WILLARD'S RIVALS AT OPPOSITE ENDS OF U. S. WILL CONTEST MONDAY

Jack Dempsey Will Take on Bruising Bill Brennan and Fred Fulton Will Try to Handle Frank Moran in Effort to Get at Champion's Rich Title.

By Luther A. Huston

CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—(I. N. S.)—At opposite ends of the United States, Monday night, contenders for Jess Willard's coveted title will launch drives that probably will narrow the logical aspirants for the world's heavyweight championship down to two.

One bout will see Fred Fulton, who has ranked as the leading contender for several months, in action against Frank Moran, whom Willard once defeated at New Orleans. The other will see Jack Dempsey, the flash from Utah, opposed to Bill Brennan, the Chicago knock-out, at Milwaukee.

Dempsey just now is coming along faster than any other heavyweight in the works and as a result his performance against Brennan will be watched with keenest interest. The bout with Brennan will give him his biggest test.

Bowling Three Easterners Over Bobbing up out of the West a few weeks ago with not much of a record back of him, Dempsey has bowled over three heavyweights of some ability. He stopped Homer Smith by a knock-out in less than a round, got a decision by a wide margin over Carl Morris and put the ancient Jim Flynn a notch nearer oblivion by a two minute knock-out.

Brennan is a tough, rugged brawler with one of the deadliest wallops of any of the heavyweights. If Dempsey can defeat him he will be a big jump nearer the title.

Fulton Expected to Win Fred Fulton, who shows erratic tendencies at times, is expected to win from Moran at New Orleans. Fulton, at his best, is figured a better man than the honore Pittsburgh Irishman who is thought to have gone back since he was beaten by Willard. Moran, however, has been keeping in shape by instructing soldier boxers at a southern cantonment and is confident he will beat

Groundkeeper Is On the Job—Let The Battle Begin

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 22.—(I. N. S.)—John Schwab, one of the groundkeepers for the Cincinnati Reds, has arrived here to begin preparing the training grounds for the spring work of the Reds. The Cincinnati team will come here March 12.

Practice games will be played with a soldier team from the Ohio division at Camp Sheridan. The Cleveland Naps also will come to Camp Sheridan for practice games.

the Minnesota plasterer. Dempsey and Fulton are about matched for a bout at Milwaukee early in May and if both win Monday night the match probably will be arranged. Willard has said he was willing to meet the winner of a Dempsey-Fulton scrap and several clubs are angling for the bout.

With the big bout with Willard and a chance at the title as the prize, spectators at the New Orleans and Milwaukee scraps should see some brisk battling.

BOXER ORDERED TO WAR CANCELS THREE BATTLES

Charles Holmgren, Alias Monk Fowler, Will Report to San Pedro.

Denver, Feb. 22.—(I. N. S.)—Charles John Holmgren, known to fight fans of the country as Monk Fowler, was notified today to report for duty in the naval reserves in which he enlisted last fall.

Fowler formerly lived in New Orleans but for the past year has made Denver his headquarters and has won much popularity by his masterful performances in several bouts here.

Three matches that Fowler was to participate in within the next month have been cancelled and the lightweight will leave at once for San Pedro, Cal., where he will join Uncle Sam's forces.

Last Sox Holdout Signs Chicago, Feb. 22.—(I. N. S.)—The only holdout in the camp of the Chicago White Sox came into line yesterday, when the signed contract of Dave Danforth, the left-handed relief pitcher, reached Comiskey park.

Basketball Teams Ready for Battles

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Feb. 22.—Aggie rooters, strong in support of their basketball teams, have chartered a special train and will invade Eugene late this afternoon, several hundred strong, to support the Aggie varsity and freshman squads when they meet the University of Oregon representatives on the Eugene floor in double-header contests tomorrow and Saturday nights. The big game of the evening promises to be between the yearling quintets. With the varsity squad still up to form, little trouble is expected in taking the Oregon aggregation into camp again. The freshman game, however, promise to be neck-and-neck affairs. On a strange floor and with no support, the Lemon-green yearlings missed defeating the local rooks by a slim margin.

Ernie Koob Not With Browns St. Louis, Feb. 22.—(I. N. S.)—Ernest Koob, pitcher of the Browns, notified the officers here yesterday that he has been accepted to the aviation service and will not be with the team next season.

Heine Wagner Dropped Boston, Feb. 22.—(I. N. S.)—Heine Wagner, veteran Red Sox shortstop, will be dropped from the team this year, according to an announcement made by Harry Frazee.

BOWLING

CINCINNATI, Feb. 22.—(U. P.)—The American Bowling congress tourney got down to business today. Besides having the annual convention of the congress booked for this afternoon all-day bowling made its appearance on the program. From now on the alleys will be in use practically every morning, afternoon and night with no time for rest until the tourney is finished.

Cleveland and Milwaukee teams will make up the first shift of tonight's five-man teams, while the second belongs to Chicago.

