

ROADS IN FRANCE WONDERFUL, SAYS OREGON SOLDIER

Roman Highways Built in Tenth Century Have Grades as Perfect as Those of Later Date.

SHERIDAN YOUTH WORKS

Labor Troubles in United States Cause Smiles Among Men in Army in France, He Writes.

"The old Roman roads here are a wonderful piece of highway engineering," writes Fayes Hodges of Sheridan, Or., to his relatives here. Hodges is with the American expeditionary forces in France. His letter continues:

"When you stop to think that they were built in the tenth century, before modern instruments, such as levels and transit, were thought of, you wonder how they could possibly lay them out so perfectly. There is one road near here that I have walked over nearly every week, which runs from our camp to a little village about the size of Sheridan and climbs a hill about three kilometers long. The grade from the top to the bottom is so evenly distributed along the 400 feet that it rises that you can not help but think that the engineer who built it must have had some sort of aneroid to find the elevation to which he must climb in order to know what grade to use to reach the highest point of destination.

Roads Are All Well Marked

"These roads are all built for military purposes, the same as the old towns, and are on the highest points possible. They are very well cared for and it is impossible to get lost on them if you will watch the markings closely. There is a large marking stone each kilometer, or five eighths of a mile, showing the distance to each town both ways from the post, and between each of the large posts there are 10 smaller ones, which cut the kilometer into 10 equal parts. All are being marked with the fraction. Where the roads cross, if there is not a building handy, which there usually is, they put up a large stone slab and on it they put everything from latitude and longitude to the next driving point, which won't be but a few feet away.

"As for the French being far behind in agricultural implements, they surely are, but when you stop to think that the farms are so very small you can see why the machines we use in the states would not be practical for these people.

Labor Troubles Cause Smile

"Yes, I have had some experiences with the stumps in this country and I will say that the work is very hard. I have worked every day since I have been over here and I think the same is true of all the Amex forces, and I expect to continue to do the same as long as I am able or till the war is won. I have no kick going, for I know I wasn't going on any vacation when I came over here. It makes us boys smile when we read of the strikes and kicks the laborers are making over home. What they need is a hitch at the army over here.

"The personnel of this regiment (the Tenth) is very high and I am working every day with men who are college graduates of the best schools in the country and demanded good salaries there. Today they run a pick and shovel for 10 hours a day at a salary of $33 per month, and you don't hear a holler from them unless they are kicking because they can not get into the first line trenches."

Several interested friends of the same name are trying to locate the family of Sergeant J. Montgomery, who is with the Sixty-fifth artillery, Second battalion, American Expeditionary Forces.

He has written a number of letters to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Montgomery, addressing them Portland, Or., and the letters have gone the round of the Montgomery families of Portland. Dr. Montgomery, with offices in The Journal building, has tried repeatedly to locate the relatives but without success, and on returning the letters to the post-office has found that several are there in the dead letter office. Dr. Montgomery's office again received a letter from him Thursday and is renewing his efforts to locate a Mr. and Mrs. A. Montgomery.

4200 PERSONS TO BE NAMED JUNE 28 IN W. S. S. DRIVE

City Is Divided Into 13 Sectors and Campaign Will Be Carried Out in One Day, Present Plan.

CARDS TO BE SENT VOTERS

180 Students of the Lincoln High School Will Address Cards Bearing W. S. S. Information.

If the plans of Frank McCrillis, general manager of the W. S. S. drive in Portland for June 28, are carried out as now being formed, he will need the services of 4200 people for that day. That the necessary number will be available there is no doubt.

Mr. McCrillis has divided the city into 13 sectors, and over each sector he will appoint a colonel and a lieutenant-colonel. The 13 sectors will embrace the 378 precincts of the city. Each precinct will be assigned a certain territory, consisting of a few blocks, so that all the town can be canvassed in the one day. By Monday or Tuesday Mr. McCrillis will be prepared to announce the names of his colonels and their respective sectors.

Ira Riggs has volunteered as the assistant to McCrillis during the drive.

Temple to Be Headquarters

Headquarters of the War Savings Stamps officials will be established in Liberty temple Monday, and the staff will remain there until July 1. When the W. S. S. managers are settled in the temple Mrs. W. F. Norman will be in charge of both there to sell the stamps. Mrs. Norman will select her own corps of assistants. At all times there will be $1000 worth of War Savings Stamps on sale at the booth. Miss Harriet Cumming has volunteered her services to George W. Caldwell, chairman of the speakers' bureau, and Miss Cumming will move into the Liberty temple Monday morning. Mr. Caldwell is now compiling his list of speakers and arranging to have talks on War Savings Stamps at every possible occasion. Captain Tempier-Powell, the British officer assigned to help in the drive, will make his last appearance in Portland at the members' meeting Monday. He will leave for Seattle Monday night, although the W. S. S. committee in Seattle has been telegraphing to send the veteran to that city not later than Monday afternoon. Captain Tempier-Powell returned this morning from Bend, where he spoke at the bankers' convention.

