Winner
THE Deaconess auxiliary for the Mount Tabor M. E. church met at the home of E. S. Brubaker, Wednesday, December 5. Mrs. A. F. Polifka, the president, presided. After devotional services and the business session, short talks were made on the deaconess work by Amy Cardiff, nurse deaconess; Della Milligan, mission worker; and Nellie Curtis, superintendent of the home. Miss Cardiff reported 250 hours spent in nursing and eight families helped. Miss Milligan reported over 100 in the Sunday school, and an evening service started with an attendance of 75 or over for each of the three nights it has been held. An appeal was made for help on the Christmas work at the mission, which was responded to with much kindness. Miss Curtis reported 500 calls made for the month of November, over 400 garments given out, and 107 people helped in a material way. A bountiful lunch was served by the ladies of the auxiliary, and much enjoyed by all present, including Rev. E. O. Eldridge, pastor of the church, Rev. Bevin and Mr. Brubaker.

MISS MARIA LAURENCE WETHERILL, New York society girl, wearing new war uniform designed for women in war service on the French front. The costume resembles the uniform of the British officer.

Hood River Ball Adds $268 to Red Cross

More Than 400 Take Part in Brilliant Function in Apple City.

A UNIQUE and largely attended social was held in Hood River, Thursday night, by the Red Cross chapter at the promenade ball, the two entire top stories of which were utilized for the party. More than 400 from all parts of the valley were present for the ball, and the Red Cross realized a net sum of $268 from the proceeds. The ball room on the top story and the numerous suites of office rooms of the second story had been handsomely decorated by the Boy Scouts, who had industriously gathered greens and native shrubs from the surrounding hillsides to be hauled in by the big motor truck of the Billy Sunday ranch. The office rooms were equipped as cabarets and card rooms. The members of the Girls Honor Guard served.

7000 Women Aid Red Cross in Italy

Seven Hundred of These Women Are Scattered Among the Hospitals on Firing Line.

Italia Annita Garibaldi, grand-daughter of the Italian hero, Garibaldi, writes: "It is well that the men and women of the Italian colonies in America should know that 7000 of their sisters, today, the white uniforms of the Red Cross and 700 are scattered among the little advance hospitals, behind the firing line." The death of Mile. Catherine Theodor, sub-lieutenant, was announced not long ago in Romania during an attack. She enlisted as a volunteer at the entrance of Romania into war with Austria, and had taken part in all the battles of the campaign. She was twice wounded and given her promotion for the extraordinary bravery with which she conducted herself. She was on the point of being made a lieutenant because her courage had so rivaled her men in the battles on the Otita.

Among those women farm workers who have received prizes from the agricultural department of Italy is Laolina Benedini, a widow, whose five sons are under arms. She was left with three grandsons and 10 nephews and nieces ranging from one to 13 years of age. Her husband had no relatives, but has cultivated a farm of 10 acres and has raised 15 head of cattle without any outside aid. The Society of Public Medicine in Paris is considering means whereby offal and butchers' waste can be utilized as food, and especially how to use the waste meat left in the butcher's shops for the inhabitants of the army zone. They propose installing factories for canning and preserving at the abattoirs. They will also use the bones for manure, of which there is a scarcity. They are considering whether means can be devised to render whole-school children and patriotic women withdrawn from the food supply by veterinary surgeons. And we housewives are still, in America, not all pledged to the needless day a week!

The Meter and Frank Sewing club had a well attended meeting in the Dutch room Tuesday evening. A very interesting and instructive talk was given on lace texture. Their meeting next Tuesday will be called at 8 p. m.

Household Hints

A man whose opinions are respected and valued on listening to several hours of fruitless discussion that it was "nothing but conversation." He meant that the participants arrived nowhere. There was no meat nor sincerity in the argument to make it worth while spending the time on it. As women, are we given to this more than we should be? Do we make conversation oftentimes, when it is not necessary? Do we recognize when a business interview is ended? Do we take up other folks' valuable time with our personal affairs which are not our personal business of interest to anyone but ourselves?

War Time Cookery

CHEAP CUTS OF MEAT MADE PALATABLE
Pot Roast—For those who are seeking economy dishes: With a pot roast have nice brown juicy ones and a nice brown gravy to go with it, and this is the way of cooking one. The cheaper pieces of beef will answer. Place it in a flat-bottomed kettle and cook slowly until it is browned on all sides; then add a pint or more of water, keep closely covered and cook until the meat is very tender. If the water boils off, add but little at a time, so that only enough liquor is left for the gravy. Remove the fat if more than desired, and thicken the remainder. Season to taste and serve with meat. A poor piece of meat cooked as above may be made very palatable.

War Time Cookery

Beef's Heart—A beef's heart makes a nice roast and furnishes more meat for the money than any other part of the animal. It can be stuffed with any good dressing for a roast. The heart should be boiled an hour and then stuffed and roasted for two hours. It makes a nice cold dish.
Vogel's Vanities—A black velvet hat may be trimmed with gold-colored satin ribbon.
The latest form of the chemise frock is belted closely at the waist.
Beaukin is a good trimming for brocade velvets.
Suit coats are apt to fall full about the hips.
Tunic effects are noticed on almost every frock.

Women Spurn Work; No Excuse for Hubby

Portland department stores are having trouble securing the required amount of assistants for the Christmas rush. Heretofore they have been able to depend for their holiday help upon former employees, who have married and left their positions. However, the girls are afraid if they accept even a temporary position the claims for their respective husbands' exemption would be disregarded by the local boards. Merchants are scouring the city for enough help to handle the rush that comes the week before Christmas.
