By Fred S. Ferguson With the Americans on the Aisne. Sept. 7 .- (U. P.) -- Heavy smoke lining the plateau between the Vesle and the Aisne and the increasing noise of the guns today gave evidence of stiffening erman resistance. The enemy is fighting hard at certain spots, especially along the right of the line, where the Americans have not yet reached the river. Overcoming the Booke attempts to make a stand, the Americans and French are pushing on toward the Aisne.

A dozen villages are now in our hands. including Fismette, Bazoches, Baslieux, Vauxcere, Blanzy, Longueval, Revillon, Merval, Serval, Barbonval, Villers-En-Prayeres and Glennes. After the Americans took these towns they pushed on In each case enemy machine gun squads attempted to hold up our troops, but these were cleaned up by the infantry with the artillery closely following to hell any troublesome strongholds the down east of Glennes Friday afternoon and the Yankees attacked to speed up the German withdrawal. Apparently the enemy is getting artillery established along the line Hindenburg expects to hold, as shell fire has materially increased. Strong machine gun nests also guard the line of the canal, which cuts across the terrain between the Aisne and the Vesle, along which the American advance elements are pushing the foe.

Boches might leave behind. Artillery Moved Far Back heavy American barrage was laid

German observation balloons have now been pulled back four miles beyond the Aisne and their artillery firing, despite its increased intensity, comes from a greater distance back Reports from the French and Ameri-

The aerial observing squadron was cited by the American corps commander for brilliant work in the present operations. Observers, constantly risking their lives, flew over the German lines and carried back messages regarding the movements there. These observation planes were frequently attacked by German fighting planes. Lieutenant Bagby of Missouri shot down one Boche when attacked by eight and eluded the others. Lieutenant Wagner was attacked by three Germans, but escaped. On every trip over the enemy lines the observers were set upon, but they continued the struggle in order to keep headquarters supplied with the necessary information. In addition to harrassing American observers, the Hun fliers shot down two allied balloons. Hun Strength Is Reduced

Prisoners taken so far are all from divisions which have been facing Pershing's troops for some time, including the Fourth division of the Prussian Prisoners declare the combat strength of their companies had been reduced to 50 rifles and six machine guns. Replacements are being made from the younger elements in the new drafts. As I stood on the heights overlooking the plateau between the Vesle and Aisne, everything in sight gave evidence of increased German resistance. Constant lines of smoke marked the path of shells breaking on the plateau sending up vast columns of black vapors from high explosives, while shrapnel above made strings of puffy white balls in the sky. Towns, which a month ago were centers of military activity, are now deserted by the fighters and civfiians are returning to them.

General Pershing has withheld the records of 20,000 slight casualties in the expeditionary forces that occurred up to August 20, General Peyton C. March, chief of staff, told representatives of the press at his semi-weekly conference today.

These casualties were withheld under authority vested in the commander-inshief in the early days of the war, General Marsh said, in announcing plans that have been made by the war department to secure the complete hospital records of all the overseas forces.

The leading article in THE LITERARY DIGEST this week—September 7th —is accompanied by a helpful Map which shows the present Hindenburg line, and also clearly indicates the line behind it at the River Meuse, which, in the opinion of experts, will be where the Germans will make their new stand. It also shows the territory the American troops are holding in Alsace, Lorraine, and along the Vesle, including cities, rivers, etc. .

One subject of paramount interest holds today the first place in the hearts and minds of the fathers and mothers of America and of the millions of anxious women here at home, the wives, sisters, and sweethearts of the gallant fellows who have gone "over there." It is the question of how the "boys in brown" are faring on the battlefields of France, what they are doing, whether they are making good and holding their own successfully against the on-slaughts of the Teuton. The one sure way to get this information in an accurate and comprehensive form is to read from week to week in THE LITER-ARY DIGEST the exact facts regarding our men abroad, their movements, their various activities, their share of the fighting, and the measures that are being taken for their comfort and support - facts that drawn from all the authoritative sources and that may be accepted without question, forming a continuous history of our part in the war that is well worth preserving.
