"Kandalaska is south of Kola, on the

I have seen no dispatches anywhere that American troops are at Kandalaska, and so far as I know there are none there." He said whenever American troops arrive at Murmansk, and the facts are reported to the war department, he would release them for publication. The question of the command of the inter-allied troops in Siberia will be settled, it was said informally, in much the same manner as was the selection of General Foch as supreme commander on the west front.

There is no present indication of undue haste in any particular with regard to our plans in Siberia, nor will there be any," said General March.

YOUTHS RUSH MARRIAGE

Eight young men now below draft age but who will be compelled to register under the proposed new draft law, have taken out marriage licenses during the past week. This rush to the bureau by minors gives rise to the suspicion among county officials that some may be seeking to evade the draft, as was done prior to the registration in June

According to Deputy Clerk McGrew many other boys of 18 to 21 have applied for licenses within the past 10 days, but have been refused. Those to whom licenses have been granted secured the consent of their parents.

U. OF O. CIVILIAN CAMP TO RUN CONTINUOUSLY FOR DURATION OF WAR

Many Fit Candidates for Central Officers' Training Camp Needed; 30-Day Period Provided.

Eugene, Or., Aug. 8.—Civilian camps, such as the one now in session on the campus, are to be continued in rapid sequence during the entire duration of the war at the University of Oregon, it was announced at military headquarters at the University Wednesday, following a conference between Colonel John Leader, Colonel William H. C. Bowen, and other university officials and Alma D. Katz of Portland, civilian aide to Adjutant General McCain, and state chairman of the Military Training Camps association.

The decision to continue the camps indefinitely comes as the result of the plea of the war department for an unlimited number of trained and fit men to enter the central officers' training camps to try for commissions in the great national army to be recruited through the draft in the coming few camps will run continuously with intervals of only a few days between them. Because the regular session of the university takes up October, and the quarters now occupied by the men in the training camp will be needed for the regular students, enrollment in the future camps will be limited to 100 or 150, because of the lack of housing facilities, unless some arrangements for additional housing facilities can be made, Colonel Leader announced this evening.

Thirty-Day Period Provided Each of the camps will cover a 30day period to accommodate business men who do not feel that they can spare more than that time away from their affairs, but provision is to be made to allow men finishing one camp to go on into the next for advanced training, if they desire.

Mr. Katz, who, in his capacity as civilian aide to the adjutant general, is receiving applications for the central officers' training camps and examining applicants in Portland, came to Eugene this morning to confer with Colonel Bowen and Colonel Leader regarding the work of securing applicants for the central camps and to inspect the camp
