He has been in the hospital for several days nursing injuries received April 20, when he collided with the milk truck of Andrew Luckas at Marguerite avenue and East Harrison street. Officer Klingensmith, who witnessed the accident, has charged Sheldon with reckless driving even though he was injured. The officers said she thought her former husband was sending her the gifts in an effort to win back her affection.

It is charged that he knocked down Marion Bellamy, April 6, at East Thirty-second and Belmont streets, and that he failed to stop and offer aid to the injured man or to offer his name or automobile license number. As Deardorf is out of the city, the police had to wait until he returned again with his automobile truck before they arrested him.

At Falls City Friday night a preliminary organization was made and 35 men enlisted.

BUSINESS HOUSES OF CITY URGED TO AID IN BIG WAR GARDEN DRIVE

Hoover Requests That Industrial Plants Help Employees to Obtain Garden Plots.

Industrial plants, business houses and other large employing concerns have been asked to cooperate in the war garden drive in Portland, as they have in other cities, by none other than Herbert Hoover, federal food administrator. A letter received by W. B. Ayer, federal food administrator for Oregon, from headquarters at Washington, urges the participation and aid of all such concerns in the war garden work. The Patriotic Conservation league, sponsor of the local drive, has taken up the project at Mr. Ayer's request.

"In our recent letter," runs the communication from the food administration, "we emphasized the necessity of stimulating production this year through the number of home gardens, and suggested organization as the basis for securing maximum results."

"In this connection we wish to call to your attention that industrial and commercial concerns are in a position to give peculiar assistance in this work. Their compact organizations furnish units for community gardening which should be utilized to the best advantage."

"It is the patriotic duty of all such concerns in 1918 to make even greater efforts than many of them did in 1917, in encouraging and aiding their employees to plant home gardens. When possible they should offer land free of charge, arrange for community plowing and designate a committee whose function would be to give the employees an opportunity easily to secure tools, seeds, fertilizer and other essentials for gardens."

"Information should be prepared for the use of the employees as to simple and practical methods of planting. Where the number of employees is sufficiently large it would be advisable to employ a professional gardener to supervise the work. It also might be well to encourage the employees by offering prizes for the best gardens produced."

arrest he had loitered about the plant and collected about 200 pounds in his wagon.

Eastern Railways Badly Congested

W. D. Brink Returns From Two Weeks' Trip to Eastern Points and Tells of Traffic Conditions Beyond Alleghenies

W. D. Brink, correspondence clerk in the general freight office of the Southern Pacific company, has returned from a two weeks' trip to New York, Philadelphia and Washington. "Oregon's reputation for patriotism stands 100 per cent in the East," said Mr. Brink. "The people of the eastern states have meager knowledge of conditions in the Coast states and have that we're decidedly apathetic concerning the war. They are much given to 'hurry' stuff in the East, but they are very slow in kicking through with bond subscriptions."

Railroads on the eastern seaboard are badly congested, according to Mr. Brink. He found it necessary to apply for reservation in a chair car a day in advance for a trip from Philadelphia to Washington. Heavy movements of troops and war supplies take priority over all other business.

CITY BOYS WILL GET TRAINING IN WORK ON FARMS NEAR THE CITY

Recruits for Working Reserve Who Come From Town Are to Be Instructed.

The boys reared within the city, where a cow is a curiosity and a pig is so often of the human variety, the ordinary toils of the farm are mysteries, whose solution is one of the problems before the sponsors of the United States Boys' Working Reserve army recruited in Oregon.

Overcoming the lack of knowledge under which city boys would otherwise labor in bridging the gap between desire and performance P. L. Newmeyer, who has conducted the Oregon recruiting campaign for a working reserve, has announced a juvenile training school to be conducted in and near Portland within the next few weeks.

The hundreds of lads who have been recruited in rural districts throughout the state will not need the special training to be provided, but the untrained leader will begin soon to be taken to nearby farms where experienced farmers will instruct them in the intricacies of milking and of feeding and such other common farm tasks that the boys of the reserve will be required to undertake.

