AMERICANS INFLECT BIG LOSSES ON HUN FORCE

mediately organized and they were driven out. The retreating Germans were taking an American prisoner with them when several of his comrades leaped from their trenches, caught up with the Boches, killed the entire party guarding the prisoner and brought him back.

The second assault before Montaigne was as violent as the first, but the enemy was unable to penetrate the American lines. The counter-attack then carried the Americans into the Hun line, which they held for more than an hour.

Enemy Losses Are Heavy
Near Cantigny the Germans got such a hot reception that they did not attempt to repeat the assault. Observers reported heavy enemy losses, artillery, machine-gun and rifle fire cutting the advancing Boches down, leaving a great number of dead in No Man's Land.

The three attacks netted the Americans five German prisoners. American positions were considerably mauled by the enemy artillery and the troops are working hard to reconstruct them, in preparation for a resumption of the German assaults.

The fighting was extremely bitter. Opposing forces clashed, hand to hand, in the midst of mud and sandbags and caved in parapets. The Germans were loaded down with hand grenades, but the Americans rushed to close quarters and forced the enemy to retreat.

Rescued By Comrades From Bagot
One company, counter attacking before Cantigny, penetrated the German lines clear into the ruins of the village, where they remained until called back.

This dispatch is being written in a dugout in the rear of the front lines and reports of the details of the fighting are coming in—but slowly.

It was learned that three privates, B. Rowden of Kentucky, Joseph Lawrence of Allentown, Pa., and A. D. Nolin of Providence were among several who were buried for three or four hours when their dugout was struck by a high explosive shell. Their comrades dug them out under shellfire. When they were finally excavated they popped out, smiling. They were taken to the first aid station, from which they soon departed—with the United Press' cigarette supply.

During the early straining, prior to the attacks, rear areas were severely shelled. The field hospital, described in a recent dispatch, where only the most severe cases are taken, was endangered by shells.

German Trenches Smashed
They broke within 300 yards of the buildings, but the women nurses continued ministering to the patients as though nothing unusual was going on.

American artillery leveled great stretches of the German trenches this morning, in retaliation for the attacks. Heavy cannoning on both sides was still in progress as this dispatch was filed.

Hospital Attacked at Night
By Bert Ford
With the American Army in Picardy, May 27 (Delayed).—(I. N. S.)—Germany's picked storming troops were outmatched at every point by the Americans holding front line positions here early today in a battle that lasted from 6 to 9 o'clock.

According to military experts, the Germans' purpose in attacking the American lines was to feel out the strength of the French and American forces. As a result of their curiosity they got a severe trouncing. The bombardment that preceded the raid was one of the heaviest American troops have ever felt. It is estimated that 10,000 shells dropped within the American lines.

Five hundred picked shock troops attacked in the center and were supported on one side by a force of 120 and on the other by a force of 160.

Previous to the raid the German batteries had hurled so many gas and explosive shells around two American field hospitals in the Picardy battle zone that it was believed to be a deliberate attempt on the part of the Teutons to wreck them. Both hospitals are filled with wounded and the bombs bitterly incensed the American troops.

So critical did the situation become that the officials were on the verge of evacuating one of the hospitals, despite the seriousness of the case.

In addition to the bombardment of the hospital zones, the German aviators nightly continue to drop bombs all around the hospitals and the rear line villages where wounded are being moved. Red Cross nurses, Smith college girls and American ambulance drivers are working every night in the area that is bombed by the German airmen.

our front line. Shortly afterward our troops counter attacked, expelled the Germans at all points, and occupied parts of the German trenches. Heavy losses were inflicted on the enemy, and some prisoners were taken. Our casualties are light. In one case an American was taken prisoner but was rescued by the counter attack and all of his captors were killed.

Five Spirit Is Shown
"Our troops displayed a fine offensive spirit at all times and have achieved a notable success."

"During the early hours of the morning in the Picardy battle zone, supported by violent artillery fire attempted a raid upon our lines. This force, which was composed of three officers and about 100 men, well equipped with light machine guns, blew up our wires and attempted to capture portions of our trenches. They were completely repulsed by our infantry and our artillery, leaving one officer and four men dead in our trenches and one wounded prisoner in our hands."

"Fifteen or 20 dead were observed near our front line, and 10 or 15 were seen being carried from this point. Here also our losses appear to be relatively light."

