"I SUFFERED SEVEN YEARS"

Was Eventually Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I suffered for seven long years with a lame back, irregularities and pain. I had one physician after another but they did me no good. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and gave it a trial and in a short time I felt benefited and am now feeling fine, and without weakness or pain. My friends have also taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and been helped by it."—Mrs. Margaret Nease, 1846 E. Hazard St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Women who suffer from displacements, irregularities, inflammation, ulceration, backache, aches, headaches or "the blues" should not rest until they have given this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial. If complications exist, write Lydia E. Pinkham, Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. for special suggestions. The result of its long experience is at your service.

New Touch Put Fair Prosecutor In Work by Women

THE quite different touch which women are assuming men's labor give to their work is repeatedly shown by the accounts gathered about women in industry, which indicate not only the tremendous sweeping change in woman's positions throughout the world, but show unexpected developments of their newly assumed tasks. In the most conservative countries a war regime has knocked many old customs in the head. Necessity seems to be feminizing many fields. The sympathy women bring to their new work is apparently humanizing the occupations.

From the London News one hears of a unique venture for women. Messrs. Macnamara, who employ about 40 women drivers, have now put their horse hospital entirely in charge of women. Mrs. Pary, the superintendent, says they have 30 to 40 patients a day. She and three assistants do all cleaning, grooming, feeding and administering of medicines prescribed by the veterinary surgeon. The animals, she says, are grateful and companionable, and she has no doubt that women will work to keep on with this work after the war. They do not "baby" the horses, as some think, but "somewhat we reform the worst cases of temper, and the women can do anything they like with even fractious, nervous and suffering horses. The effect on the nerves of the horses and consequently on their value, is noticeable."

True Southern Hospitality Is Dispensed

By Vella Winner TRUE southern hospitality was dispensed Saturday at the home of Mrs. F. Joplin in Irvington, when the Daughters of Confederacy celebrated the birthday anniversary of General Robert E. Lee by entertaining their Confederate veterans and a number of friends with a sumptuous luncheon, including all the good things which southern women know so well how to prepare. It was a buffet luncheon and the coffee urns were presided over by Mrs. F. C. Morton, president of the Daughters, and Mrs. U. D. Maxon. Mrs. Anton Gleibisch was chairman of the committee in charge and she was assisted by Mrs. E. J. Claridge, Mrs. Charles A. Norvell, Mrs. J. D. Williams, Mrs. Lou Wagner and Mrs. Colonel L. C. Martin. The county W. C. T. U. Institute which met in the First United Methodist church Thursday was the largest in attendance, and the most enthusiastic of the year. The address by Mrs. I. M. A stereopticon lecture on Slam by Clarence A. Steele will be given at the Richmond school next Wednesday evening. Mr. Steele has been for a number of years in Slam, and will be dressed in the costume of the time. Children in the lecture will be used to purchase a service flag for the school. Richmond is proud of the 25 stars she has placed on the "Red Cross" flag. This the ladies of First church agreed to do. It is intended to have a local committee of similar kind in each denomination and thus supply the "Red Cross" with the amount of suitable material for sale for the Red Cross work.

The ladies of First church are to do this in addition to doing the immense amount of work which they are doing each Tuesday in the parlors of the church in making garments and blankets for the Red Cross, directed by Mrs. Dan Thomas, and accredited directors of Red Cross, 4800 for the benefit of the boys at the front.

Mrs. Wood appealed to the ladies of the First Methodist church to act as the committee of the "Red Cross shop" for the purpose of denouncing on rough-cut the state and some canned goods aid society in each church throughout the state for contribution of suitable articles that might be sold through the "Red Cross shop." This the ladies of First church agreed to do. It is intended to have a local committee of similar kind in each denomination and thus supply the "Red Cross" with the amount of suitable material for sale for the Red Cross work.

All the garments contributed are thoroughly fumigated by the city under the health ordinance without expense to the Red Cross shop.

WAR TIME COOKERY

Somebody is trying to snipe the canned goods of the American housewife. Now when the German snipers get busy on the western front, the boys are sent out to snipe the snipers. The women might try their hands at sniping these snipers of home-canned fruits and vegetables. Reports have been steadily circulated that the government will take over all home-canned goods in excess of family needs or levy a special tax on it. The department of agriculture and the food administration have repeatedly denied the story. Newspapers and farm journals have contradicted it, and still it keeps bobbing up. The latest form of this sniping of food supplies is the report that home-canned fruits and vegetables are causing food shortages. None of these stories have any basis in fact. The reports may be put out to cover the work of thieves who are trying to frighten the women into giving up their supplies, or they may have their origin in German propaganda, or both causes may help to circulate the story. Surely no sensible woman will be frightened by the reports of snipers. Thieves, nor will she doubt her ability to tell when a can of fruit is "working." The best answer the women can make to this propaganda is to refill the jars and thus snipe the sniper. Many things are available for canning in small quantities—pumpkins, squash, carrots, and the like. These snipers are in the far south, many summer vegetables. The food situation grows more serious. If the home pantry is filled, start a...

Why they put both of the stuffed snake skins in poor Peter Rabbit's little bed. whispered, "There comes Peter Rabbit, sure as I'm alive!" And Teddy Possum looked down the little path, and sure enough, there trudged Peter Rabbit, after his night of hard hunting. Peter was whistling to keep his courage up, as he ran through the black woods. For the moon had set and now it was very dark. And Jimmy Coon stuffed both his hands in his mouth to keep from laughing, as he thought of the big joke on Peter Rabbit, and Teddy Possum had to hold his nose to keep from snorting out loud. And Jimmy Coon and Teddy Possum watched with beating hearts as poor little Peter Rabbit opened his front door and softly tip-toed his way through the dark hall to his bedroom.

Blonde Women More Often Divorced

Records in New York Show That Married Brunettes Get Along Best.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(I. N. S.)—The "Little Black Book," which records the matrimonial failures for New York state in 1917 carries the names of two blondes for every brunette. The blondes seem unable to survive the trials of matrimony with the same degree of success attained by dark-eyed women. There was a greater number of men sued for divorce than women, but in this case the plaintiffs were brunettes, according to the court statistician.
