

Green Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER
Published every day, afternoon and morning...
Entered at the postoffice at Portland, Oregon...

It is for us, the living, rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work...

THE CASUALTY LISTS

THE lengthened casualty lists are beginning to come. The actualities of war are being brought to many a home.

Nor is it alone the bereaved homes that are touched by these rolls of the fallen. The whole nation lays its sympathy on the hearthstone of every saddened household.

We all tried for long to avert these sacrifices. Hoping against hope, we remained out of this conflict, submitting to insult, enduring the destruction of American lives and property.

Our president, with a heart full of concern for the lives and welfare of the young men of this land and for the ties in every home in this land, kept us out of the conflict until contumely and opprobrium were cast upon him by some of his own countrymen.

Like death, the National Woman's party loves a shining mark. It lays the blame for the delay in adopting the suffrage amendment on the president's shoulders, though he has come out squarely for their cause.

On the Marne and the Alsne they have made their record. It is new and matchless history.

looked upon the hobo as a hopeless idler who wouldn't work. More progress has been made by the accident of war in salvaging hundreds of thousands of them to productive usefulness than was made by the efforts of reformers in a generation.

COUNTING THEIR DEAD

GERMAN news dispatches say: Prince Henry of Prussia, while speaking at Hamburg, deplored the German discouragement at the present time, and denounced those who took this attitude as traitors and panic sowers.

WHAT THE KRUPPS THINK

THE Zeitung, a Westphalia paper, asks, "If Paris were to be blotted out would anything be lost?" That is, of course, anything worth while.

THE GREAT AIM

LOYD GEORGE has captivated the people of England with a speech in which he says that "Prussianism must be beaten until it is impossible for it to rise."

AN IDEA

THIS is a good season for pears and apples. Pear trees in particular are overlaid. It is a joyous sight to see their bending branches with the fruit already looking big and tempting.

Home canning on the farm will dispose of many pears. But there is sure to be a surplus, as in most other years.

America, full of realization of the importance of spreading confidence among the Russians regarding the purposes of the United States, Mr. Galvani would be an eminently fit choice for any commission the American government may intend to send to Russia.

Wicked old San Francisco is joined to its bottle like Ephraim to its idols. The Bay City just simply can not find it in its heart to interfere with the operations of its bootleggers who peddle out booze to Uncle Sam's troops.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Foretells Germany's Doom
Portland, Aug. 4.—To the Editor of The Journal—Germany would be better off if she would lay down her arms to-day and accept the peace terms.

The Price of Fuel
Portland, Aug. 2.—To the Editor of The Journal—I wish to say a word in reply to Fred J. Holmes' statement that our $5 a day groceries in April were $3.50.

A Primary Election Mixup
Butteville, Or., Aug. 3.—To the Editor of The Journal—It has developed that a strange political mix-up occurred at the late primary election in Marion county.

Himes Leaves for South
George H. Himes will leave Thursday morning for Coos Bay, where he will receive a paper before the state editorial convention on the history of the first newspapers south of Salem.

The Russian Commission
His friends in Oregon, Washington and elsewhere are urging William H. Galvani for a place on the proposed economic commission to Russia.

Personal Mention
Himes Leaves for South
George H. Himes will leave Thursday morning for Coos Bay, where he will receive a paper before the state editorial convention on the history of the first newspapers south of Salem.

COMMENT AND NEWS IN BRIEF

SMALL CHANGE
Today's best joke: Von Hertling's peace talk.
The Tanks will make hamburger of Hindenburg.

OREGON SIDELIGHTS
"Three weeks ago," says the Corvallis Courier, "a Benton county farmer planted his potatoes in the usual way."

Letters From the People
Foretells Germany's Doom
Portland, Aug. 4.—To the Editor of The Journal—Germany would be better off if she would lay down her arms to-day and accept the peace terms.

JOURNAL MAN ABROAD

By Fred Lockley
Portland, Aug. 2.—To the Editor of The Journal—I wish to say a word in reply to Fred J. Holmes' statement that our $5 a day groceries in April were $3.50.

How to Be Healthy
By Dr. Woods Hutchinson, Former Portland Physician
The Children's Year (No. 3)—So successful has prenatal work already proved that in some European countries the death rate during the first month of child life has been cut down in the most astonishing manner.

Olden Oregon
How a Pioneer Editor Gave Proof of Easy Resourcefulness
The Oregon Spectator was enlarged to 24 columns in 1848, and Aaron E. Waite became the editor.

Journal Travel Bureau Notes
Rate Inducements Are Still Offered Summer Excursionists
While no cheap summer tourist round trip tickets have been placed in effect this year, special round trip rates have been established.

Ragtag and Bobtail

Stories From Everywhere
Mighty Queer Place for a Snake
J. H. HARRIS of Harris Canyon had an experience with a rattlesnake that he will never forget.

A Tooth for a Tooth
Jimmy wanted his tooth after it had been pulled, says a sturdy dentist who wrapped it up in paper and gave it to him.

Hoovering in a Penitentiary
"Some more beans?"
"No, thank you."
"Really not? Oh, do have a couple more—have one more."

Justifying the Hun Defeat
Last Friday night Joseph, says the Herald of a recent issue, was awakened by a shouting, howling bunch of people who wanted to know why he had not known that there had been a big allied victory in France.

Mandy's Barrage
A southern judge, the San Francisco Argonaut says, was up against a tough opposition when Mandy, an old black servant of the family, who had retired from active service, was arraigned for disturbing the peace.

Uncle Jeff Snow Says:
It "pears like to me that we the people has about got around to where we started forty or forty years in regulatin' these here laws and regulations."

How a Pioneer Editor Gave Proof of Easy Resourcefulness
The Oregon Spectator was enlarged to 24 columns in 1848, and Aaron E. Waite became the editor.

Journal Travel Bureau Notes
Rate Inducements Are Still Offered Summer Excursionists
While no cheap summer tourist round trip tickets have been placed in effect this year, special round trip rates have been established.

Journal Travel Bureau Notes
Rate Inducements Are Still Offered Summer Excursionists
While no cheap summer tourist round trip tickets have been placed in effect this year, special round trip rates have been established.