Pupils to Address Cards

All the road supervisors in Multnomah county will meet Monday evening at the courthouse, where they will receive their supplies and instructions from Henry D. Reed, chairman of the Third congressional district, and from A. A. Muck, who is manager for Multnomah county outside of Portland. Professor T. T. Davis, principal of the Lincoln high school, has arranged to have 180 pupils of that school attend to the addressing of 95,000 postal cards which are to be sent to the registered voters of the county. The pupils will report Friday at the school, where they will be provided with the postal cards and the poll books of the precincts. Each postal card contains the name of a registered voter, the name of the precinct, and the name of the road supervisor. The information of President Wilson and some information relative to the War Savings Stamps. Other counties will follow a similar program and call for volunteers to address the cards.

SEVEN INDICTED FOR CONSPIRACY

Treason and Spying Are Charged in Plot Involving Baroness de Victorica and Others.

New York, June 8.—(I. N. S.)—Jeremiah A. O'Leary was indicted late Friday by a federal grand jury for conspiracy to commit treason. The Baroness Marie de Victorica, reported to be related to Kaiser Wilhelm, was indicted on a charge of being a German spy. John T. Ryan, a Buffalo lawyer, and Willard Robinson, O'Leary's chauffeur, were indicted on the same count as was O'Leary. Lieutenant Commander Karl Rodiger of the German navy was charged with being a spy and Albert Claude Fricke, former auditor of the Hamburg-American line of steamers, and Emile Kilper were charged with complicity in a plot.

Baroness Victorica was in court, together with Fricke, Rodiger and Robinson, to plead to the indictment. They denied any guilt and all were held without bail by Judge Hand. O'Leary, who jumped his bail on another indictment, is a fugitive from justice.

The persons indicted were named as being concerned in an amazing plot to plant bombs on piers and ships laden with supplies for the allies. During a period of more than a year large sums of money were said to have been dispensed by Fricke as paymaster. Sums of from $1000 to $5000 were declared to have been paid every few days from April 16, 1917, to March, 1918.

The German foreign office was alleged in the indictment to have maintained Baroness Victorica and Rodiger in America since January, 1917, when they arrived in this country.

The largest steamship ever built for the French merchant marine, 444 feet long and of 12,000 tons carrying capacity, recently was launched at Bunkirk.

Highway Bond Issue of $690,000 Allowed

Washington, June 8.—(WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE JOURNAL.)—The capital issues committee has approved an issue of road bonds by the Oregon state highway commission to the extent of $690,000.

Confirmation of the above dispatch was received today by Chairman Benson of the state highway commission from Senator McNary.

"Capital issues committee say after meeting of committee yesterday they decided to allow $690,000 for immediate use on the $1,500,000 bond issue of the Oregon state highway commission."

From the language of Senator McNary's telegram it was inferred that the committee would give further consideration to the issuance of the remainder of the amount asked for by the state highway commission, $810,000. Whether the highway commission will in view of existing conditions ask for the remainder is a question for future decision.

"With the $690,000 allowed," said Chairman Benson today, "the commission will have available sufficient funds to finish and conserve the work already in progress. We will be very cautious about taking up any new projects."

ANOTHER WAR IS PLAN OF GERMANY

Questionnaire Sent Out Asks the Workers if They Are Prepared to Serve Again.

Washington, June 8.—(I. N. S.)—New conclusive evidence that Imperial Germany is planning for another war has fallen into the hands of the allies. A report of the contents of a new questionnaire sheet sent to all Germans who have volunteered for relief work for the duration of the war has been received here and shows that Germany already is recruiting war workers for another war.

The charitable workers are requested to fill out the questionnaire and return it to the government. Emphasis is placed upon filling in an answer to the question, "Are you prepared to undertake the same service from today on wards for the next war?"

Allied agents have found from time to time that Germany was overlooking no opportunity to develop resources which are necessary to war making. No documentary evidence to support this belief, however, had been found until a copy of the German questionnaire to the volunteers in war relief work was obtained by a daring French agent.

In view of the representations to the pope by the Imperial German government that disarmament and a league of nations was a part of the German peace program, it is understood that the question sheet circulated by the Imperial German bureau would be laid before the Vatican.

Purchase of Keno Plant Is Opposed

Klamath Falls, June 8.—That the city of Klamath Falls is not able financially to accept the offer of the Keno Power company to sell its power and light plant, was the opinion submitted in a report by the committee to which the matter had been referred by the council.

The Keno company was granted a franchise right to enter Klamath Falls in competition with the California-Oregon Power company more than a year ago, and the company now has its lines installed to the outskirts of the city. Extended litigation has been in progress between the new company and the California-Oregon Power company.

Klamath Falls, June 8.—A fourth band saw has been put into operation at the plant of the Chelsea Lumber & Box company on Lake Ewauna, south of the city, according to announcement by officials of the company. The company, which began operations here less than a year ago, now has a force of between 50 and 60 employees. Orders are being received more rapidly than they can be filled.

At a recent meeting of the stockholders, the capital stock of the concern was increased from $50,000 to $100,000.
