YANNIGANS WALLOP THE REGULARS IN A RED HOT CONTEST AT PENDLETON

Hitting of Bourq, Portland Youngster, Is Feature of Game; Six Double Plays Figure in Battle; Manager Fisher Out of Game With Strained Back; Another Game for Today.

By R. A. Cronin

PENDLETON, OR., April 20.—Right up on their hind legs went the Yannigans this afternoon, and they made a noise like a Round-Up steer, which is some noise if you have ever happened to hear one. And, too, Manager Bill Fisher was in the grandstand petting a sprained back, which he got trying to teach a bush pitcher how to hide the ball in the process of winding up. Further contributing to the cause of the Yannigans was the fact that good money was paid to see the game, which sent it into nine innings, this being tantamount to saying that it was the first real chance the goofs had of winning before Fisher's team gathered up the ball and bat and went home.

Boss Bill's back is not bad and he will be in the game again in a few days, although Boyden suggested that he rest while the muscles are healing again.

As usual, it was a hotly contested game, and a reference to the box score will show six double plays in proof of the assertion that few better battles will be seen in the course of a season.

Bourq Gets Homer "Iron Man" Clow was back in the pitcher's box and will be in there again tomorrow. He has pitched about 40 innings already this week, but appears to have as much speed as before.

Reggie Tie Score The regulars tied it up in their half of the inning when Dempsey singled to center, went up on Lee's walk after Sullivan whiffed, took third on Hollocher's error in an attempt to pick him off second and scored just ahead of Lee when Cox singled to center.

Mitchell got his from the rampaging Yannigans in the fifth. Teck doubled to right and scored on Peterson's single to right. Then Pembroke cracked out a double which sent Peterson scurrying home and led the contest.

Cox propelled the third run across the plate for the regulars in the seventh inning when he doubled to left and counted on Feuerborn's single to center. Bourq's four-base walkoff to right off Mitchell in the eighth was the result of some prodigious sprinting.

Cox Passes for Army The local army examination board had a caller today in the person of Elmer Joseph ("Dick") Cox, who was credited with passing a perfect physical examination. Cox had not been notified previously by the Tombsone board to take his examination, and he does not know how he stands in the matter of selection.

Infielders Altermatt and Haney are expected to arrive in camp tomorrow, and then Fisher will try to get some teamwork in preparation for the opening of the season, April 30. He figures Altermatt and Haney, the latter having two years' experience in the Arizona Copper league, will make up the regular infield. None of the other infielders, with the exception of Cox, has a job in sight. Ritter has been doing a little better, but it hardly ripe for Class B baseball. He shows promise, however, of developing into a good boy.

Fishers Working Hard The two clubs will continue their battle tomorrow. Cliff Lee figures that Fisher's method of sending the pitchers into work curves and spitballs has given him the best batting practice he ever had in any camp. In view of the fact that most of the pitchers are youngsters trying to make good, they have been putting everything they possess on the ball. No Coast league camp has ever been livelier or seen more hustle on the start of the players than this camp.

PORTLAND RING FANS ANXIOUS TO WITNESS FARRELL-KING BATTLE

Australian Middleweight Is Said to Use Same Style of Fighting as Did the Late Les Darcy; Good Card Is Lined Up for Wednesday Night's Smoker; Big Crowd Expected.

PORTLAND fistic followers will get some idea of the Les Darcy style of boxing next Wednesday night when Mick King, the sensational Australian middleweight boxer, meets Marty Farrell of New York in a six round contest. King, it is said, boxes the same as the late Australian champion.

The Australian mitt wielder has won seven bouts since coming to the Northwest, having beaten every opponent dug up for him, except Frank Farmer, the Tacoma heavyweight. In his first meeting with Farmer, King held the Tacoma man, who outweighs him by a number of pounds, to a draw, but he lost the decision in the second bout, which was staged in Tacoma recently.

Listed among King's victims are Al Sommers, Valley Trambitas, Chet McIntyre, Steve Reynolds, Jim Barry and Jack Clifford, the local heavyweight. King beat McIntyre twice.

There is a great deal of interest in the King-Farrell go. The New York boy is a great favorite in Portland and the fans are sure to get a treat when these two boys shake hands. According to reports, King did not have to exert himself in order to win from Jack Clifford Friday night, which means that he will be in tip top shape for his contest with Farrell.

Farrell in Shape Farrell has been losing no time in getting in shape for the contest. He has been boxing daily ever since the match was made two weeks ago. He expresses himself as being confident that he will put a dent in King's career.

The contest between Les Johnson, the Oakland colored lightweight, and Stanley Willis, who has boxed two draws with Peter Mitchell, is expected to be a hair raise. Johnson has been boxing right along and if he awards a decision over Langford last year, Willis will have his hands full. Willis has made a great hit with the fans as the result of his willingness to mix it with Mitchell.

Langford to Box Neff The special event between Young Sam Langford and Chet Neff of Seattle will be another good bout. Neff was awarded a decision over Langford a short time ago in Seattle, while a majority of the Seattle fans were of the opinion that Langford would have had a draw.

Other two bouts on the card are Ted Hoke vs. Bob Bush and Elmer Brown vs. Clarence White. Judging from the early advance sale, one of the biggest crowds of the season is expected to be on hand to see the contests.

With the coming of Jack Dillon practically assured, Bobby Evans, who arranged for the Giant Killer's trip to the Northwest, every middleweight and light heavyweight boxer in the Northwest is anxious to secure the first battle with Dillon.

Muff Bronson, the local lightweight, will meet Mike Pete in a 10-round contest at Aberdeen, Wash., May 6. The Grays Harbor fans think Pete is a champion and are going to back him to the limit.

Joe Flanagan had an opportunity to match Bronson with Pete some time ago, but he turned the bout down and sent Jack Allen to Aberdeen.

Al Sommers, the local middleweight, has returned from a visit to his folks in the Middle West and is ready to tackle any middleweight in this section of the country. Joe Tacoma Beats Jim Scott Camp Lewis, Wash., April 20.—(I. N. S.)—Jim Scott, former White Sox twirler, and Red Oldham, ex-Seals pitcher, could not stop the Tacoma Tigers today, when Scott's officers' training camp nine met the Bengals in an exhibition game in Tacoma. The Tigers got to the big twirlers for healthy swats and scored six runs. The soldiers had a goose egg. McMoran, Los Angeles Tiger recruit, threw nice ball for Tacoma.