St. Louis broke into the limelight again last night when the Wooster Lambert team of that city rolled into first place with 2855 and the Alpen Braus of East St. Louis grabbed third place with 2794.

The tip again is out today that Bob Brown of Louisville will be promoted from vice president to president of the congress at today's meeting.

Connie Keeps It Secret Philadelphia, Feb. 22.—(I. N. S.)—Connie Mack announced today that he would tell the make-up of the Athletics team on March 1. In answer to inquiries regarding the team he stated that so many things of importance relating to his outfit were still pending that it would be advisable to make a comparative comment before that time.

Terry McGovern Passes On Boxer Dies in Charity Ward

"Terrible Terry" McGovern

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—(I. N. S.)—"Terrible Terry" McGovern, ex-featherweight champion of the world, died here today in the King's County hospital at the age of 39.

Two days ago he applied at the hospital for medical aid, saying he was penniless, and death came to him in the charity ward as a result of pneumonia and complications. His wife was notified of his serious condition. She reached his bedside just before he took his last count.

The passing of McGovern marks finis to the career of one of the greatest, if not the greatest, of all featherweight champions. In the heyday of his career McGovern was a tiger in the roped arena. He was a veritable demon of the ring, for he had the fighting heart, the speed and the durability that was characteristic of all the great champions of bygone days.

As featherweight champion of the world, McGovern earned thousands of dollars. He was one of the most popular fighters who ever wore a pugilistic crown and he had often been ranked as the greatest of the great quartet of former featherweight champions of which he was a member. That quartet, with McGovern, consisted of George Dixon, the great negro; Frank Erne and Young Corbett.

Threw His Wealth Away That he should dip in the charity ward of a hospital, broken and penniless, seems a sad twist of fate, but like many other great fighters, McGovern threw his wealth away.

McGovern was born in Johnstown, Pa., in 1879. Had he lived until March 9, he would have been 39 years old. He was of Irish-American parentage and his given name was Joseph Terrance.

At the age of 17 he started his boxing career around his home city of Johnstown and rose rapidly as a featherweight.

In four short years he had risen to the top of the class, for it was in June of 1900 that he knocked out George Dixon in eight rounds, in this city, and won the world's featherweight title.

As featherweight champion of the world McGovern earned a fortune in a few short months. He did not confine himself to his own class, for he stepped out to meet men who had an advantage over him in weight and his terrific punches stopped every man who faced him in 1900. McGovern was champion, in less than 10 rounds.

In 1901 McGovern lost his coveted title to Young Corbett of Denver, who knocked him out in two rounds at Hartford, Conn. McGovern at that time was growing out of the featherweight class. Corbett had already outgrown it. Later both stepped out of the featherweight circle to enter the lightweight division. Though Corbett fought with success as a lightweight for a time, McGovern was unable to fight his way to the top.

He continued in the ring for four years after losing his title and was active during 1903, when he attempted to win back the featherweight crown, only to take the count at the hands of Young Corbett a second time, being knocked out in 11 rounds at San Francisco.

McGovern had made Brooklyn his home for some time. The family's main source of revenue was an allowance set aside by Sam Harris, though McGovern's son, Joseph, who is 19 years old, has contributed to his father's support.

Ray Rice Has Not Enlisted Chicago, Feb. 22.—(I. N. S.)—Officials of the Great Lakes naval training station have denied any knowledge of the reported enlistment in the navy of Sam Rice, hard-hitting outfielder of the Washington American League club. Rice has visited the station several times, they said, but has not enlisted.

Paul Smith Is Drafted Decatur, Ill., Feb. 22.—(I. N. S.)—Paul Smith, a former Cub recruit who was sold last week by Montreal to the Boston Americans, has been accepted for army service by the draft board for Mason county. It was learned here.

BILLY MADDEN, NOTED SPORTING MAN, IS NO MORE

Promoter of Boxing Sport Passes Before Surgeons Can Operate.

White Plains, N. Y., Feb. 22.—(I. N. S.)—Billy Madden for almost half a century known to sporting men in this country, died here last night in a hospital, he won what was their known as the lightweight championship of the world. He fought under the old London prize ring rules, with bare knuckles.

Madden came down here from his health farm at Calro, N. Y., several days ago to seek physicians' advice regarding his trouble.

Madden was born in London 65 years ago and came to New York while a boy. He was intensely interested in athletics, especially boxing. In 1871, at New Orleans he won what was their known as the lightweight championship of the world. He fought under the old London prize ring rules, with bare knuckles.

Madden trained John L. Sullivan when the latter won the championship from Paddy Ryan. Later he left Sullivan and went to London, conducted a boxing gymnasium with Charlie Mitchell and brought the latter back to this country to meet Sullivan. His last public affair was managing Gus Ruhlin.

For the last seven years Madden has been conducting a health farm at Calro, N. Y., where he has his interest in sporting events to the last.