Mr. Newmeyer has already received calls for more than 250 boys from many parts of the state where work will be waiting for them during the spring and summer months. Returns from the recruiting campaign are not in as yet, and the leaders are still enlisting willing young men. County school superintendents especially are being given as much time as possible for recruiting work.

Boys, Mr. Newmeyer reports, who will do much collectively to relieve the season's labor shortage.

CURIOUS SITUATION REPUBLICAN VOTERS REQUIRED TO SOLVE

Alignment of Leaders in G. O. P.
Factions Perplexing to the Voters.

The rank and file of the former Progressive party are having a hard time telling whether Ralph E. Williams has been converted to the cause, or whether Bruce Dennis has backslid into the ranks of the enemy. Consequently the contest between the two for election as Republican national committeeman is something of a puzzle to the fellows out in the woods who can see the wheels go round, but can't see what makes them go.

The candidacy of Williams has been endorsed by Dr. Henry Waldo Coe, T. B. Neuhausen and others of the old wheelhorses of the Progressive movement in this state, who are actively urging his election.

Jay Bowerman and the remaining fragments of the real "old guard," who fought down to the last ditch but have never really made up their minds that they were licked, are solidly back of Dennis in his campaign against Williams.

A few years ago if any one had said that Dr. Coe and Ralph Williams would jog along hand in hand politically he would have been examined for two or three mind, while at the same time Bruce Dennis was the most vociferous Bull Moose east of the Cascades, or west of them.

Seemingly Mr. Bowerman has made up his mind that Mr. Williams must retire from his job as national committeeman, and has picked Mr. Dennis as his successor. The reason dates back to the days of the lamented assembly of 1910, when Bowerman ran for governor and met defeat. At that time Williams was national committeeman, as he now is, and he prophesied that if Bowerman jammed his nomination through that ill-fated body, as he did, he would be defeated in November. The prophecy came true, since what happened Mr. Bowerman has been biding his time to get in a good wallop at the prophet. Consequently Mr. Bowerman has become, to all practical intents and purposes, the campaign sponsor for the Dennis candidacy and is bringing the reserves of the old guard back from the past to his assistance, which makes a puzzling picture on the political canvass, with Bowerman and Dennis arm in arm on the one side, and Williams, Coe and Neuhausen marching shoulder to shoulder on the other.

Extending Salvage of Timber
Dallas, Or., April 27.—Work of saving the vast timber resources of the Siletz basin, burned over several years ago, which has commenced with the opening of the Valley & Siletz railway the first of the year, is being extended rapidly. This week two more logging camps are being opened up in the burned area in Polk county by the Spaulding Logging company. The logs from these camps will be brought out over the new railway.

ADVICE IS TO GUARD
FLOUR AND MEAL WITH CARE IN HOT WEATHER

Assistant Food Administrator
Newell Offers Instructions to Oregon Housewives.

Approaching hot weather has brought from W. K. Newell, Assistant to State Food Administrator W. B. Ayer, outlined instructions to housewives against the mistakes through which large amounts of foods are lost during the warm-weather season. Especially those flours and meals which contain large percentages of fats and moisture should be carefully guarded, Mr. Newell says.

To prevent such losses through spoilage, particularly at this time, when breadstuffs are so essential, the following instructions for the storage of these flours and meals are given:

1. Buy in small quantities.
2. See that flours and meals are in good condition when purchased.
3. Keep in cool, dry place. (a) Use tins or covered jars for containers. (b) It is well to use two covered containers alternately, always putting fresh purchases in a clean container and never mixing the residue from the previous purchase with the fresh purchase.
4. Sterilize before putting away by placing in shallow pans or clean cotton containers in an oven and heating slowly, being careful not to burn or even brown. The flour or meal must be in thin layers and stirred frequently, so that every part may be equally heated. After cooling, place in clean covered containers.