"Yesterday in Lorraine the enemy was unusually active in bombarding our trenches with gas and in patrolling. On one occasion a patrolling party approached our lines with cries of 'kamefed.' Our troops replied with rifle fire. One of the hostile detachments was killed and his body secured."

Hun Trick Works No More
It was pointed out by war department officials here this afternoon that past experiences have taught American soldiers that they can place no faith in the German cry of "kamefed." In the beginning, several American lives were sacrificed because they believed in the honesty of the Hun.

"It is an old trick," said one high army officer. "They worked it on the allies for years—or as long as they could get away with it. We know of scores of instances where German soldiers were selected to advance in an attitude of surrender, with the familiar cry upon their lips, only to be camouflaged armed men who opened fire on the unsuspecting Americans. In this way they have managed to secure many prisoners before it became evident that they could not be trusted."

GOVERNOR REQUESTS PEOPLE TO OBSERVE MEMORIAL DAY PLEA
Prayer for Victory for American Arms Asked of the Residents of Oregon.

Salem, May 23.—Governor Withycombe has issued an appeal to all citizens of the state to heed President Wilson's request that the entire nation join in prayer on Memorial day for the victory of American arms. The governor says:

"Because of the unprecedented significance of Memorial day this year and in view of the imperative necessity of promoting a deeper consciousness of the intimate relationship between patriotism and religion, I respectfully remind all Oregonians of the eloquent appeal recently issued by President Wilson, that the entire nation join in reverent prayer on this Memorial day for the victory of American arms which will bring a peace founded upon mercy, justice and good will."

"With all earnestness at my command I appeal to the citizens of this state to support our president in carrying out his inspiring suggestion. Surely the people of Oregon, who have so generously contributed of their means and endured heavy sacrifices in support of the great cause of humanity will gladly and enthusiastically join with the rest of the nation in offering spiritual encouragement to our Liberty boys in France at the same time they gather to do honor to that noble, patriotic band of heroes who guaranteed to all posterity a united country."

"In this time of grave responsibility and crisis, let all good citizens gather at their churches and other meeting-places designated for memorial services in the various communities, thus insuring unanimity for the prayerful expression and appeal suggested by President Wilson."

Mrs. Taylor's Estate $1,172,500
Chicago, May 23.—(I. N. S.)—The will of the late Mrs. Rose F. Her husband and four children are the beneficiaries. A maid, Minnie McGahan, gets an annuity of $500.

Alkali In Soap Bad for the Hair
"Soap should be used very carefully. If you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it."

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulified coconut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulified coconut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. (Adv.)

W. S. S. CAMPAIGN FOR PLEDGE DAY IS ON TOMORROW

State Workers Will Be in Attendance at All-Day Convention at Elks' Hall.

McADOO MAKES AN APPEAL

Essential That American People Save and Make Money Available to Government's Use.

It is expected that between 250 and 300 state War Savings Stamp workers will be in attendance at the all day convention to be held at the Elks' temple, Portland, tomorrow.

The purpose of the convention will be to launch the month's campaign, to culminate on Pledge day, June 28, when it is expected to put Oregon over the top for its entire War Savings Stamp quota of $17,000,000.

In connection with the campaign which is to be national in scope, Secretary McAdoo has issued the following statement:

People Must Economize
"It is essential that the American people economize and save in order to make available to their government the money indispensably needed for the war and to release supplies and labor required for the production of things necessary for our military forces and for the military forces of the nations associated with us. One of the best methods of bringing about this result is for everyone to pledge himself to economize and save and to purchase, at definite periods, a specific amount of War Savings Stamps, thus giving concrete evidence of his support of the practice of war savings."

"To achieve this object, there will be conducted under the direction of the treasury department, a campaign for pledges, culminating on June 28, when loyal Americans throughout the country will be asked to commit themselves to this program."

"The progress of the war demands constant and increasing sacrifices. We are sending our young manhood to represent us on foreign battlefields, where they are called upon to sacrifice not only their personal comfort and material interests, but their lives as well. It is appropriate, therefore, for the American people who are privileged to remain in safety and comfort at home to consider their sacred obligation to support our gallant men and to pledge themselves earnestly to save and economize in order that our soldiers and sailors may have the food and clothing and the arms and ammunition without which they cannot fight."

