Cattle of Quality Sought

While depression is general and low prices are in effect for "junk" cattle, a large per cent of the Western Oregon offerings at this time being in that class, the situation in the North Portland trade for really worth while cattle could agarcely be improved for this time of the season. This was clearly indicated at a late hour Thursday when a carload of steers—with only two cutouts—sold at $12.50 without a whinter from the packer-buyer.
