

COLONEL LEADER IN PORTLAND TO RECEIVE CAMP APPLICATIONS

300 Western Americans Wanted for Training at University of Oregon.

Three hundred western Americans are wanted for the officers' training camp, to open at the University of Oregon August 5, for a four week course. Colonel John Leader is in Portland this week to receive applications, and may be seen in the forenoon Saturday at the Portland hotel.

No qualifications other than physical fitness and an education that will permit of the grasping of the training to be given are required. Previous military experience is not an asset, Colonel Leader says. Age limits are 18 to 46, but in exceptional cases older men may be taken.

The camp is taking twice as many men as at the previous one, Governor Withycombe having requested Colonel Leader to open the school to as many men as possible. Upon completion of the course, successful candidates will be sent to one of the three central officers' training camps, where they will have a chance to obtain a commission. Officers are badly wanted, and any man has a splendid chance, by application, to obtain a commission through this method.

At the school to begin next month, there will be a musketry course, ammunition having been secured for the target practice from the government. There will be machine gun practice, too, and a course will be given in gas attacks.