Economize Is Asked
"To the end that this intensive campaign may be most effective, I earnestly beseech the cooperation of all the organizations and institutions of the nation which, through their influence and active support, can further this work. It is desirable that the attention of the entire people be centered on their obligation to pledge the government this kind of support for the winning of the war, and with this object in view, and this June 28, 1918, be observed as a National War Savings day."

"With adequate preparations for a National War Savings day on June 28, I am sure that the American people will be glad to participate and to pledge themselves to become war savers, there."

by giving concrete evidence of their devotion to their country's welfare and of their inflexible purpose to fight until a triumphant victory for liberty is secured."

WEALTH MUST PAY BIG SHARE OF TAX

President Joins Ranks of Wealth Conscriptivists and Opposition to "40-60" Policy Is Seen.

Washington, May 23.—(U. P.)—Wealth conscriptivists in congress today welcomed President Wilson to their ranks. The president's suggestion that the government would "naturally" look to war profits, incomes and luxuries to furnish the new taxes was hailed as evidence of the president's conversion to their way of thinking.

At the same time opposition developed in the president's own party to the "40-60" financial policy he has laid down. Representative Kitchin, house Democratic leader and chairman of the house ways and means committee which will frame the bill is balking at this today. Kitchin wants a larger proportion raised by taxation.

"There should be no attempt to fix an exact ratio," said Kitchin. "But a larger percentage than 40 should come from taxes. We must get these huge profits while they are here to be had."

President Favors "40-60"
President Wilson has twice expressed himself to congressional leaders as strongly favoring this exact proportion, once in a memorandum to the senate finance committee, and again in response to an inquiry from Senator Simmons as to whether he would accept some other ratio. It was his insistence on this exact proportion which caused some of the senators to break away last Saturday and upon what seemed certain to be an amicable agreement to postpone the bill until a special session in November.

Republicans said they could not bind themselves to this or any other definite plan, because they couldn't tell what war profits are going to be in 1918. Neither would agree to pass the bill by the end of January, which the president also insisted.

Indications are that the "40-60" ratio will be one of the big points of controversy.

Wealth Must Bear Brunt
But upon the principle that war profits, incomes and luxuries must bear the brunt, congress seemed practically unanimous today. The only difference is the degree to which these things are taxed.

Senator Johnson, California, leader in last session's wealth conscription fight, said: "The modes suggested for a new revenue bill are singularly gratifying to those of us who constituted a woeful minority last year in endeavoring to make war profits bear their due burden of the expenses of war."

"When in the last session, we attempted in vain to raise the utmost possible sums from those profiting by war, we were met by angry epithets, the least of which were 'anarchist' and 'pro-German.' Apparently these loud-est then in denunciation of this method of taxation we proposed are now cheerfully and enthusiastically demanding that method. What a pity one year's excessive war profits were permitted to escape without bearing their just burdens."

Representative Kitchin said today hearings will begin within 10 days. He expects to report the bill to the house in August.

Holds Magazines Responsible
Washington, May 23.—(U. P.)—Majority Leader Kitchin today declared to the house that a lobby of magazine and newspaper publishers is responsible for keeping congress in session to pass a tax bill at this session.

"I want to warn the public and country of their game," said Kitchin. "They want the increase in second class postage, which we wrote into the last tax bill, repealed, and this is their way of going about it."

Every attempt that has been made to send black mint plants, from which menthol oil and crystals are derived, from Japan to the United States, has ended in failure.

BANK RESOURCES INCREASING FAST

Supt. Bennett Reports Increase of $15,495,947 in Year and $8,605,061 Since March.

Salem, Or., May 23.—Resources of 24 banks and trust companies in the city of Portland have increased $15,495,947 in the past year, and have increased $8,605,061 since March 4, 1918, according to statement issued today by Will H. Bennett, superintendent of banks, showing May 10.

Principal item of increase in resources is United States bonds on hand. Portland banks now have United States bonds in the sum of $7,149,141, while they have United States bonds in the sum of $3,260,658 to secure deposits.

Big increase is shown in deposits subject to check, both in last two months and in last year. Deposits subject to check now total $53,977,332, which is an increase of $17,505,727 in the last year, and of $9,450,569 in the last two months.

In the last two months there has been a decrease in time certificate deposits and in savings deposits, indicating that money has been invested in Liberty bonds. As compared with a year ago, however, savings deposits have increased $4,541,609.
