Portland Man to Wed

Miss Harriet Smith of Tacoma is planning a very pretty home ceremony on the occasion of her marriage to Lieutenant Frank S. Buckley of Portland and the Tacoma army camp Saturday evening at the Smith family residence, 717 North I street. Invitations have been limited to relatives and close family friends and only the little intimate circle of school and college associates with whom the bride grew up in Tacoma and at the University of Washington. The wedding will of course have a military touch of wartime and a flag will hold the place of honor among the bridal blossoms that will make the rooms beautiful as a setting for the dainty bride. Miss Ruth Buckley of Portland, the bridegroom's only sister, will be maid of honor and Ernest Vosper, a student officer at the training camp will fill the friendly offices of best man for the groom. Before the wedding Mrs. Norton Younglove will sing and Miss Nora Smith, the bride's aunt, will play the wedding march. After the ceremony Miss Camilla Pessemier will sing a group of bridal songs. A group of the bride's girl friends and college sorority sisters will assist with the bridal collation. Lieutenant Buckley will have a leave of absence from duty and will take his bride on a brief honeymoon trip. Owing to the very short time intervening between the announcement of the engagement and the wedding and the rush of bridal preparations but very few social affairs honoring Miss Smith have been possible. Tuesday Miss Smith and Miss Buckley, who is her guest, were entertained at luncheon by Lieutenant Buckley to meet a group of his brother officers at camp. Tuesday evening they were guests at an informal dinner at W. B. Blackwell's home. Miss Florence Lister is planning a handsome luncheon June 8 at her home on North I street in honor of the bride after her return from her wedding trip.

Wedding at Klamath Falls

One of the largest weddings celebrated in Klamath Falls for some time was solemnized Sunday afternoon when Miss Rosa A. Hibbert, daughter of John Hibbert, pioneer rancher of Swan Lake country of that city, was united in marriage to Theodore A. Ward at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Mary Stars, on Applegate street.

The ceremony, which was performed by Justice of the Peace E. W. Gowen here, was held on the front lawn at 3 p. m. More than 60 friends of the young couple were in attendance. Frank and Alice Hibbert, brother and sister of the bride, stood up with the pair, and orchestra music added charm to the occasion. Following the ceremony refreshments were served. The young couple expect to reside in Klamath Falls.

Red Cross Will Enroll Nurses In Schools

Appeal Made for Young Women to Take Up Training for Hospital Work.

INDICATING just how urgent is the need for nurses for the army and navy, as reflected by the Red Cross campaign in progress to enlist 25,000 nurses for the Red Cross, comes the formal notification that the American Red Cross has decided to "let down the bars."

Oregon's quota is 107 nurses enrolled by June 10 and 303 by January 1.

Miss Jane A. Delano, director bureau of nursing, American National Red Cross, sent the following telegram to the Portland chapter:

"After consultation with the surgeon general, the national committee has decided to enroll nurses graduated before January, 1918, from registered schools, even though nurses are not themselves registered in Oregon."

Associated with the campaign goes forth the urgent appeal from the American Red Cross that high school graduates and college graduates take up the study of nursing in the hospital training schools as a patriotic duty and that the gaps may be filled later.

It is pointed out that nursing is a skilled profession, and that with the basic knowledge given by even a short time in a training school, nurses may be trained in special camps or institutions similar to officers' training schools. Faced with the shortage, the army has already established an army school of nursing, with Annie W. Goodrich, dean, which will train nurses in connection with military hospitals.

Enrollments of nurses for the Red Cross should be made to Miss Elizabeth Stevens, Red Cross, 204 Corbett building, either by letter or in person. Those eligible now are graduates of any recognized training school in the country.

Enrollment does not interfere with regular pursuits. It implies a readiness to go when called upon by the army, whether the call be in this country or abroad, and positions may be held until the call comes.

All departments of the workroom, however, will be closed and no activity of any kind carried out on the eighth floor Red Cross headquarters of the Lipman-Wolfe & Co. building.

Just How Proud Are You?

(Mrs. Armstrong is a healthy young matron with an unusual amount of common sense. She enters the drug store and Miss Grey, an attractive and amiable clerk, catches sight of her.)

MISS GREY—"Good Morning, Mrs. Armstrong. What shall it be—some really nice soap? We've got a new—"

MRS. ARMSTRONG—"No, Miss Grey—I've done nothing but buy soap for the past month, it seems. We ought to be a very clean family. No, I want two bottles of Nujol, please."

"Oh—that's at the other counter, Mrs. Armstrong. This is only toilet goods, you know."

"That's why I came right here, Miss Grey. You have soap and tooth paste and cold cream and wash-cloths in this show case—every single thing to keep our precious 'outsides' clean and fresh. But our precious 'insides' must go along as best they can until some fine day they give up—and then we cry for a doctor."

(Mrs. Armstrong turns toward another counter)

(Miss Grey, nodding assent) "I'm afraid we pay the price of vanity, Mrs. Armstrong."

(Mrs. Armstrong, turning back) "Pay the price! I've been through it all and I'd no more think of forgetting my tablespoonful of Nujol than I would my bath or my tooth brush. Two years ago I had a lesson. Just before my little girl was born I think I had every kind of constipation a woman can have. Of course I had to try all the 'cure' laxatives there were advertised—pills, and salts, and tabloids and mineral waters. They were so violent, and I found they were weakening me—I needed a stronger dose every time. I almost drove the doctor crazy. And then he took matters into his own hands."

"How, Mrs. Armstrong?"

"He came in one day after I had had one of my 'spells' and said:

'Mrs. Armstrong, you're only poisoning yourself. Your body is not getting rid of your food waste properly. It gets just as far as your lower intestines—your "colon"—and there it stops, and decays. The body absorbs about four-fifths of the water in the food through your colon walls, and that water is carrying disease germs all through your system because you aren't getting rid of that poisonous waste. That's where almost all disease starts.'

"'Those remedies' you've been taking are 'drug medicines', Mrs. Armstrong. They act quickly and they act hard, and the more you take the more you're going to need. Now I'm going to put you on a new treatment—it's called the Nujol treatment. You've got a double responsibility now, and you've got to be gaining strength, not losing it.'"

"What effect did it have, Mrs. Armstrong?"

"None—at first. I was disappointed, because there weren't any results for two days. Then I began to be regular as clockwork."

"Why that's wonderful, Mrs. Armstrong. Did you—"

"It is wonderful. The doctor says the reason is simply that Nujol not only softens the waste matter, and so makes your system function more easily, but it lines the intestines with a film that makes the food pass smoothly—no friction, you see? It doesn't upset the digestion and leave you feeling hollow, as pills do, it's harmless, and its gentle and sure, and delightfully clear."

"It sounds like such a reasonable way to treat your system, Mrs. Armstrong."

"That's it. I don't mind telling you privately that I'm just as proud of a clean system as I am of a clean face. And a clean system means a clean face, Miss Grey."

(Mrs. Armstrong makes her purchase and leaves the store. She has been gone about ten minutes when Miss Grey approaches the proprietor with a petitioning smile and the following remark—)

"Mr. Wilkinson—will you make me a special employee's price on a bottle of Nujol?"

For your own protection insist that the druggist give you the genuine Nujol, in a sealed and capped bottle, bearing the Nujol trademark in red—never otherwise. Inferior substitutes may give unpleasant results. Nujol is absolutely pure and harmless. At all druggists in the U. S. and Canada.

Send 50 cents and we will ship new kit size bottle to U. S. soldiers and sailors anywhere.

Write for attractive free booklet on the Nujol treatment. Section 5, Nujol Dept., Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey), Bayonne, N. J.
